INTER-AMERICAN MEET

Kennedy Pledges Increased Help To Latin Nations

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay, (UPI) — President Kennedy in a message to the opening session of the inter-American conference here Saturday urged Latin American countries to help themselves through far-reaching tax and land reforms.

In warning that reforms must be stopped the President also promised "Greatly increased" United States help for Latin America.

The message was to the inter-American economic and social conference secretary.

The President called the conference a "proving ground for the vitality of freedom in the affairs of man."

Kennedy in reviewing his "alliance for progress" proposals said all the countries in the hemisphere must "make new efforts of unparalleled magnitude" to cope with current problems.

CAREFUL PLANS

He said the job calls for careful national planning by developing nations, expanded exports markets, closer economic integration in Latin America, more market stability for major products and increased resources for economic development.

"And it means full recognition of the right of all the people to share fully in our progress," he said.

He said progress must not benefit only a few and deny benefits to most people.

"The alliance for progress also means a greatly increased effort by the United States both in terms of material resources and deeper comprehension of the basic needs of Latin America," he said.

The President reminded that the United States is alloting more than $1 billion for development aid to Latin America. He described this program as "the first

Brazen Radio Blast Aimed At DeGaulle

Right-Wingers Grab Control Of Transmitter

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Right - wing extremists broadcast Saturday a brazen 28 - minute attack against French President Charles de Gaulle on Radio Algiers' wavelength and sent their sympathizers into brief but noisy rapture.

Rightists rushed to answer broadcast pleas to place their radios on their balconies. Military music and political harangues blared out while automobiles honked out the five-stroke "Alger-ie Fran-caise" (Algeria is French) slogan of the right-wing settlers.

Shocked police rolled out reinforcements after hearing the broadcast call: "Rise Frenchmen! We shall stay in our Algeria."

TANKS MOVE

Tanks lumbered into position near the Palais d'Ete and troops were sped to the admiralty and the central police station.

But everything appeared normal at Radio Algiers. It was some time before authorities learned that the station's electric cables had been cut and the rightists, with perfect timing had gone on the air over the radio's wavelength. Officials said the broadcast was made over a secret transmitter.

The broadcast was in behalf of the European settlers' secret army which vows to keep Algeria French and claims credit for

Passman Says Offer Dangled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Otto Passman, a long - time critic of foreign aid, charged Saturday the Kennedy administration offered to drop its controversial long - range foreign aid financing plan if he would resign as chairman of a subcommittee which handles part of the bill.

Passman, D-La., said he would not quit.

At Hyannis Port, where President Kennedy was spending the weekend, associate press secretary Andrew Hatcher said "no one at the White House" has ever heard of the alleged offer.

Passman mentioned the matter while his House foreign aid appropriations subcommittee was questioning Secretary of State Dean Rusk last June 29 about Kennedy's foreign aid bill. The testimony was made public Saturday.

He told Rusk that "a very able member of Congress came to me and said, 'I will tell you how you can please the department and save a lot of trouble in the future.'

"He said, 'two representatives of the ICA (International cooperation Administration came to me and said, 'If Mr. Passman will resign his chairmanship, we will withdraw our request for long-term aid."

Passman said in an interview with UPI that the German Reds Use Violence On Refugees

All Efforts In Vain As Flow Goes On

BERLIN (AP) — Refugees from East Germany flocked into West Berlin Saturday, although Communist authorities used violence on the sector border, threats and propaganda to try to check the flow.

West Berlin authorities reported a workman who tried to cross into East Berlin Saturday morning was badly beaten by Communist people's police. It was believed he was taking a short cut to work in another part of West Berlin.

An Austrian citizen complained to Western police that the Reds hauled him off an elevated train and accused him of helping a German couple to flee. He said they let him go after hours of questioning, but kept his wallet, money and suitcase.

RECORD WAVE

A record wave of refugees was expected over the weekend — always a peak time. West German authorities announced 10,419 had registered in refugee camps in the seven days ended Friday. By noon Saturday, another 1,100 were taken in at Marienfelde camp in West Berlin alone.

Walter Ulbricht, head of the East German Communist regime, is in Moscow and it is believed he is trying to get Soviet permission to halt the flow of refugees.

Communist police were ordered to grant permission for visits to the West "only in especially urgent cases." A police instruction that fell into Western hands said permits should not be given to people whose relatives have fled. It specified that when a death in the family was given as a reason, permission should be granted only when the police are certain that the visitor would not stay in the West.

Last year, officials estimated, over 47,000 people who got permits failed to return to Communist rule.

Allies Want To Negotiate From Power

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Four foreign ministers decided to turn to their north Atlantic allies for backing Saturday in their first attack on the mounting Berlin crisis.

In a session lasting 3 hours and 20 minutes, the ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany explored the creeping restrictions being placed on West Berlin by the Communist East German regime. They agreed to approach their North Atlantic Treaty Organization partners with recommendations to build up Western alliance forces.

An American spokesman said Secretary of state Dean Rusk, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano reviewed recommendations to be made to NATO.

Other sources said the four major powers want NATO's 21½ divisions brought up to full strength —an addition of as many as 75,000 to 80,000 men, plus more equipment, weapons and transport.

A long-range objective is to raise the NATO shield to 30 divisions.

The four ministers convened in search of a formula that would encourage negotiations with the Soviet Union while still preserving their rights in Berlin and the freedom of 2.5 million West Berliners.

But diplomatic informants said the first task was to establish a solid posture on Berlin and Germany as well—making certain that Soviet Premier Khrushchev

Some See Cuts In Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Congressional supporters of President Kennedy's programs say privately a moderate cutback in non-military domestic spending plans may soon be inevitable.

They think Kennedy may have to make such a concession to win Congressional approval of anything approaching his request for $8.8-billion long-range foreign-aid loan authority, now the administrations No. 1 legislative project. Such a concession also might help salvage the Presidents interim tax program, now in trouble in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Any reductions in outlays in such fields as housing, for example, might be announced as postponements rather than cutbacks and would be carefully calculated. Ever since Kennedy asked for an additional $3.5 billion for defense, Republicans have been demanding outright abandonment of some Kennedy domestic programs. Any move in that direction would, of course, make political capital for them.

Moreover, the administration to all appearances is counting heavily on a business boom this year and next and wants to gear its fiscal policies to stimulation, not deflation.

From the viewpoint of legislative strategy, the development of the Berlin crisis could not have been timed much worse for the administration. It forced Kennedy to go to the people and to Congress with his plea for more funds for conventional weapons just as the foreign-aid program, always vulnerable and tougher to pass than ever this year because of the new five-year borrowing feature, was moving toward debate in both houses.

It is taken as fact on Capitol Hill now that only blunt advice from friendly Congressional sour-

Indian Grave Yields Coins

MARKSVILLE, La. (AP) — A small box, unearthed in an Indian grave near here, was opened Saturday by an LSU archeology team.

They found eight coins, a number of glass beads and a number of small personal items in the box. They also found a 5-franc piece, dated 1813; six Spanish 20-centavo pieces, three of them dated 1832 and the others dated 1803, 1810 and 1818, and one American 50-cent piece dated 1827. Also in the box were a powder horn, knife handle, copper pins for dresses, fragment of an old cane basket, four metal bracelets, belt buckle, straight razor blades and rouge and a tablespoon.

FILIBUSTER FIGHT

Southern Solons Set Secret Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret meeting of Southern senators has been called for Monday morning, reportedly to man strategy for the forthcoming battle over the Senate's filibuster rule.

Notices have gone out of a 10 a.m. meeting in the office of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., long the leader of the Dixie forces in their stands against civil rights measures. Similar strategy sessions have preceded other Senate battles over this issue.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., is committed to giving the Senate a chance before adjournment to vote on a rule change intended to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

Advocates of a rules change contend this is needed to pave the way for passage of civil rights legislation next year.

BATTLE SET

Just when the issue will be joined still is up in the air, but it could touch off a fight that would dash present hopes for adjournment by Labor Day or soon thereafter.

Mansfield, who also is chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, told a reporter Saturday he has not yet set a date for hearings on proposals to revise the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators present and voting to halt a filibuster.

"I want to get what I can of the President's program out of the way first," he said.

Mansfield is backing a proposal that would permit filibusters to be halted by the vote of three-fifths of the senators, or 60 of the 100 members.

Clerk Dies In LaSalle; Rites Set

Eugent, who was serving his fifth term as court clerk, had been ill for several months.

He was a native of Summerville near Jena, and a graduate of Northwestern State College, then Northwestern Normal College.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church of Jena with the Rev. A. G. Taylor officiating. Burial will be in Nolley Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Kinner and Stevens Funeral Home of Jena.

His survivors include his widow, Mrs. Martha Eugent, Jena; a daughter, Mrs. Marene Melvin, Jena; two sons, Ray Edward, of Gretna and Joe D. Nugent, Jena; three sisters, Mrs. R. B. Cockerham, Summerville, Mrs. Sallie Cockerham, Jonesville, and Mrs. J. L. Sills, Clarks; and five grandchildren.

JFK Names First Negro For Judge

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy has decided to name the first Negro in history to the United States District Court bench.

The appointment will go to James Benton Parsons, now a Cook County (Chicago) judge.

Informed sources said Saturday Parsons' appointment will be announced formally next week.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher declined to make a formal announcement.

But he did say that Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, Rep. William Dawson, D-Ill., a Chicago Negro, and Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., "think Judge Parsons would make a good United States district judge."

"Judge Parsons is under consideration," Hatcher added.

There never has been a Negro federal district judge in the continential United States.

Four Negroes have been judges in the predominantly Negro Virgin Islands, but judges there are LEGION CONVENTION

Truman Doesn't Trust Red Boss

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman told the Kansas American Legion convention two things Saturday in plain "GI" language:

1. He doesn't trust Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

2. The nation's young people today "are the finest citizens in the making that this country has ever had."

Truman used tough words in referring to both Khrushchev and Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Khrushchev, Truman said, "is just as bad—or good, depending on how you want to look at it—as Stalin.

"His word just isn't worth anything. He'll make promises, then go back to Russia and pull the rug out from under you.

"And we've got another one down here in Cuba that is just as bad."

Truman praised President Kennedy as the man "who has done more to put that good-for-nothing Khrushchev where he belongs."

When Truman urged that legion leaders go to the high schools in their communities "and talk to these youngsters about our government—about what they have and what they've got to do to keep it," a legionnaire shouted: "Depend on me, Harry."

Truman said he has found that young people "ask intelligent questions—they want to know."

Truman told a news conference before his speech that "one of these days the airline planes in Cuba will be paid for, and interest in addition, but I've got no solution for it now."

Truman received from Dr. G. Warren Hargreaves, Junction City, Kan., legion commander, a Kansas Centennial medallion "from your neighbors to the west."

CIA Head's Work Could Be Divided

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration was reported Saturday to be developing detailed plans for reorganization of the machinery by which the United States gathers and evaluates cold war espionage information. One result may be to split up work now done by Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen Dulles.

Some of President Kennedy's advisers have proposed to take away from the CIA responsibility for preparing basic intelligence reports on world troublespots and give that authority to any separate agency.

Some advisers also have urged that the responsibility for coordinating all government intelligence activities should be divorced from supervising operations of the worldwide CIA staff.

Officials reported that a basic decision already has been made that any overt overseas operations of a military nature should be taken out of CIA's hands. It is understood that the Defense Department objected to taking over such activities in the wake of the U.S.-supported invasion of Cuba last April. But present administration thinking is that responsibility for large-scale paramilitary operations should go to the Pentagon.

Indications are that Kennedy would like Dulles' successor to be a New York lawyer, Fowler Hamilton, who has had government experience. During World War II he was concerned with enemy ac-

'Win, Or Fight' Says Goldwater

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Saturday night that a cold war victory over the Communists is entirely possible if we have a properly integrated strategy which aims at victory.

"Our choice," said Goldwater, "is not yield, or fight a nuclear war. It is; win, or fight a nuclear war."

Goldwater said he had been challenged by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to explain what victory in the cold war means, how we could achieve it and what we would do with it after we won it.

He said Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "believes that victory in the cold war is impossible, that we must coexist with an alien ideological power which is using every device at its command to overwhelm us, and that one of the means towards coexistence is aggressive compromise."

Goldwater said a cold war victory over the Communists won't be easy "because we have lost too much valuable time and too many gloden opportunities.

"Those who argue against any use of strength, against any military risk, against any unilateral action," he said, "fail to understand that political victory in the cold war is the only way to avoid a strictly military solution of the East-West crisis.

"A shooting war can only be avoided by winning the cold war," said Goldwater.

We don't know just how well A&X Music Co., one of the teams in the Southside Little League, is doing on the field but the level of their morale probably was never better.

The whole team was treated to a big wiener roast at Bernstein late last week and, according to Coach Ike McMullen the spirit was as high as the sky. Assistant Coach Robert McMullen, Ike's brother, agreed.

Marshmallows and watermelons also were on the menu from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. It would be interesting to see how their next game comes out.

Clerk Dies In LaSalle; Rites Set

Eugent, who was serving his fifth term as court clerk, had been ill for several months.

He was a native of Summerville near Jena, and a graduate of Northwestern State College, then Northwestern Normal College.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church of Jena with the Rev. A. G. Taylor officiating. Burial will be in Nolley Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Kinner and Stevens Funeral Home of Jena.

His survivors include his widow, Mrs. Martha Eugent, Jena; a daughter, Mrs. Marene Melvin, Jena; two sons, Ray Edward, of Gretna and Joe D. Nugent, Jena; three sisters, Mrs. R. B. Cockerham, Summerville, Mrs. Sallie Cockerham, Jonesville, and Mrs. J. L. Sills, Clarks; and five grandchildren.

Archaeologists discover primitive tools used by cavemen 1,750,000 years ago. We assume, of course, that the tools were found in the cave next door to the cave of the guy who owned them.

Edgy days for the Air Force, which doesn't know whether President Kennedy is going to expand it or Admiral Rickover is going to abolish it.

More salesmen are said to be a need of the economy. A few more customers wouldn't hurt either.

Hell, Mich., now has a post office, and is there some way we could consign to it all the junk mail we get?

As we grow older our memory slips. It's gotten now so that we can't remember what about half the stuff that's now made out of plastic used to be made of.

JFK Names First Negro For Judge

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy has decided to name the first Negro in history to the United States District Court bench.

The appointment will go to James Benton Parsons, now a Cook County (Chicago) judge.

Informed sources said Saturday Parsons' appointment will be announced formally next week.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher declined to make a formal announcement.

But he did say that Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, Rep. William Dawson, D-Ill., a Chicago Negro, and Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., "think Judge Parsons would make a good United States district judge."

"Judge Parsons is under consideration," Hatcher added.

There never has been a Negro federal district judge in the continential United States.

Four Negroes have been judges in the predominantly Negro Virgin Islands, but judges there are

Clouds And Rain Forecast Today

Skies will continue to have a canopy of clouds in Monroe and vicinity Sunday with chances of rain in the afternoon.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures through Sunday night with widely scattered thundershowers in the northern portion of the state this afternoon.

In Mississippi, the weather will be the same with highs to hit between 86 and 92 degrees.

Louisiana temperatures will range from 87 to 93 degrees.

Yesterday's high in Monroe was 93 and the low was 67 according to Selman Field.

Local Team Wins Top State Honor

The Northside All-Stars of West Monroe won a signal honor in the Little Boys Baseball state tournament at DeRidder which ended last night. The team members and their coaches were awarded the sportsmanship trophy — the highest honor obtainable in Little Boys Baseball — for their "extremely exemplary conduct on and off the playing field.'

"These boys and their coaches are to be highly commended for this award and they certainly deserve it in every respect," tournament officials said. "They were the best group we've ever seen. West Monroe and all of Louisiana should be proud of them.'

"The people of DeRidder also were impressed with their conduct," the statement said. "When they visited our restaurants and other facilities while they were not playing, they were perfect gentlemen. They were a source of inspiration to us. West Monroe is to be commended for turning out youths such as these."

The award was made on the basis of votes cast by coaches of other participating

CIA Head's Work Could Be Divided

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration was reported Saturday to be developing detailed plans for reorganization of the machinery by which the United States gathers and evaluates cold war espionage information. One result may be to split up work now done by Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen Dulles.

Some of President Kennedy's advisers have proposed to take away from the CIA responsibility for preparing basic intelligence reports on world troublespots and give that authority to any separate agency.

Some advisers also have urged that the responsibility for coordinating all government intelligence activities should be divorced from supervising operations of the worldwide CIA staff.

Officials reported that a basic decision already has been made that any overt overseas operations of a military nature should be taken out of CIA's hands. It is understood that the Defense Department objected to taking over such activities in the wake of the U.S.-supported invasion of Cuba last April. But present administration thinking is that responsibility for large-scale paramilitary operations should go to the Pentagon.

Indications are that Kennedy would like Dulles' successor to be a New York lawyer, Fowler Hamilton, who has had government experience. During World War II he was concerned with enemy ac-

HITS FULBRIGHT

'Win, Or Fight' Says Goldwater

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Saturday night that a cold war victory over the Communists is entirely possible if we have a properly integrated strategy which aims at victory.

"Our choice," said Goldwater, "is not yield, or fight a nuclear war. It is; win, or fight a nuclear war."

Goldwater said he had been challenged by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to explain what victory in the cold war means, how we could achieve it and what we would do with it after we won it.

He said Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "believes that victory in the cold war is impossible, that we must coexist with an alien ideological power which is using every device at its command to overwhelm us, and that one of the means towards coexistence is aggressive compromise."

Goldwater said a cold war victory over the Communists won't be easy "because we have lost too much valuable time and too many gloden opportunities.

"Those who argue against any use of strength, against any military risk, against any unilateral action," he said, "fail to understand that political victory in the cold war is the only way to avoid a strictly military solution of the East-West crisis.

"A shooting war can only be avoided by winning the cold war," said Goldwater.

Indian Grave Yields Coins

MARKSVILLE, La. (AP) — A small box, unearthed in an Indian grave near here, was opened Saturday by an LSU archeology team.

They found eight coins, a number of glass beads and a number of small personal items in the box. They also found a 5-franc piece, dated 1813; six Spanish 20-centavo pieces, three of them dated 1832 and the others dated 1803, 1810 and 1818, and one American 50-cent piece dated 1827. Also in the box were a powder horn, knife handle, copper pins for dresses, fragment of an old cane basket, four metal bracelets, belt buckle, straight razor blades and rouge and a tablespoon.

es produced a decision by the President and his fiscal advisers not to seek an immediate tax boost to help finance the defense buildup. This might have been an across-the-board increase of one percentage point in individual and corporate income taxes, estimated to yield $1.8 billion. The plan was dropped, it is now being said, the day before Kennedy spoke to the nation because Capitol Hill leaders sent him word Congress would be more likely to whack the sum out of the foreign-aid program than to vote additional taxes.

The Kennedy planners now have the formidable assignment to accomplish all these things:

1. Step up defense spending by Kennedy's recommended $3.5 billion—the Senate has tacked on an extra billion—and still keep this year's deficit within bounds. Officially it is estimated as $5.3 billion: Republicans say it will be much higher.

2. Balance the budget for the year beginning next July 1 without a tax increase if at all possible. Kennedy left open the possibility he will call for one if the situation worsens.

3. Revamp the tax structure in two steps. The plan was to give business this year a tax incentive of $1 billion-plus to modernize its plant and offset the revenue loss by a series of tightenings and loophole closings. Then next year a thoroughgoing revision of the income-tax structure would be attempted, with bright hopes for a cut. The administration isn't talking much about a cut now, only about a balanced budget. And, while the House Ways and Means Committee is going on with consideration of the business incentive program, knowledgeable members give it less than a 50-50 chance, despite a new plea for action from Kennedy's secretary of the Treasury, C. Douglas Dillon.

If gross national production, which determines the amount of tax revenues, should really zoom, the administration's problems would be greatly lightened. And there is evidence that Kennedy advisers are counting on a much bigger business expansion than they are yet willing to predict openly.

But these comparatively long-range hopes are not much help to the administration stalwarts in Congress. They are faced in the next few weeks with the problem of passing the never-too-popular foreign-aid program, in an atmosphere of worry about the federal deficit, with the ever distasteful possibility of tax increases hanging in the air, and with colleagues increasingly showing the usual August eagerness to adjourn and go home.

Hence the pressure for some concessions that might make the budget outlook brighter.

Last year, the Dixie forces divided into teams, each under a captain, and carried on record-smashing, round-the-clock sessions in a filibuster against a civil rights bill that finally was compromised before being passed.

Sen. John G. Tower, the first Republican senator from Texas since reconstruction days, has been invited to attend the Southerners' strategy session on Monday. An aide said Tower has accepted. His presence would mark the first time a Republican has participated in these meetings.

teams in the tournament as well as officials of the event and fans.

Judging for the award is based on how the coaches of the team conduct themselves and how the boys acted during a game and off the playing field throughout the tournament.

Ivy Redding was coach and manager of the All-Star West Monroe group. He was assisted by Toby Smith and Hugh Calhoun.

"We are extremely proud of these boys and three coaches," said Marvin Smith, who is state director as well as president of the three leagues in West Monroe. "These boys and their coaches created a tremendous amount of goodwill for West Monroe. I know the people of West Monroe are as proud of them as I am. I'm just glad to know that I live in a city that produces boys like these."

"I, for one, will never forget my association with these boys," said Redding. "We didn't win, but they tried all the way and they never quit. I'm as proud, if not more so, of this sportsmanship trophy, than I would have been of the championship trophy."

Redding's statement was echoed by both Smith and Calhoun.

The team, which won the Fourth District Tournament here with three consecutive wins, placed third in the state.

understands the West considers the chips are down, that bluff is useless and dangerous and that nothing can be accomplished by threats.

In the grim background were Khrushchev's most recent proposals for a "free demilitarized" West Berlin, warnings that a new Allied airlift would be met with fighter planes and declarations to Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani that nuclear war is possible over the issue.

Qualified sources said this placed upon the foreign ministers the urgent task of expressing as quickly as possible the unity of the West.

A spokesman for Rusk said "The ministers reviewed plans for strengthening their military and economic position."

Spelling this out, he said the four ministers agreed on the kind of measures Rusk would recommend to the NATO Council in Paris on Tuesday.

The recommendations would require full consultations among the 15-member alliance.

The ministers decided to reconvene Sunday morning to further delve into the actual physical problems of surrounded Berlin.

As to the varying Soviet notes, a British spokesman said his government feels all four powers should take everything Khrushchev has said in one package and deal with the maximum details as being the position of all four in complete unity.

A British official commented on the Khrushchev notes: "Anyone who thinks they are moderate in tone is off the beam. They are abusive, threatening and belligerent."

The ministers met avowedly in search of a formula to preserve Western rights in West Berlin short of war.

Memorandum Defended By Ark. Solon

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Arkansas Democrat Saturday that he recommended Defense Department controls on military participation in "extremist" meetings.

But Fulbright defended the memorandum which he submitted to the Defense Department. He insisted that the main issue in a controversy which has arisen over the memo was traditional civilian control of the military.

In a statement to the Democrat, Fulbright said he was not concerned about the matters discussed at the meetings, but about the participation of high military officers in them. "I would have been concerned had I known of military participation in an attack (on the government) from any extremist source—right or left," his statement said.

Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., Friday asked $75,000 for a Senate Armed Services Committee investigation of the memo. He called it an attack upon military leaders trying to show Americans the danger of internal communism and not a matter of civilian control of the military.

Fulbright's statement took the opposite tack.

"Military officers are not elected by the people and they have no responsibility for the formulation of policies other than those of a military nature," he told the Democrat.

Fulbright said he recommended only a general directive from the Defense Department "to bring under over-all control the activity of military officers in . . . expressions of extremist opposition to the policy of our government."

Fulbright also told the Democrat it was not the military's job to deal with internal Communist subversion. That, he said, is in the province of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

West Given Puzzle By Khrushchev

PARIS (UPI) —Whatever else you think about Nikita Khrushchev, you have to admire his timing. At just the right psychological moment he dumped the scrambled pieces of a big jig-saw puzzle on the green table at which the Western foreign ministers are seated here and dared them to try their luck and skill.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his colleagues spent most of Saturday trying to fit the pieces together and solve the puzzle of what Khrushchev intends to do about Berlin. It was a thankless task because Khrushchev dumped on the United States, Britain, France and West Germany jig-saw pieces of different colors and sizes.

Friday night Moscow Radio began crackling out news of what Russia said in notes to the four Western powers. Were they identical notes? No, that would make things too easy for the Western nations. Each nation got a different note.

The one to West Germany was colored blood red with the threat of nuclear destruction. The United States and France got pinkish ones, chiding them for refusing to acknowledge that the Kremlin had a monopoly on political wisdom and suggesting that a painless solution to the Berlin problem would be simply to let Khrushchev have his own way. Britain got a white one which seemed to be an indirect invitation to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to be the middle man in setting up East-West negotiations on Berlin.

So when Rusk, Maurice Couve de Murville of France, Heinrich Von Brentano of West Germany and Lord Home of Britain met Saturday each had somewhat different jig-saw pieces in his bag, and they set to work trying to put them together.

Toward evening this broad picture began to take shape on the green table:

Khrushchev is willing to talk about Belrin. But what he wants to say is that everybody should sign a peace treaty with East Germany.

If the West balks at signing such a treaty, then Khrushchev will do it on his own, thereby irrevocably dividing Germany.

Any peace treaty that is signed must end the Allied occupation of West Berlin. In other words, the West must desert the 2,200,000 friends it has in West Berlin.

West Germany had better go along with this program because if war breaks out it will be destroyed "in a few hours."

As of Saturday, none of these proposals is acceptable to the West. The problem of the Western foreign ministers is how to say no to Khrushchev without slamming the door to negotiations thereby making war a possible alternative to the Kremlin.

Blind 'Rider' Cracks Barrier At Bus Depot

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A pair of "freedom riders" — a blind white woman and a Negro—broke the segregation barrier Saturday in a Jackson, Miss., bus depot.

The pair were served when they asked for milk shakes at the lunch counter in the Negro waiting room. Two policemen stood by but made no move to order them out.

The pair, Earl C. Bohannon Jr., 21, Chicago, and Norma Wagnor, 33, Rochester, N.Y., arrived in Jackson, at 1:24 p.m. after changing buses in Memphis. They started their trip from Nashville.

"We plan to sit here until we get arrested," Mrs. Wagnor said.

"We will not test the white waiting room facilities because they would arrest him and not me. They won't arrest me here because of the bad publicity they would get."

Chief of detectives M. B. Pierce said they would not be arrested if they sat there all day.

Highway Chief Reports Area Work Is Slated

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana Highway Director Ray W. Burgess said that construction is slated to start on a 9.1 - mile road improvement project on the Holder-Oak Grove Highway (State Routes 507 and 797) in Bienville and Lincoln Parishes, after awarding of a $339,737 to L. T. Brown, contractor, Inc. of Minden.

The highway director said the project begins northeast of Bienville at the existing asphalt pavement of State Route 507, then proceeds northwest along State Route 507 to the junction with State route 797, a distance of 5.2 miles.

Beginning at the junction of State Route 507 and 797, the construction then continues north alnog Route 797 to the junction with State Route 147, a distance of 3.9 miles.

Burgess said construction would consist of grading, reconstructing roadway, drainage structures, aggregate type base course and bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide.

The contractor will not be required to provide for and maintain through traffic during the contract construction time of 12 months.

Project engineer for the department is C. C. Lee of Shreveport.

West Given Puzzle By Khrushchev

PARIS (UPI) —Whatever else you think about Nikita Khrushchev, you have to admire his timing. At just the right psychological moment he dumped the scrambled pieces of a big jig-saw puzzle on the green table at which the Western foreign ministers are seated here and dared them to try their luck and skill.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his colleagues spent most of Saturday trying to fit the pieces together and solve the puzzle of what Khrushchev intends to do about Berlin. It was a thankless task because Khrushchev dumped on the United States, Britain, France and West Germany jig-saw pieces of different colors and sizes.

Friday night Moscow Radio began crackling out news of what Russia said in notes to the four Western powers. Were they identical notes? No, that would make things too easy for the Western nations. Each nation got a different note.

The one to West Germany was colored blood red with the threat of nuclear destruction. The United States and France got pinkish ones, chiding them for refusing to acknowledge that the Kremlin had a monopoly on political wisdom and suggesting that a painless solution to the Berlin problem would be simply to let Khrushchev have his own way. Britain got a white one which seemed to be an indirect invitation to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to be the middle man in setting up East-West negotiations on Berlin.

So when Rusk, Maurice Couve de Murville of France, Heinrich Von Brentano of West Germany and Lord Home of Britain met Saturday each had somewhat different jig-saw pieces in his bag, and they set to work trying to put them together.

Toward evening this broad picture began to take shape on the green table:

Khrushchev is willing to talk about Belrin. But what he wants to say is that everybody should sign a peace treaty with East Germany.

If the West balks at signing such a treaty, then Khrushchev will do it on his own, thereby irrevocably dividing Germany.

Any peace treaty that is signed must end the Allied occupation of West Berlin. In other words, the West must desert the 2,200,000 friends it has in West Berlin.

West Germany had better go along with this program because if war breaks out it will be destroyed "in a few hours."

As of Saturday, none of these proposals is acceptable to the West. The problem of the Western foreign ministers is how to say no to Khrushchev without slamming the door to negotiations thereby making war a possible alternative to the Kremlin.

Blind 'Rider' Cracks Barrier At Bus Depot

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A pair of "freedom riders" — a blind white woman and a Negro—broke the segregation barrier Saturday in a Jackson, Miss., bus depot.

The pair were served when they asked for milk shakes at the lunch counter in the Negro waiting room. Two policemen stood by but made no move to order them out.

The pair, Earl C. Bohannon Jr., 21, Chicago, and Norma Wagnor, 33, Rochester, N.Y., arrived in Jackson, at 1:24 p.m. after changing buses in Memphis. They started their trip from Nashville.

"We plan to sit here until we get arrested," Mrs. Wagnor said.

"We will not test the white waiting room facilities because they would arrest him and not me. They won't arrest me here because of the bad publicity they would get."

Chief of detectives M. B. Pierce said they would not be arrested if they sat there all day.

Highway Chief Reports Area Work Is Slated

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana Highway Director Ray W. Burgess said that construction is slated to start on a 9.1 - mile road improvement project on the Holder-Oak Grove Highway (State Routes 507 and 797) in Bienville and Lincoln Parishes, after awarding of a $339,737 to L. T. Brown, contractor, Inc. of Minden.

The highway director said the project begins northeast of Bienville at the existing asphalt pavement of State Route 507, then proceeds northwest along State Route 507 to the junction with State route 797, a distance of 5.2 miles.

step in our continuing and explained effort to help build a better life for the people of the hemisphere."

"This heroic effort is not for governments alone," he said. "Its success demands the participation of all our people—of workers and farmers, businessmen and intellectuals and, above all, of the young people of the Americas. . . .

"The tasks before us are vast, the problems difficult, the challenges unparalleled. But we carry with us the vision of a new and better world and the unlimited power of free men guided by free governments."

In an address to the opening session of the conference Eduard Victor Haedo, president of the Uruguayan National Council of Government, called for a boost in Latin American living standards to ward off totalitarianism.

Haedo told the 300 delegates that the conference opens a "new phase that might be of overwhelming importance for the future of the Americas but whose failure could have the most tragic consequences."

CIA Head's Work Could Be Divided

tivities and measures taken to combat them. Officials say that to the best of their knowledge Hamilton has not made up his mind whether to accept.

Dulles is expected to resign in late fall or early winter, after the CIA is settled in its big new steel, concrete and glass building high on the Virginia side of the wooded bluffs above the Potomac River.

But barring some radical change in Kennedy's present thinking, the work Dulles turns over to his successor will become in a short time quite different from that which Dulles himself has done.

He has had the triple task of (1) running CIA's information-gathering staff, (2) coordinating the work of these staffs with the intelligence-espionage activities of other government outfits, particularly the armed forces, (3) supervising preparation of estimates of what a country, particularly the Soviet Union is doing or is likely to do.

Kennedy has made several attacks on the problem. One study was headed by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, now Kennedy's special assistant for intelligence and military affairs. Recommendations made by Taylor and by various other groups have been turned over to a committee headed by Dr. James R. Killian Jr. of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Administration officials said "no organizational changes of any significance" will be made in the intelligence setup until a new director is named and has time to go over the situation.

Some administration advisers have suggested that one of the problems of splitting up CIA's intelligence empire could be solved by naming a new director—Hamilton if he is willing—and by naming a career man as deputy director with instruction to supervise all operations.

However, a change of this kind would require authority from Congress since this function of CIA has a legislative basis.

Defenders of the way Dulles has made evaluations say every interested government agency has been assured a hand in the process through the operations of a 10-member board of intelligence estimates. Members of this board include officials of the State Department, Atomic Energy Commission, FBI, Joint Chiefs of Staff, each of the armed forces, National Security Agency and the secretary of defense.

Two Are Injured In Auto-Bus Crash Saturday

Two persons suffered minor injuries Saturday when they were involved in a car - city bus collision at North Third Street and Louisville Avenue.

Treated for their injuries at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital were Lemar Adams, 40 of route two, Downsville, and Reginald Goldson, 22 of Monroe, both passengers in a car.

According to witnesses the car driven by Herman Frost, 48 of 409 Jewel St., West Monroe, traveling east on Louisville Avenue plowed into the rear of a north bound City of Monroe bus.

The bus traveling north on North Third Street was driven by Philip Joplin Jr., 24 of 1800 Railroad Ave., Monroe. He told officers that he was crossing the intersection and had the green light.

Witnesses said that Frost entered the intersection at a high rate of speed and collided with the bus.

His car skidded approximately 80 feet from the point of impact, coming to rest in the westbound traffic lane of Louisville.

Cuba Halts All Plane, Ship Moves

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's government halted all ship and plane travel in and out of Cuba Saturday in preparation for the issuing of new currency during the weekend.

The travel ban went into effect this morning and will remain in effect until 8 p.m. Monday. Only President Osvaldo Dorticos can make any exceptions.

All plane flights were cancelled, and Pan American World Airways reported that it "did not know how passengers who were scheduled to leave today would be reassigned." The Port of Havana was closed, with three ships waiting outside the harbor entrance.

The currency changeover means that all bills now in circulation must be traded in for new ones by Monday. But not more than 200 pesos may be exchanged immediately by any one household. Any funds above that figure must be deposited in a special account by the persons holding them, and converted to new bills a week later.

The move was ordered in a council of ministers decree issued this morning. It provides that old bills will be turned in between 8 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday. The old bills have no legal value after Sunday, and will be considered null and of no value at all after Monday.

The new issues of bills will carry pictures of Castro and events of his revolution.

In special cases, Dorticos may extend the time for changing old bills for new ones, particularly in rural areas where communications are scant or lacking altogether. Revolutionary organizations were charged with carrying out the new law.

Individuals were permitted to present themselves to exchange centers only once, and then as representatives of households. All were required to take an oath as to their identity, residence, the persons they represented, and the ownership of the bills presented.

Public organizations, state firms and intervened companies, unions, publishing houses (newspapers), "politico - revolutionary groups," and legal societies and individuals were instructed to deposit their old currency in banks where they maintain special accounts. Diplomatic representatives also were extended special exchange facilities.

Passman Says Offer Dangled

offer was made by a congressman "very close to the administration." He said he would not quit as subcommittee chairman because that would be "a hell of a penalty to pay for trying to do a good job."

He declined to identify the other congressman. But he said that if the administration denies the offer, the congressman has promised to verify his statements on the House floor.

Passman's subcommittee must pass on the appropriations for the foregin aid bill. Since 1955, when he became chairman of the House foreign aid appropriations subcommittee, Passman has been wielding an axe on foreign aid spending.

Repeatedly he has charged that American aid has been riddled with waste, and that a better job could be done with less money. At the moment he is vehemently opposed to Kennedy's proposal to establish a five-year, $8.8 billion program of development loans to help foreign countries. Under this plan, the Treasury could borrow money without going to Congress for the annual appropriations, as is done now.

Passman told Rusk at the sub-committee hearing that "if this program, or a substantial part of it, is removed from congressional control, it could literally run wild."

Creek Rides Youth Into Storm Sewers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy fell into rain-swollen Honey Creek Friday and was swept more than half a mile through an underground storm sewer before he managed to pull himself out of an opening.

"Every time I tried to stop, it—the current—kept pulling me," said Terrance D. Krueger as he related his experience. "If I were drowned, I kept thinking what my mother and dad would do. I kept praying to God that I wouldn't drown."

Terrance said he could see concrete walls and the water but it was dark ahead. Overhead drains let in some light but water, too. Terrance swallowed a lot of water, but kept trying to find a hole in the wall in which he could catch hold.

Finally, about half a mile from where he entered the sewer, the youth saw an opening where the sewer rose above ground. He tried to stop but the water tumbled him into another sewer that branched off from the opening. It ended only five yards from an outlet into the Menomonee River. There, his feet touched the mucky bottom, he pushed his hands against the top of the sewer, steadied himself and worked his way back to the opening he had been pushed past.

The boy grabbed bricks jutting from the embankment and pulled himself out. He was taken to the hospital where examination disclosed only a few cuts and bruises, then went home for a hot bath.

"I lost a quarter," he told newsmen.

Actor's Cruise Creates Trouble

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Actor Sterling Hayden's cruise to Tahiti in 1959 has brought him new woes, $49,518.36 worth.

Hayden, who took his children to the South Seas island in violation of a court order, was ordered to pay the sum to Republic Corp., formerly Republic Pictures of Hollywood.

Republic claimed the money was due on two promissory notes to finance the voyage. The firm said Hayden was either to begin filming of a TV series in Tahiti and find a sponsor or make eight pictures for Republic or pay the money back.

Hayden failed to do any of the three, the firm said.

KILLED

TOKYO (AP) — Eight prsons were reported killed and 13 missing Saturday after heavy rains that drenched Niigata Prefecture on the coast in northwestern Honshu, the Main Japanese island.

Large areas of Niigata were flooded. The rains were brought on by the tropical storm, Helen.

'Gad, Sir She Didn't Dip Colors'

Gad, sir, that Yankee ship failed to dip her colors.

Dorling—an author on naval affairs—was reclining on the lawn of the ultraexclusive royal yacht Squadron at Cowes this week when he thought he saw this seeming insult of the high seas.

For, between the peppery captain and the America lay the royal yacht Brittania, flying Prince Philip's personal standard.

That wasn't all. Close by the British cruiser, Tiger, flying the flag of the commander in chief at Portsmouth, rode the gentle swells.

Dorling sent a letter to the Times of London. After giving the position of the ships, he wrote, "It was noticeable that in no case did the America dip her colors. Has the polite old sea custom of any merchant ship dipping her ensign to any warship, in our case, a ship flying the white ensign, become obsolete?"

The letter set off a chain reaction between the Admiralty, the U.S. Embassy, the London and New York offices of the U.S. Lines and the outward bound America.

The signalmen in the royal yacht were asked if the America failed to dip her colors.

"The America certainly saluted the Britannia," came back the reply, "the Tiger was lying so close to the royal yacht there was no chance for the liner to dip her colors again."

Wired Capt. Frederick Fender of the America, "We saluted the royal yacht and her cruiser Tiger and and Italian cruiser lying astern of her."

Told about the American reply, Dorling snorted, "They may have saluted from the bridge, personally, but they did not dip their ensign. There is ample corroborative evidence of what I saw."

FINE ROCKET

SALISBURY, England (AP) — Edward Hoppe shut his eyes Saturday, pressed a button and became the first British civilian to fire a U.S. Honest John rocket.

The rocket was fired during a British army "open day demonstration" in southern England. Hoppe, 23, a draftsman, was selected by ballot from thousands of spectators to demonstrate the power of the tactical military weapon.

Long Jaunt Is Begun By Rocket

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The giant Saturn rocket began Saturday the long trip by barge from its birthplace at Redstone Arsenal to its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The huge booster, first stage of a three-stage rocket designed to carry multiton payloads into space, was placed aboard a special barge.

A few hours later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration here said the transfer of the giant rocket around Wheeler Dam near Florence, Ala., was completed successfully.

On the other side of Wheeler Dam, the Saturn was loaded onto another barge for its trip along the Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, the Gulf of Mexico, the Florida Straits, and the Atlantic Ocean, to Cape Canaveral.

The 2,200-mile trip by water is expected to take three weeks.

Too big for air, rial or truck travel, the booster—82 feet long, 22 feet in diameter, and weighing more than 100 tons—had to go by water.

The water route was complicated last June when the only lock in Wheeler Dam caved in. NASA and the Tennessee Valley Authority then worked out a way to go around the dam—by building a special road

The Saturn booster is scheduled for its first test firing—with two dummy upper stages—later this year. It is expected to be operational by 1965.

LSU Board Okays $28 Million Plan

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors Saturday approved a $28.5 million budget and filled two top administrative posts.

It also moved toward a year-round school program, to be accomplished through a 12 to 14-week summer session, and okayed degrees for some 600 summer school graduates.

Dr. Daniel Borth, executive vice president, met behind closed doors with the board.

Afterwards, the Board announced it approved with regrets Dr. Borth's request to be returned in February to a full-time teaching post.

Dr. Max Goodrich, 55, native of Calhoun, Mo., was named to the $17,000-a-year post of graduate school dean, and John Cox, 49, native of Winnsboro, Tex., was appointed director of the agricultural extension service at $15,000 a year.

Dr. Richard Russell has been acting dean of the graduate school for more than a year, since the resignation of Dr. George Mickey after a sensational murder investigation.

A grand jury refused either to free Dr. Mickey of a charge that he killed Dr. Rosamond McMillan, a woman biology teacher, or to indict him. Mickey is reported working in a private laboratory in Connecticut.

Both Dean Goodrich and Cox were introduced to the LSU board after their appointments.

Dean Goodrich came to LSU in 1936 as a physics instructor. He has been a full professor since 1950 and is author or co-author of 23 scientific papers.

Borth's move back to teaching corporation finance and advanced accounting will leave LSU with two top vacancies in February.

Gen. Troy H. Middleton, 72-year-old LSU president, retires in February also. The board will hold a special meeting Tuesday to consider Middleton's retirement and a replacement.

Borth has been executive vice president for two years. He is a former comptroller and dean of administration.

The budget, for which the state legislature already has approved funds, is $3.9 million below the amount asked by the university for operations and expansion during the current fiscal year.

Borth told the board the legislature reduced the amount requested by $743,000 and a later five per cent reduction from the amount appropriated made an additional $907,000 cut.

Borth said this represented a reduction of $1.6 million from LSU's requested increase in funds and $3.9 million below the original request made to the legislature.

The executive vice president said the five per cent withholding provision in the general appropriation act, put into effect by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis recently, caused a real problem for the board of supervisors.

He said if the five per cent cut is restored it cannot possibly be used for retroactive pay purposes or to get additional faculty members since it will be too late in the school year to recruit teaching personnel.

JFK, Adlai Confer On Red UN Bid

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy conferred with Adlai E. Stevenson aboard a cabin cruiser on Nantucket Sound Saturday about U. S. strategy for keeping Red China out of the United Nations and Nationalist China in.

Stevenson flew here from New York to be an overnight guest at the President's Cape Cod summer home and to discuss the American attitude toward all issues expected to come before the U. N. General Assembly which opens next month.

As the head of the U. S. delegation to the U. N., he said safeguarding the Nationalist Chinese seat was "America's first objective."

Before meeting with the President, Stevenson told newsmen at the airport he did not expect the Berlin crisis to come up in the Assembly.

He did say he thought the Soviet note made public Friday indicated a more conciliatory attitude and that it was clear that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev "doesn't want war" over Berlin.

Stevenson said he believed that "the elements for a settlement or at least a postponement" of a showdown can be found in the Berlin situation.

Asked if the President shared Stevenson's views that the Soviet note was more conciliatory than previous statements on Berlin, associate White House news secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said he had "no information on that."

The President flew here from Washington Friday for a weekend of rest and work with his family.

Police Probing Tool, Clothes Thefts In City

The thefts of three men's suits and a box of machine tools are being investigated by Monroe police.

Officers said yesterday that Sears, Roebuck and Company located on Louisville Avenue reported three men's suits stolen from their display counter since Thursday afternoon.

The clothing, described as one olive and two dark grey pin-striped suits, were valued at $57.50 each.

Also under investigation is the theft of a tool box filled with mechanic tools for air conditioning work The theft was reported by S. D. Powell of 1904 Spencer St.

Powell said the black, 75-pound box was taken from his pickup truck sometime Friday night while it was parked at a bar-b-que drive-in on Texas Avenue.

Negotiations Heat In Auto Industry

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor negotiations in the automobile industry heated up during the week, casting implications that could have a profound effect on the economy.

For the first time there was talk that the United Auto Workers Union might strike if it does not get new contracts by the time current agreements with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out Aug. el.

UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock said the unions won't be in a mood to work after contracts expire.

The union and General Motors advised each other they will terminate their contract Aug. 31. Ford and UAW gave each other such notices a month ago. Chrusler and the union have until Aug. 21 to take such action.

Officers of GM locals will hold "leadership" meetings in 20 cities over the weekend and the UAW's international executive comittee will hold a strategy meeting in Detroit Aug. 13.

The situation has been complicated by American Motors unprecedented offer to incorporate a profit-sharing provision in its union contract.

UAW has shown considerable interest in the idea but hasn't expressed approval of the terms. The Big Three automakers have not budged from their stand against profit-sharing.

The union demanded that General Motors let it examine the company's price-profit formula. General Motors refused, saying UAW's "proper function does not extend into the area of prices and profits."

All of this tugging was against the background of a statement by Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg that the government would consider a strike "intolerable" at a time when the country is pulling out of a recession.

Meanwhile, passenger car production slumped to its lowest level of the year this week—an estimated 39,000—as plant shutdowns for model changeover increased. Production of 1962 models gets under way this week.

The steel industry continued to feel the effects of the labor negotiations in the auto industry. Carmakers shoved steel orders back from August to September while waiting to see what happens.

Output declined during the week for the second consecutive week, indicating that the summer slowdown may last longer than expected. Output totaled 1,818,000 tons, down 2.2 per cent from the previous week.

However, industry sources predicted a higher-than-expected level of production late in the year—perhaps 75 to 80 per cent of capacity in the fourth quarter.

Employment and unemployment declined in July but the ratio of the idle to the total work force edged up from 6.8 per cent in June to 6.9 in July.

The number of employed dropped by 205,000 to 68,499,000 while the total of unemployed went down 440,000 to 5,140,000.

The hard-core unemployment problem worsened with the number of workers idle six months or more increasing by nearly 100,000 to more than 1 million.

The Senate Appropriations Committee authorized spending $46.8 billion for defense. Anticipating that this would give business a tremendous shot in the arm, the stock market rocketed to an all-time high as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Commerce Department reported spending on new construction rose to a new high annual rate of $59.7 billion in July, up two per cent from June and five per cent from July 1960.

Manufacturers sales rose one per cent to $30.9 billion in June but new orders were down nearly one per cent to $31 billion.

Consumers went deeper into debt in June, outstanding installment credit going up by $100 million to $42.4 billion.

The governments antitrust division disclosed it was considering whether to order American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to shed $45-million-a-year overseas operations. The company said these operations accounted for less than one-half of one per cent of its revenues.

Briefly around the business scene: Sunbeam Corp. is introducing an electric shaver with a built-in light for shaving in the dark. . . Martin Co.'s Orlando, Fla., division received $70 million in Army contracts for continued work on the Pershing missile weapon system . . . Major sheet and pillowcase manufacturers raised prices an average of 2½ per cent, effective Sept. 16.

Wilburn Ouchley, 59, Succumbs; Services Today

Wilburn D. Ouchley, 59, died in a local hospital at 3:45 a.m. Saturday. Services are scheduled to be held at Rocky Branch Church at 3 p.m. Sunday with Rev. Enon Boyette officiating, assisted by A. T. Mitchell. Ouchley, a native of Farmerville, resided in Sterlington and worked for United Gas Pipe Line for about 19 years.

Interment will follow in Rocky Branch Cemetery under direction of Kilpatricks Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Survivors include his wife ,Theda Ouchley; one daughter, Mrs. Charles Harper of Sterlington, one son, K. D. Ouchley, also of Sterlington; five sisters, Mrs. Lonnie Smith, Mrs. Lettie Burlford, Mrs. Telma Ouchley, and Mrs. Iddie Blazier, all of West Monroe, and Mrs. R. O. Love of Linville; three brothers, Sam and Charlie Ouchley of Farmerville, Hebert Ouchley of West Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Jake Pouchner, Joe Mock, Jim Broodnox, Kinneth Gann, Boxtor Sinclair, Fred Johnson, Brady C. Deon and Douglas Hollis.

Cardinal Is Given Rites

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Joseph Cardinal van Roey, 17th archbishop of Malines, was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church at noon Saturday.

His private secretary, Msgr. E. Leclef said Msgr. Leon Suenens, auxiliary bishop, gave the cardinal the last unction in the presence of the vicar-generals, the secretaries and the archbishop's leading personnel.

The secretary said "there is no immediate danger," but that the cardinal was very tired and "considered that he had to give an example—to have the last rites administered to him in time."

All of this tugging was against the background of a statement by Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg that the government would consider a strike "intolerable" at a time when the country is pulling out of a recession.

Meanwhile, passenger car production slumped to its lowest level of the year this week—an estimated 39,000—as plant shutdowns for model changeover increased. Production of 1962 models gets under way this week.

The steel industry continued to feel the effects of the labor negotiations in the auto industry. Carmakers shoved steel orders back from August to September while waiting to see what happens.

Output declined during the week for the second consecutive week, indicating that the summer slowdown may last longer than expected. Output totaled 1,818,000 tons, down 2.2 per cent from the previous week.

However, industry sources predicted a higher-than-expected level of production late in the year—perhaps 75 to 80 per cent of capacity in the fourth quarter.

Employment and unemployment declined in July but the ratio of the idle to the total work force edged up from 6.8 per cent in June to 6.9 in July.

The number of employed dropped by 205,000 to 68,499,000 while the total of unemployed went down 440,000 to 5,140,000.

The hard-core unemployment problem worsened with the number of workers idle six months or more increasing by nearly 100,000 to more than 1 million.

The Senate Appropriations Committee authorized spending $46.8 billion for defense. Anticipating that this would give busjness a tremendous shot in the arm, the stock market rocketed to an all-time high as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Commerce Department reported spending on new construction rose to a new high annual rate of $59.7 billion in July, up two per cent from June and five per cent from July 1960.

Manufacturers sales rose one per cent to $30.9 billion in June but new orders were down nearly one per cent to $31 billion.

Consumers went deeper into debt in June, outstanding installment credit going up by $100 million to $42.4 billion.

The governments antitrust division disclosed it was considering whether to order American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to shed $45-million-a-year overseas operations. The company said these operations accounted for less than one-half of one per cent of its revenues.

Briefly around the business scene: Sunbeam Corp. is introducing an electric shaver with a built-in light for shaving in the dark. . . Martin Co.'s Orlando, Fla., division received $70 million in Army contracts for continued work on the Pershing missile weapon system . . . Major sheet and pillowcase manufacturers raised prices an average of 2½ per cent, effective Sept. 16.

Cardinal Is Given Rites

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Joseph Cardinal van Roey, 17th archbishop of Malines, was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church at noon Saturday.

His private secretary, Msgr. E. Leclef said Msgr. Leon Suenens, auxiliary bishop, gave the cardinal the last unction in the presence of the vicar-generals, the secretaries and the archbishop's leading personnel.

The secretary said "there is no immediate danger," but that the cardinal was very tired and "considered that he had to give an example—to have the last rites administered to him in time."

JFK, Adlai Confer On Red UN Bid

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy conferred with Adlai E. Stevenson aboard a cabin cruiser on Nantucket Sound Saturday about U. S. strategy for keeping Red China out of the United Nations and Nationalist China in.

Stevenson flew here from New York to be an overnight guest at the President's Cape Cod summer home and to discuss the American attitude toward all issues expected to come before the U. N. General Assembly which opens next month.

As the head of the U. S. delegation to the U. N., he said safeguarding the Nationalist Chinese seat was "America's first objective."

Before meeting with the President, Stevenson told newsmen at the airport he did not expect the Berlin crisis to come up in the Assembly.

He did say he thought the Soviet note made public Friday indicated a more conciliatory attitude and that it was clear that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev "doesn't want war" over Berlin.

Stevenson said he believed that "the elements for a settlement or at least a postponement" of a showdown can be found in the Berlin situation.

Asked if the President shared Stevenson's views that the Soviet note was more conciliatory than previous statements on Berlin, associate White House news secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said he had "no information on that."

The President flew here from Washington Friday for a weekend of rest and work with his family.

Police Probing Tool, Clothes Thefts In City

The thefts of three men's suits and a box of machine tools are being investigated by Monroe police.

Officers said yesterday that Sears, Roebuck and Company located on Louisville Avenue reported three men's suits stolen from their display counter since Thursday afternoon.

The clothing, described as one olive and two dark grey pin-striped suits, were valued at $57.50 each.

Also under investigation is the theft of a tool box filled with mechanic tools for air conditioning work The theft was reported by S. D. Powell of 1904 Spencer St.

Powell said the black, 75-pound box was taken from his pickup truck sometime Friday night while it was parked at a bar-b-que drivin on Texas Avenue.

Tech To Seek Funds For 3rd Summer Meet

RUSTON (Special) — Funds will be sought by Louisiana Tech from the National Science Foundation for support of a third institute of mathematics and engineering sciences at the college here next summer.

Dr. M. A. Nobles, head of the depatment of petroleum and geological engineering at Tech and director of the short course, said the second nine - week program of this type just concluded here was deemed successful by the 26 participants, all of whom had experience in engineering teaching. The participants came from various parts of the United States and Canada.

At the end of the institute this summer, a banquet was given in honor of the participants. Presiding was Dean Ben T. Bogard of the School of Engineering. Certificates of attendance were presented by Dr. R. L. Ropp, Tech president.

Those speaking at the dinner included Ralph Pearson of the data processing division of the Burrough Corp., Chicago; Sanford Stone, an institute participant, who is head of the civil engineering department at San Diego State College, and Dr. Gustaf H. Panula, professor of chemical engineering at Tech and associate director of the science institute here.

Among the guests were J. C. Monroe of Shreveport, branch manager for Burroughs, and Mr. Murphy of the Dallas division of that corporation.

Special lecturers for the summer institute were Paul Thrower of I. B. M., Shreveport; Dr. Kim N. Tony, Syracuse University; Donald A. Sawyer, University of Florida; Bernard A. Sobel, Ethyl Corp., Baton Rouge; Mr. Hughmark of the Ethyl Corp.; Dr. J. R. Johnson, mathematics department, Louisiana Tech; B. C. Moore, engineering experimental station, Texas A. & M. College, and P. B. Le Cates, the Esso Corp., Baton Rouge.

Tech faculty members on the institute staff included G. J. Trammell, Francis Roy, R. E. Carlile, Dr. Noble and Dr. Panula of the School of Engineering; and Dr. J. R. Johnson and Hollis C. Hearne of the mathematics department.

City Playground Season Ends In Friday Session

ON BERLIN

Khrushchev Sets Reply To Kennedy

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, reported angered by President Kennedy's speech on the Soviet challenge to Berlin, will speak on a nationwide radio and television network Monday night.

From remarks Khrushchev made to Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani, who concluded a three-day visit here Saturday, it is presumed the Soviet leader intends to reply to Kennedy.

His tone may be guided by his own personal analysis of the young American President's character, which he is reported to have imparted to Fanfani: that Kennedy is a very complex man who is finally guided by the loudest shouter.

Moscow radio announced the scheduling of the Khrushchev speech, without disclosing its subject.

The announcement came just as Western newsmen learned that Walter Ulbricht, Communist chief of East Germany, has been in Moscow for several days.

Western diplomats gave credence to reports from Berlin that Ulbricht is pressing for Soviet permission to clamp a border seal between East and West Berlin to stop the daily flight of more than 1,000 East Germans.

The Khrushchev speech is scheduled for noon Monday, EST.

In his broadcast speech of July 25, Kennedy accused Khrushchev of endangering the lives of millions of people by pursuing his plan to divide East and West Germany permanently with a separate peace treaty with the Ulbricht regime.

The President spelled out plans to build up U.S. and Western military strength to meet what he called a worldwide crisis caused by Communist pressure.

A competent source said Khrushchev told Fanfani he considered the Kennedy speech excessively belligerent and that it made him mad. He said he intended to make a speech in reply.

The source gave this further account of the conversation which took place Thursday:

Khrushchev said he did not believe the President's position was as firm as his speech would indicate.

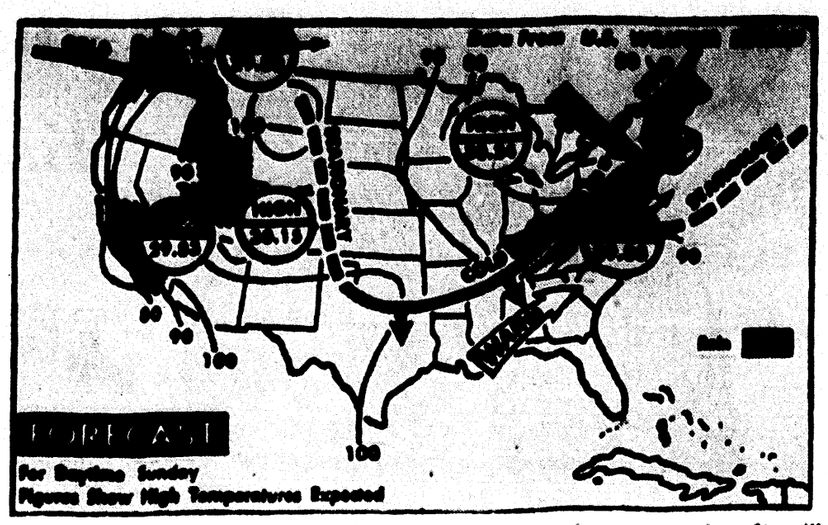
In the United States, he went on, everybody shouts and the man who shouts the loudest wins. Kennedy, he said, listens to the loudest. Kennedy is more complex than the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he added.

In a set of notes to the Western powers published here Friday after they were personally signed by Khrushchev, the Soviet Union complained there was "war psychosis" in the United States since Kennedy's speech. The notes declared Soviet willingness to open negotiations over Berlin but proposed no specific place or time and offered no inkling of readiness to give way on any point.

In taking leave of Fanfani Saturday, Khrushchev said, "We have different opinions on some questions of international developments and that is no surprise. Our talks were frank and were conducted in a good atmosphere."

Fanfani also said frank talks had clarified the "scope, time and conditions for achieving a real strengthening of peace."

The presence of Ulbricht in Moscow was denied Friday by East German officials. He may have been consulted in the final drafting of the Soviet notes. It was not known whether he still will be in Moscow Monday night when Khrushchev speaks.



SHOWERS ARE expected Sunday from Ohio and Tennessee valleys through the mid and north Atlantic states, in Pacific northeast, portions of northern and central Plateau and in southern California. Widely scattered showers are due in northern and central Plains and in southeast quadrant of nation. It will be warmer from southern Plains to the Carolinas and cooler in northern Plateau and from the Lakes to Ohio valley and eastward through north Atlantic states. AP Wirephoto Map)

ON FINANCES

Some Disagree With Governor

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis is talking optimistically about the state's financial future. But there are others prominent in public life who privately disagree.

People wondering about all this will begin to get some idea when the state tax collections for the first quarter of this fiscal year are reported.

The new fiscal year began July 1. [illegible] the first quarter report should be ready early in October, representing the months of July, August and September.

The Davis administration, with signals being called by Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, has put through a record $845 million spending budget for the fiscal year.

This budget calls for an estimated $62 million boost in state revenues — which is a whale of a big jump.

Davis and Reily, watching the national defense spurt, have predicted Louisiana's economic growth will jump forward, too, bringing more state revenues from natural economic expansion.

For a broader picture, the current Davis budget approved by the 1961 fiscal legislature is more than four times the state spending budget in 1948, the last year of Davis' first term as governor.

The budget that year with both federal and state funds was $185,907,000. Of course, the former Govs. Earl K. Long and Robert Kennon provided most of the fiscal stepping stones to the higher spending level.

The public Affairs Research Council, a private, nonfactional research agency, says the new Davis budget will be closer to $865 million.

The state administration also is spending a $60 million bond issue on college and institutional improvement.

And it has sent to the polls in November, 1962, a proposal to issue another $60 million in bonds for highways.

Davis voiced his optimism that everything would turn out all right in his news conference Thursday. In a Jonesboro speech that night, he said at one point:

"We must reconcile ourselves to the fact that all programs undertaken by the government we support should be rigidly studied to insure that they will accomplish the purposes for which they were intended."

Around the state capitol, it is recognized that for many years a conservative estimate was used in figuring state revenues for the year ahead.

When surpluses developed, a governor could whip together a little special legislative session and spend it for his pet purposes. Earl K. Long was fond of this technique.

Now the pattern has been reversed, with "optimistic" rather than conservative revenue estimates used. The "optimistic" description was used by Reily himself.

Reily is thoroughly confident Louisiana's economic growth is a golden asset. His judgment, backed by that of the governor, will be tested in the months ahead as the tax collections begin to be recorded.

An "optimistic" revenue estimate on which the state spending program is based, could lead to a financial quagmire should revenues fail to match that optimism.

The Davis administration finished its first year with what Davis said was a $13 million deficit. The recession could be blamed for that setback.

Committee Asks Okay Of Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee formally recommended passage of its version of the foreign aid bill Saturday in a report which also contained some Republican suggestions for compromise of its most controversial provision.

The committee majority approved, for House debate later this month, the full authority demanded by President Kennedy to borrow from the Treasury and to lend to underdeveloped countries $8.8 billion over five years.

The committee cut $407 million from the $4,762,500,000 requested for all aid gifts and loans this year.

The Senate has already started debate on its version of the aid measure, which is $29 million further below current-year fund requests. The Senate bill totals $4,326,500,000.

Twelve of the 13 Republican members of the 33-man House committee signed a statement in the report opposing administration authority to borrow from the Treasury to finance foreign loans.

This group suggested a compromise that would authorize limited advance aid over a long term but would require Congress each year to scrutinize and appropriate amounts that the administration was able to justify beyond this limit. The limit was not spelled out.

Two of the Republicans, Reps. Marguerite S. Church of Illinois and E. Ross Adair of Indiana, said in additional remarks they "remain unconvinced that 'friends' can be won or social reform necessarily imposed through 'dollar diplomacy.'"

They cited an estimate made by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., on July 28 that the actual cost of the administration's five-year aid plan would run over $56.6 billion.

The lone Democrat on the committee filing a separate view, Rep. John S. Monaghan of Connecticut, said the House might be willing to accept the long-term financing plan if the President and secretary of state carry out assurances to seek competent officials.

Brother Of Local Man Succumbs; Rites Pending

Martin Quinn Smith, 65, of Pine Bluff, Ark., a retired employee of Swift Packing Co. in Pine Bluff and brother of Zell Smith of Monroe, died at a local hospital Saturday night following a heart attack.

Mr. Smith was visiting his brother when he suffered the attack.

He was a member of Lakeside Methodist Church in Pine Bluff.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night but will be held in Pine Bluff. Peters Funeral Home of Monroe are in charge of local arrangements.

Survivors other than his brother here include his widow of Pine Bluff; his mother, Mrs. Ben Smith, El Dorado, Ark.; one son, M. Q. Smith Jr., Clinton, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Wallace Hobson, Rison, Ark., Mrs. Edwin Bargiel, and Mrs. Harper Nixon, both of El Dorado; two other brothers, J. W. Smith, Hot Springs, Ark., and Ben F. Smith of Pine Bluff; two grandchildren.

Khrushchev Sets Reply To Kennedy

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, reported angered by President Kennedy's speech on the Soviet challenge to Berlin, will speak on a nationwide radio and television network Monday night.

From remarks Khrushchev made to Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani, who concluded a three-day visit here Saturday, it is presumed the Soviet leader intends to reply to Kennedy.

His tone may be guided by his own personal analysis of the young American President's character, which he is reported to have imparted to Fanfani: that Kennedy is a very complex man who is finally guided by the loudest shouter.

Moscow radio announced the scheduling of the Khrushchev speech, without disclosing its subject.

The announcement came just as Western newsmen learned that Walter Ulbricht, Communist chief of East Germany, has been in Moscow for several days.

Western diplomats gave credence to reports from Berlin that Ulbricht is pressing for Soviet permission to clamp a border seal between East and West Berlin to stop the daily flight of more than 1,000 East Germans.

The Khrushchev speech is scheduled for noon Monday, EST.

In his broadcast speech of July 25, Kennedy accused Khrushchev of endangering the lives of millions of people by pursuing his plan to divide East and West Germany permanently with a separate peace treaty with the Ulbricht regime.

The President spelled out plans to build up U.S. and Western military strength to meet what he called a worldwide crisis caused by Communist pressure.

A competent source said Khrushchev told Fanfani he considered the Kennedy speech excessively belligerent and that it made him mad. He said he intended to make a speech in reply.

Khrushchev said he did not believe the President's position was as firm as his speech would indicate.

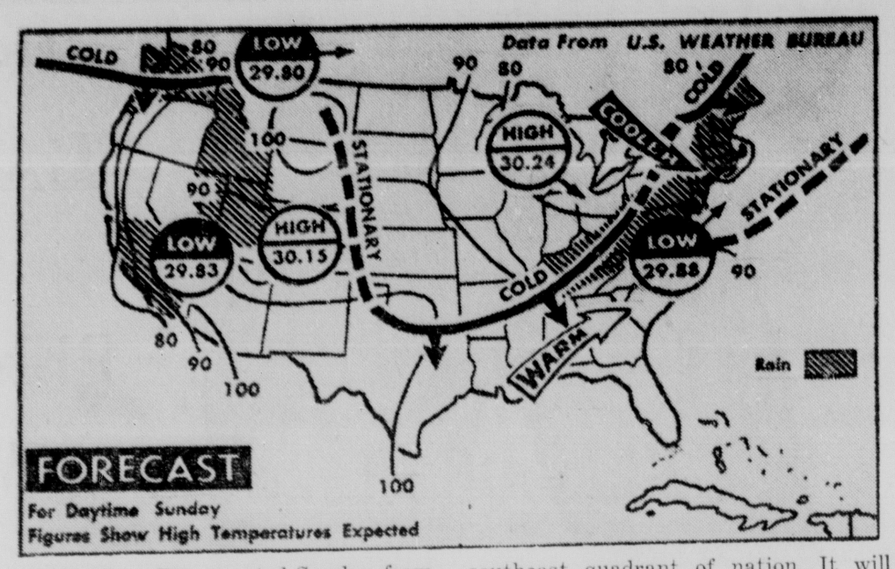
In the United States, he went on, everybody shouts and the man who shouts the loudest wins. Kennedy, he said, listens to the loudest. Kennedy is more complex than the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he added.

In a set of notes to the Western powers, published here Friday after they were personally signed by Khrushchev the Soviet Union complained there was "war psychosis" in the United States since Kennedy's speech. The notes declared Soviet willingness to open negotiations over Berlin but proposed no specific place or time and offered no inkling of readiness to give way on any point.

In taking leave of Fanfani Saturday, Khrushchev said, "We have different opinions on some questions of international developments and that is no surprise. Our talks were frank and were conducted in a good atmosphere."

Fanfani also said frank talks had clarified the "scope, time and conditions for achieving a real strengthening of peace."

The presence of Ulbricht in Moscow was denied Friday by East German officials. He may have been consulted in the final drafting of the Soviet notes. It was not known whether he still will be in Moscow Monday night when Khrushchev speaks.



SHOWERS ARE expected Sunday from Ohio and Tennessee valleys through the mid and north Atlantic states, in Pacific northeast, portions of northern and central Plateau and in southern California. Widely scattered showers are due in northern and central Plains and in southeast quadrant of nation. It will be warmer from southern Plains to the Carolinas and cooler in northern Plateau and from the Lakes to Ohio valley and eastward through north Atlantic states. AP Wirephoto Map)

ON FINANCES

Some Disagree With Governor

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis is talking optimistically about the state's financial future. But there are others prominent in public life who privately disagree.

People wondering about all this will begin to get some idea when the state tax collections for the first quarter of this fiscal year are reported.

The new fiscal year began July 1, and the first quarter report should be ready early in October, representing the months of July, August and September.

The Davis administration, with signals being called by Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, has put through a record $845 million spending budget for the fiscal year.

This budget calls for an estimated $62 million boost in state revenues — which is a whale of a big jump.

Davis and Reily, watching the national defense spurt, have predicted Louisiana's economic growth will jump forward, too, bringing more state revenues from natural economic expansion.

For a broader picture, the current Davis budget approved by the 1961 fiscal legislature is more than four times the state spending budget in 1948, the last year of Davis' first term as governor.

The budget that year with both federal and state funds was $185,907,000. Of course, the former Govs. Earl K. Long and Robert Kennon provided most of the fiscal stepping stones to the higher spending level.

The public Affairs Research Council, a private, nonfactional research agency, says the new Davis budget will be closer to $865 million.

The state administration also is spending a $60 million bond issue on college and institutional improvements.

And it has sent to the polls in November, 1962, a proposal to issue another $60 million in bonds for highways.

Davis voiced his optimism that everything would turn out all right in his news conference Thursday. In a Jonesboro speech that night, he said at one point:

"We must reconcile ourselves to the fact that all programs undertaken by the government we support should be rigidly studied to insure that they will accomplish the purposes for which they were intended."

Around the state capitol, it is recognized that for many years a conservative estimate was used in figuring state revenues for the year ahead.

When surpluses developed, a governor could whip together a little special legislative session and spend it for his pet purposes. Earl K. Long was fond of this technique.

Now the pattern has been reversed, with "optimistic" rather than conservative revenue estimates used. The "optimistic" description was used by Reily himself.

Reily is thoroughly confident Louisiana's economic growth is a golden asset. His judgment, backed by that of the governor, will be tested in the months ahead as the tax collections begin to be recorded.

An "optimistic" revenue estimate on which the state spending program is based, could lead to a financial quagmire should revenues fail to match that optimism.

The Davis administration finished its first year with what Davis said was a $13 million deficit. The recession could be blamed for that setback.

Committee Asks Okay Of Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee formally recommended passage of its version of the foreign aid bill Saturday in a report which also contained some Republican suggestions for compromise of its most controversial provision.

The committee majority approved, for House debate later this month, the full authority demanded by President Kennedy to borrow from the Treasury and to lend to underdeveloped countries $8.8 billion over five years.

The committee cut $407 million from the $4,762,500,000 requested for all aid gifts and loans this year.

The Senate has already started debate on its version of the aid measure, which is $29 million further below current-year fund requests. The Senate bill totals $4,326,500,000.

CHEMICAL ATTACK

Anti-Food Warfare Poses Real Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-food warfare—the spreading of disease among crops or animals—has become a very real threat, government experts believe.

But they have seen no evidence of attempts so far to use this weapon against the United States in a surreptitious phase of the cold war.

Soviet scientists are believed to have produced a wide variety of the so-called CBR (chemical-biological-radiological) weapons and stockpiled them against future use.

Some CBR weapons obviously would be useful primarily in direct, full-scale attack to produce quick results, including the asphyxiating, nerve and psychological gases.

However, some biological weapons for use against man or his food are slow-acting tools, of value either in stealthy action in undeclared or cold war or in a prolonged war of attrition. In an era of nuclear explosive and missiles, the chance of another war of attrition diminishes.

An Agriculture Department scientist specializing in crop disease and control was asked Saturday if he had reason to suspect that covert biological warfare attempts have been made.

He replied, "I do not know of anything in the continental United States that would give grounds" for such suspicion at this time.

However, both military and agricultural experts are on the alert for such attempts. Sharp watch is kept for any sudden appearance or rapid increase of diseases among crops or livestock.

But the methods of detection cannot be swift, which also would be true in detecting and identifying biological attack against populations. Cultures, laboratory studies, detailed analyses are required to determine whether a disease is implanted by an enemy or result of a nature-caused increase.

Among the military's experts on biological warfare is Dr. Leroy D. Fothergill of the Army's biological warfare research branch at Ft. Detrick, Md.

Biological warfare is primarily a strategic weapon for two reasons, he says—"It has no quick-kill effect;" the effectiveness of biological warfare would accrue from the possibility of covering very extensive target areas" (as distinguished from comparatively compact targets in a battle zone.)

"The biological anticrop agents would, undoubtedly, be the most damaging if used on a large basis," Fothergill said. "Agents would be selected for their capacity to propagate. Experience with natural epiphytotics (fungus diseases) indicates that large crop areas may be covered.

"The spread of stem rust of wheat up the Mississippi Valley and Great Plains area and on into Canada is a typical example.

Fothergill expresses concern about livestock. The U.S. animal populations are highly susceptible to major plagues, and "introduction of these agents could be devastatingly serious," he thinks.

Activities For 'Teen Day' At Festival Given

JONESVILLE (Special) — The activities for Teen Day to be held on Thursday, Aug. 17, in connection with the Louisiana Soybean Festival, August 17 through 19, in Jonesville were released this week by Mrs. J. C. Oxley, chairman of the event.

All teenage girls and boys are to meet at Block high school, Jonesville, at 9:30 a.m.

Teenage activities will include soft ball game, swimming, picnic and a pet show for the pre-teenagers.

The group of teenagers are requested to meet at the Block high school at 9:30 a.m. for the ball game which will include both boys and girls.

Following the ball game, a swimming hour will be held at the Jonesville swimming pool from 11:45 a.m. until 1 p.m. The regular life guards and personnel will have supervision over the swimming of the teenagers. The cost per teenager will be 15 cents.

A picnic, with each teenager furnishing their lunch, will be held at the fair grounds at Jonesville beginning at 1 p.m.

At 3 p.m. a pet show will be held for the pre-teen group. Prizes of gift certificates will be given to the owner who has the prettiest pet or the cutest and one for the most unusual. The pre-teenage group includes all children up to and including 12 years.

"All teenagers are urged to come out and make the Teen Day a big success," Mrs. Oxley said.

Biological warfare is primarily a strategic weapon for two reasons, he says—"It has no quick-kill effect;" the effectiveness of biological warfare would accrue from the possibility of covering very extensive target areas" (as distinguished from comparatively compact targets in a battle zone.)

"The biological anticrop agents would, undoubtedly, be the most damaging if used on a large basis," Fothergill said. "Agents would be selected for their capacity to propagate. Experience with natural epiphytotics (fungus diseases) indicates that large crop areas may be covered.

"The spread of stem rust of wheat up the Mississippi Valley and Great Plains area and on into Canada is a typical example.

Fothergill expresses concern about livestock. The U.S. animal populations are highly susceptible to major plagues, and "introduction of these agents could be devastatingly serious," he thinks.

Activities For 'Teen Day' At Festival Given

JONESVILLE (Special) — The activities for Teen Day to be held on Thursday, Aug. 17, in connection with the Louisiana Soybean Festival, August 17 through 19, in Jonesville were released this week by Mrs. J. C. Oxley, chairman of the event.

All teenage girls and boys are to meet at Block high school, Jonesville, at 9:30 a.m.

The group of teenagers are requested to meet at the Block high school at 9:30 a.m. for the ball game which will include both boys and girls.

Following the ball game, a swimming hour will be held at the Jonesville swimming pool from 11:45 a.m. until 1 p.m. The regular life guards and personnel will have supervision over the swimming of the teenagers. The cost per teenager will be 15 cents.

A picnic, with each teenager furnishing their lunch, will be held at the fair grounds at Jonesville beginning at 1 p.m.

At 3 p.m. a pet show will be held for the pre-teen group. Prizes of gift certificates will be given to the owner who has the prettiest pet or the cutest and one for the most unusual. The pre-teenage group includes all children up to and including 12 years.

"All teenagers are urged to come out and make the Teen Day a big success," Mrs. Oxley said.

$35 Million Is Given To U. S. School

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Princeton University announced Saturday that it has received an anonymous gift of $35 million.

The money, said Robert F. Goheen, university president, is for the establishment of a foundation for Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Goheen said the gift exceeded the total endowment of all but some 30 of the country's colleges and ranks as one of the largest single gifts to an American university.

Goheen said the gift would enable Princeton University "to do what it and other universities have long wished to do: Establish professional education for the public service at a level comparable to the country's best schools of medicine and law."

Goheen said that the graduate sector of the school would increase from about 30 to 100 students through the fund. New fellowships will be added and both faculty and physical facilities will be expanded.

The Wilson school, begun in 1930, is Princeton's memorial to its late president who became governor of New Jersey and president of the United States.

The largest recorded contribution to an American university, according to Goheen, was made in 1890 by John D. Rockefeller. He set aside $35 million to found the University of Chicago, and several months later increased the grant to $75 million.

Campers Return From Week At 'Y' Encampment

Twenty campers returned to Monroe Friday afternoon after spending a week at Warner "Y" Camp, near Vicksburg, Miss.

While at Warner "Y" Camp the campers enjoyed such activities as: riflery, archery, horseback riding, crafts, nature hikes, caroling, swimming, and softball. Some of the evening programs included stunts, talent show, campfire, and night swims.

Canoe races were held on Wednesday evening after supper, and a swim meet was held on Thursday evening.

Those receiving awards were: Talent show, David Pipes; Stunts, Group 1 (Jimmy Balfour, Scotty Dyer, Craig Meek, Woody Jackson, David Marcovitz, and Ronnie Laudenheimer); Cabin Inspection, Group 1; Canoe Race, Jimmy Balfour and Scotty Dyer; Riflery, Scotty Dyer, Buddy Dent, and David Pipes; Most Improved Camper, Jimmy Balfour; Best Camper, tied between John Jackson and Woody Jackson. In the swimming events, all except two were selected by cabins and will be listed in the order of one, two and three: Free Style, Ronnie Laudenheimer, Herbert Fink, and Louis Masur; Breast Stroke, Jimmy Balfour, Al Beasley, and John Jackson; Back Stroke, Craig Meek, Al Beasley, and Jimmy Laudenheimer; Underwater Distance, Ronnie Laudenheimer, Buddy Dent, and John Jackson; Duck Waddle, Craig Mek, Al Beasly, and Billy Beasley; Ping Pong Ball Race, Woody Jackson, Buddy Dent, and Jimmy Laudenheimer. The overall winner for Free Style was Louis Masur, and the Best Diving Award went to John Jackson.

Junior Counselors were: Mike Craighead and Billy Wilkerson. Water Front Director was Jerry Howard. Camp Nurse was Mrs. Lois Jackson; and the Camp Director was Arthur Forbes.

Officials To Show Film At Ruston Meet

RUSTON (Special) — Lieutenant Governor C. C. Aycock and John Deer, chairman of the Louisiana Sovereignty Commission will be guests at the Ruston Loins Steak House.

The pair will present a 15-minute television movie on segregation, and Aycock will give a short talk.

The picture, called "A Way of Life," is in color and is one of a series planned by the Sovereignty Commission in keeping with its assigned duty to promote Constitutional government and stem the tide of creeping federalism.

"Mainly, the short film was produced for use in areas where people think all Negroes in the south attend school in log cabins and are taught by poorly - paid teachers," says Deer. "It was decided by the Commission to show it in Louisiana when previews in Baton Rouge revealed that many in the state were unaware of the fine job Louisiana has done for its Negro citizens."

"The picture shows Southern University and Grambling College and a small sample of the many fine Negro public schools in the state," Deer continued. "Its basic message is that we already have equality — equality of opportunity."

The film has a message from Governor Jimmie Davis at the end of it.

PACIFISTS MOVE

AYR, Scotland (AP) — Campaigners against nuclear weapons set out in the rain from here Saturday on a "remember Hiroshima" march to the U.S. Polaris submarine base on the Holy Loch.

The demonstrators, numbering only 20 including three women, quickly abandoned their idea of a march and accepted lifts in trucks and cars. They announced they would stage an all-night vigil alongside the Loch.

Solon Predicts Long Nerve War

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee called on the American people Saturday to "steel themselves" for a long war of nerves with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He said the Senate-passed $46.8 billion military spending bill is a "rather modest step towards meeting the crisis that Mr. Khrushchev seems determined to thrust upon us." But he added "it is a very necessary step."

The Georgia Democrat gave his views in a television-radio interview with Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

The defense appropriation bill, biggest in U. S. peacetime history, carries $4.1 billion more than was voted by the House. It passed the Senate by an 8.0 vote Friday and went to a House-Senate conference to work out the differences.

The bill includes the $3.5 billion President Kennedy asked for last week to build up non-nuclear forces and meet the Soviet threats to West Berlin, plus extra funds the Senate felt were needed for manned bombers not sought by Kennedy.

"I don't think we are going to get out of this difficulty any time soon," Russell said, "and I think the American people might as well steel themselves for a long period when he (Khrushchev) will test our nerves, our courage, and our fiber as a strong people.

"And I have every confidence the American people will emerge with flying colors, and that we will defend and protect the American way of life, which is the greatest civilization that has ever existed under the canopy of heaven."

In boosting Kennedy's emergency request, the Senate approved its appropriation committee's recommendation that an additional $525 million be added for B52 and B58 manned bomber production, and that his $220 million request for B70 super-bomber development be doubled to $448 million. By a vote of 87 to 4 the Senate rejected an attempt by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. to eliminate the extra $525 million.

Russell emphasized that his committee had a "very firm understanding" with Defense Secretary Robert S. Mcamara that so f as practical the armed forces would use men who had not given prior military service, and call up reservists who had the shortest active duty records.

The chairman said he thought it "highly likely" that married reservis's or National Guardsmen will be called up "without regard to marilat status' unless they have children or the wife is expecting a child, in which case some deferment would be probable.

He added that, generally speaking, young men in college and who are making "good grades" will continue to win deferment until they have graduated.

Tunisia Gets Promise Of Russian Aid

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has given assurance of all forms of aid necessary to get the French out of Tunisia, Tunisian Foreign Minister Sadok Mukaddem said Saturday.

But he emphasized that the aid initially would be diplomatic and that other aid "will be adapted to our needs."

The foreign minister told correspondents he had long and friendly conferences with both Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

He delivered to Khrushchev a letter from President Habib Bourguiba, inviting him to visit Tunisia. Mukaddem said, and Khrushchev accepted the invitation. A date for the visit will be arranged later. The foreign minister declined to indicate whether it would be this year or later.

He also said there was a standing invitation for Bourguiba to visit the Soviet Union but that as yet he had not accepted. He added that Bourguiba could not leave the country while the country is in conflict with France.

Questions whether any armed aid had been promised were evaded.

He said Khrushchev supported fully the Tunisian desire to have the base at Bizerte evacuated by the French.

Bourguiba, always regarded as staunchly pro-Western, turned to the Soviet Union for support after French paratroopers went into battle against Tunisian forces demanding France's withdrawal from the Bizerte base.

Moscow radio said Khrushchev "reaffirmed that the sympathies and support of the Soviet people have been and remained with the Tunisian people and expressed confidence that the Tunisian people would achieve victory in the struggle for the strengthening of the independence of their state."

Mukaddem said his main purpose in coming to Moscow was to give the Soviet government full information on the circumstances of the battle with the French over Bizerte.

CORE Asks Marshals In Jackson

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) asked the Kennedy administration Saturday to station federal marshals in Jackson, Miss., Aug. 14 when at least 186 "freedom riders" will appeal their breach of peace convictions.

CORE said the so-called "freedom riders" would arrive in Jackson Aug. 13 for a rally the night before the mass appeals.

James Farmer, national director of CORE who served 40 days on a beach of peace charge, appealed for federal marshals in identical telegrams to President Kennedy and U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Farmer said CORE attorneys had tried to work out "an orderly and peaceful series of trials," but that Jackson's prosecuting attorney, Jack Travis, refused.

"Travis. . .ordered all defendants to be present (Aug. 14) through it will be physically impossible to try them all then, or even in the next few months," Farmer said in the telegrams.

Farmer said CORE would "make every effort to see that our conduct is complete non-violent. At the same time, CORE shall continue to protest segregation in Jackson. We cannot guarantee the conduct of hoodlum elements."

The CORE national director said there had been 305 arrests of persons testing segregation in the Mississippi capital. He said the 186 who plan to appeal their convictions are out of jail, and that they might be joined by others who still are in jail but who will post bond for the court appearance.

People Return After Danger Smog Cleared

INMAN, S. C. (AP)—Some 200 residents of this small textile community started moving back into their homes Saturday on word from health officials that a dangerous smog caused by a chemical plant explosion had cleared the area.

The series of explosions Thursday night and Friday morning wrecked the plant of the California Chemical Co., a division of Esso Standard Oil Co. Fumes from a spectacular fire that followed the explosion spread a poisonous smog over much of the area.

Seven persons remained hospitalized at nearby Spartanburg. They were being treated for nausea, dizziness and abdominal pains. More than 50 others were treated and released.

'Maneater' Watchfish Runs Tame

He's got a noble job over at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, all right, swimming around over a quarter of a million dollars worth of cultured pearls. But he's not the vicious little watchfish that he's billed to be.

Perky Peter is a piranha and according to the script he's supposed to be a man-eater of the first order. The script was written by publicity men for the 56th annual convention and trade show of the Retail Jewelers of America.

The gem boys open their shebang Sunday and will keep it running through Thursday.

Seems that the Cultured Pearl Association wanted to dramatize its exhibit at the show. So it hustled down to Macy's and bought Peter.

"Who needs Brinks?" said the bait-sheet sent to reporters. "Piranha, voracious man-eating fish from the northern Amazon River, to guard display of quarter-million dollars worth of cultured pearls in aquarium."

A Pinkerton man helped direct the curious to the small aquarium in the Waldorf-Astoria's main ballroom. And publicity men were on hand to tell how a gang of Peter's relatives once stripped a 400-pound hog right down to the bone on a hungry afternoon in the Amazon.

Perky Peter, who looks sort of like a skinny perch, shied behind a post as photographers set up their cameras and a couple of reporters leered at him. He seemed to take a dim view of the goings-on.

Somebody offered him a hunk of shrimp, but he cowered back further in the corner—leaving at least two quarters of cultured pearls unguarded.

Finally, when the hubbub subsided, he came out and hovered over the pearls to get his picture taken.

The bubble was broken soon afterward by Steve Stewart, a pet shop adviser at Macy's.

"Yeah, it is potentially dangerous," Stewart said in answer to a question. "It had a very highly developed sense organ and gets upset easily.

"But," he added, "this is something that has been blown up and exaggerated in this country. It has very rarely attacked a human being.

"Why, down in South America the natives as children swim right among these fish and think nothing about it."

Stewart obliged a photographer by sticking his hand in the aquarium and pinching Peter on the tail. Peter wiggled in the other direction and bumped his nose on the glass wall.

"They are mostly carnivorous, but not entirely," Stewart added. "This little fellow will even eat watermelon."

Solon Predicts Long Nerve War

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee called on the American people Saturday to "steel themselves" for a long war of nerves with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He said the Senate-passed $46.8 billion military spending bill is a "rather modest step towards meeting the crisis that Mr. Khrushchev seems determined to thrust upon us." But he added "it is a very necessary step."

The Georgia Democrat gave his views in a television-radio interview with Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

The defense appropriation bill, biggest in U. S. peacetime history, carries $4.1 billion more than was voted by the House. It passed the Senate by an 8.0 vote Friday and went to a House-Senate conference to work out the differences.

The bill includes the $3.5 billion President Kennedy asked for last week to build up non-nuclear forces and meet the Soviet threats to West Berlin, plus extra funds the Senate felt were needed for manned bombers not sought by Kennedy.

"I don't think we are going to get out of this difficulty any time soon," Russell said, "and I think the American people might as well steel themselves for a long period when he (Khrushchev) will test our nerves, our courage, and our fiber as a strong people.

"And I have every confidence the American people will emerge with flying colors, and that we will defend and protect the American way of life, which is the greatest civilization that has ever existed under the canopy of heaven."

In boosting Kennedy's emergency request, the Senate approved its appropriation committee's recommendation that an additional $525 million be added for B52 and B58 manned bomber production, and that his $220 million request for B70 super-bomber development be doubled to $448 million. By a vote of 87 to 4 the Senate rejected an attempt by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. to eliminate the extra $525 million.

Russell emphasized that his committee had a "very firm understanding" with Defense Secretary Robert S. Mcamara that so f as practical the armed forces would use men who had not given prior military service, and call up reservists who had the shortest active duty records.

The chairman said he thought it "highly likely" that married reservists or National Guardsmen will be called up "without regard to marilat status' unless they have children or the wife is expecting a child, in which case some deferment would be probable.

He added that, generally speaking, young men in college and who are making "good grades" will continue to win deferment until they have graduated.

Tunisia Gets Promise Of Russian Aid

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has given assurance of all forms of aid necessary to get the French out of Tunisia, Tunisian Foreign Minister Sadok Mukaddem said Saturday.

But he emphasized that the aid initially would be diplomatic and that other aid "will be adapted to our needs."

The foreign minister told correspondents he had long and friendly conferences with both Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

He delivered to Khrushchev a letter from President Habib Bourguiba, inviting him to visit Tunisia, Mukaddem said, and Khrushchev accepted the invitation. A date for the visit will be arranged later. The foreign minister declined to indicate whether it would be this year or later.

He also said there was a standing invitation for Bourguiba to visit the Soviet Union but that as yet he had not accepted. He added that Bourguiba could not leave the country while the country is in conflict with France.

Questions whether any armed aid had been promised were evaded.

He said Khrushchev supported fully the Tunisian desire to have the base at Bizerte evacuated by the French.

Bourguiba, always regarded as staunchly pro-Western, turned to the Soviet Union for support after French paratroopers went into battle against Tunisian forces demanding France's withdrawal from the Bizerte base.

Moscow radio said Khrushchev "reaffirmed that the sympathies and support of the Soviet people have been and remained with the Tunisian people and expressed confidence that the Tunisian people would achieve victory in the struggle for the strengthening of the independence of their state."

Mukaddem said his main purpose in coming to Moscow was to give the Soviet government full information on the circumstances of the battle with the French over Bizerte.

A courteous driving award program will be launched here today by Stonewall Lodge No. 8 of Knights of Pythias, it was announced yesterday by Dr. H. H. Baur, publicity chairman.

Baur said, "The members of Stonewall Lodge, while driving around in the Monroe - West Monroe area will observe acts of driving courtesy by all drivers. Their names will be turned in to the Highway Courtesy Committee of the lodge."

He continued, "Drivers observed doing courteous driving will be personally presented with a courteous driving award."

The award program is a permanent one, which is being carried on by Knights of Pythias groups in towns in the United States and Canada.

The publicity chairman said, "It has long been recognized that by practicing courtesy a person will also become a safer driver, thus reducing the number of motor vehicle accidents."

Man Who Lost Wife, 6 Kids In Crash Weds

MAYFIELD, Minn. (AP) — Farmer James Zimmerman, whose wife and six children were killed two years ago in a car-train crash, and Vivian Kraus, an attractive widow with six children, were married Saturday.

The bride's first husband, Edward J. Kraus, died of cancer six weeks before the Zimmerman accident. He operated a rented farm near here.

The quiet ceremony was the first wedding in the new Sacred Heart Catholic church in this southeastern Minnesota farm community. The vows were spoken before the Rev. Peter Coleman, who played a major role in bringing the couple together.

The bride, 30, wearing an ice blue nylon lace gown and matching veil hat, was preceded down the aisle by her six children—Joan, 10; Jim, 7; Steven, 6; twins Richard and Ronald, 5, and Tom, 3.

Challenge Met

Productive Years

Sixty - four - year - old Earl J. Phelps, 722 Lakeshore, was a soldier for 30 years, serving in combat and in two armies of occupation, but he met one of his greatest challenges after returning to civilian life.

In 1950, he was working as a foreman for the State Department of Highways, when a gravel truck backed over him. Both legs and a hip were broken.

He was hospitalized for nine weeks, and doctors thought he would never be able to walk again. But after a year he began to walk on crutches, and today he is following a busy schedule of gardening and yard beautification.

DISCARDED

The wheelchair and crutches are in discard.

One day last week a table in the Phelps kitchen was piled high with fruit from trees and vines he had set out and tended, fresh vegetables grown in his garden, and jars of jelly made from freshly harvested fruit.

The garden has been yielding heavily this summer. Its products range from radishes, turnips, mustard, cucumbers, Irish potatoes, egg plants, onions, peppers and okra to tomatoes.

Mrs. Phelps said the tomato yield has been abundant, and they have given many of them away to friends and relatives. Producing trees in the back yard are peach, crab apple, apple, pear, three types of plum, then some grape vines have yielded generously and there are plenty of boysenberries.

Phelps said he had picked three bushels of grapes from the vines in the past week.

RETIREMENT

In 1957, after service in many sections of the nation and of the world, Phelps, a master sergeant in the post engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va., went into retirement. He and his wife moved to Monroe, and he began planting fruit trees, and flowers in the spacious yard which is 100 feet by 200 feet.

There is always plenty of work to do around the yard, and most of the time Phelps does the lawn mowing in addition to the many other jobs necessary to maintain the many projects.

Looking back over his long army career, Phelps recalled how he enlisted in 1914 and went to the Philippines for two years service. In 1916 he served with General Pershing's forces in Mexico.

He remembered a strange experience which he and several other soldiers had at Camp Harry J. Jones on the Mexican border. He said they arose early one morning and looked out from their campsite at what appeared to be a large movement of Mexican troops.

"It was a mirage which lasted for two or three minutes," he said. "Actually there were probably no Mexican troops within 200 miles."

IN FRANCE

In World War One, he served with the Infantry in France, and received shrapnel wounds in the leg. After the war ended he served in the occupation army in Germany. At the end of World War Two he served again with occupation forces in Germany.

In 1920 he was mustered out of the army and went to work for the Forestry Service on the west coast. This tour of duty, which lasted for about 12 years took him to many national forests in the west.

He helped fight many forest fires during that time. Probably the worst, he said, was one in Oregon where the fire was spread along a 70-mile front in Douglas firs.

That was before the day of the air drop, and Phelps said, "We had to either walk into the fire area or go in by truck."

From the Forestry service, Phelps returned to the army. In 1949 he was sent to Germany for occupation duty, and returned to the states in 1953.

FROM MONTANA

He came from a family of ranchers in Montana, where hay and wheat were the prime crops, so love of horticulture comes naturally to him.

He raises many types of flowers, but those he favors most are daylilies, iris and roses.

Another activity of his centers around a bird sanctuary he built. It consists of a large assortment of various types of bird houses on poles. The quarters are in big demand among the feathered clan.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps have two sons, John and Justin Fogleman, a grandson and a granddaughter. John is chief photographer for the News-Star — World, and Justin is a member of the composing room staff.

The Phelps are members of the Parkview Baptist Church.

Motif Of Pleasantry

Unusual Cemetery

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Hubert Eaton, "The Builder" of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, puffed a cigar in his low-vaulted English Tudor study.

At 80 he looked as solid as his 11-story concerte mausoleum atop the hill nearby, where many famous people are interred in museum-like surroundings.

"Is this going to be another satire?" he asked with a grin.

"In my next life I'm not going to pioneer. I'm going to work for a salary, just draw my paycheck and not try to do anything like this."

His cigar made a smoke arc that swept it all in: 300 acres of controversial real estate.

The wrought iron gates, like many things here the biggest anyplace, open on a visit that awes, inspires, mystifies or irks, depending on the viewer.

TRAIL BLAZER

From the moment they drive past the duck pond and its laughing marble baby clutching ducklings under pudgy arms, the 1½ million visitors a year know this cemetery is a trail blazer. Once radically different, it's widely copied now.

"I wanted to eradicate all signs of mourning," Eaton says.

He did. This cemetery is for the living, described by its founder as a memorial to the Christian doctrine of immortality. It's designed as a happy cemetery, where sorrow of parting is eased by reminders of faith in life beyond the grave.

Poetry and religious quotations are on every side.

"It's the only spot in the world where all the works of Michelangelo can be seen. The greatest collection of American sculptors' original work. Nowhere else in the world is there as much statuary and large size art."

Nearly a third as many persons get married as buried here each year. Its churches honor such diverse personages as Rudyard Kipling, Annie Laurie and—in Hollywood Hills — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Its museum houses a black opal, large bronzed doors and suits of armor. Souvenirs are sold.

The beauty and symbolism move many to 'tears of joy, comfort scores of thousands, express the religious convictions of multitudes. Such persons as Dr. Billy Graham and Dr. Norman Vincent Peale have praised Forest Lawn.

Some people—including many sincere Christians who uphold the aims—are singularly unmoved by the soft-piped omnipresent music among the shrubs, the flowing fountains and flawless renditions of Michelangelo and Kipling. They suggest it's all for money and is a hard-sell at that. Eaton and his creation have been mercilessly satirized in print, pictured as heartlessly mercenary.

"We have never had a Christian writer take that line," Eaton says. "Those things used to bother me, but a psychologist or two told me Forest Lawn symbolizes something that everybody is afraid of.

"When we started, we were a revolution. You can't have a revolution without being attacked. People hate change. Causes insecurity, I guess."

Sporadically, Eaton lights a new fuse, blasting new foes into orbit.

REVOLUTION

A mining engineer who in 1917 saw opportunity in the cemetery business, Eaton sprang one shock after another on once complacent competitors. They've never stopped battling him, but now they fight fire with fire.

Eaton started the memorial park idea, substituting works of art for tombstones; started selling graves before need and using door-to-door salesmen; was first to put a mortuary inside a cemetery; set up the nation's largest religious painting, "The Crucifixion;" went heavy on billboard, radio and bus stop bench advertising; drew up to 50,000 for Easter sunrise services until discontinuing them, and built his once faltering cemetery into a top tourist attraction.

Forest Lawn and Babyland, Lullabyland, Slumberland, Graceland, Borderland and Vesperland sections started long before Disneyland.

"I wish somebody would require that preachers went to salesman school," Eaton says. "Preachers have the greatest message in the world, but most of them don't know how to sell it."

To help, he established the Foundation for the Science and Art of Persuasion at his alma mater, William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo.

BELIEF

He believes Forest Lawn has bolstered the religious faith of many.

"I've heard Christian after Christian say, 'I never knew what the Crucifixion meant before I saw that painting.' But until the arrow was installed, it fell flat."

A white arrow helps viewers follow the musically accompanied narration over the panorama, as long as a 10-story building is high.

"We have nearly 2½ times the income of any institution of our kind in the world. With all the satire and all, why do we still do that?"

This proves, he feels, that people like the approach.

Scores of notables lie among the 170,000 buried at Forest Lawn—Clark Gable beside his former wife, Carole Lombard; Tom Mix in a silver casket; Aimee Semple McPherson in a $40,000 sarcophagus; Wallace Beery; Jean Harlow; Errol Flynn; physicist-educator Robert Andrews Millikan in the exclusive Memorial Court of Honor, and others. Caryl Chessman's ashes were rejected because he was an unrepentant agnostic.

"The biggest crowd we ever had for anyone was for my good friend Will Rogers," Eaton recalls. "The line to file past the casket stretched for blocks. And it was a closed casket."

Angling, Ancient Sport Of Man

EDITOR'S NOTE: A fisherman stands in the unhurried country, removed from grinding civilization, and casts his line into cool water. When he works that line, says a veteran angler, women and talk please stay away. It's not that they bother the fish. They bother the fisherman.

By JULIES LOCH
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first living thing the Lord put upon this earth was fish.

A logical enough choice, because what would paradise have been without them? The apple must have been the second temptation Adam yielded to; surely the first was fishing.

Doubtless God could have designed a better pastime for man, but doubtless he didn't.

Fishing needs no justification, and so we fishermen seldom deign to explain our noble avocation to those untutored cynics who, heaven forbid, scoff at it.

Anyone who has felt the savage strike of a fighting bass, seen a trout thrash angrily skyward out of his element into mine, glimpsed a large shadow stalking a dancing lure, listened to the virgin stillness of nature, smelled crisp air filtered by pines and washed by the stream's own water, known the quiver of excitement in a rod bent double, heard the swish of a line, the whir of a reel—he needs no convincing.

Fishermen likewise rarely try to find the words—really, there are no adequate ones—to discuss among themselves these exquisit delights.

Each fisherman understands, and knows his fishing partner understands, and the real thrills of a day's fishing remain unspoken among the statistical reports of size and weight and lure.

Once—and only once—I went fishing with a barbarian who insisted on talking while we fished. Fishermen object to idle talk, not because it might disturb the fish, but because it disturbs them.

This is the sanctuary they have chosen to escape the turbulence of civilization. Here there are no clocks, no telephones, no bills, no bosses, no deadlines and, if they're lucky, no wives. Here there is pure serenity. And if it should turn out there are no fish, there still is good company, which is to say none at all.

A lady I knew said she thought it was cruel to catch fishes and what had the poor fishes done to deserve it?

AFFINITY

She couldn't possibly understand the affinity a man feels for the fish thrashing at the end of his delicate line. In fact, no one has more true respect for the dignity of a fighting fish than a fisherman.

Once a fishing buddy of mine teased a lunker bass into striking a surface lure. The big fish made a truly vicious attack which thrust him clean out of the water. At the peak of his leap he felt the barb and with a magnificent twist, spat the plug from his mouth and got away.

"Wasn't that beautiful?" said my friend.

It is this respect that separates true fishermen from the fellows who rent ocean boats, dangle ropes over the side, and haul up overpowered fish much as a roofer hauls up a bucket of tar. A hired hand removes the fish, replaced the bait and the skilled angler returns to his place on the rail to haul up another load. The ladies aboard squeak and squeal and usually one or two of them get sick.

Never, oh never, confuse this with fishing.

NOBLE

Fishing is pure, honest, clean, just, noble, righteous. It is the great equalizer of mankind; the diversion of commoner and king, pugilist and poet. Fishing exalts the humble and humbles the exalted.

Fishing is, like speechmaking, a delicate art easily abused; and some people, such as most women, shouldn't even bother to try it.

I have a brace of girls at home who believes fishing is not clean, noble, pure, etc., but describe it variously as boring, itchy, slimy, buggy and icky. Their blasphemy is inherited, but not from me.

But I also have a pair of boys, and this makes up for it. By all odds the best fishing companion is a man's own boy—and not only because when you tell him to shut up and fish he shuts up and fishes.

Every fishing experience a man ever had, every triumph and every disappointment, is experienced again as he watches his boy play a fish.

GLOW OF PRIDE

No artist could put on canvas the unrestrained glow of accomplishment spread over a boy's face when he conquers his fish, holds it up and admires it; nor could a brush copy the tragic disappointment of losing a fish.

Undoubtedly fishing is the only pastime generally recognized as inherently good. In fact, fishing and evil plainly are opposites.

Doesn't every politician demonstrate his righteousness and humility with a photograph of himself in a battered hat decorated with lures? Isn't the sight of a barefoot boy with a cane pole and a can of worms the very personification of innocence? Would ever the most skeptical businessman dare question the explanation that a client has gone fishing? Why, friends and neighbors, even lying is considered just when indulged in by fishermen.

No wonder the Assyrians 4,000 years ago carved a tablet which said: "The gods do not subtract from the alloted span of men's lives the hours spent in fishing."

Navigation Moves Ahead

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — From the day the first trapper pushed his canoe against the surging waters of the Red River, navigating the muddy, treacherous waterway has been talked and tried.

Today, navigation up the winding river which could link Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma with ports of the world is nearer than ever before.

At the helm was Barney Holland, an independent oilman from Fort Worth and president of the Heart of Texas Transportation Co., who insists "Red River is ready for navigation in a modest way."

PRIME INTEREST

Holland said his prime interest is cutting down transportation mileage between Eastern manufacturers and the heavily populated Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Navigation was profitable during the early 1820s, to men who shuttled small river steamers back and forth to New Orleans. But it was dangerous and depended largely upon the moods of Big Red.

And now, navigation on a commercial basis appears to be as complex a question as in the 1820s.

The Corps of Engineers staged hearings in Paris, Shreveport and Alexandria, La., recently prior to an estimated $400,000, 4-year study of the river — on flood control, bank stabilization and navigation.

Interstate Commerce Commission examiner James H. Gaffney recommended in May that Holland's company be authorized to operate barge line service between Denison and New Orleans.

However, railroad companies took exception to the ruling and a rebuttal by the company is being heard by the ICC.

The Texas & Pacific Railway Co., during the hearings opposed "the creation of another unneeded transport facility in the form of a navigation project for Red River."

STAND

In its statement the company maintained "the navigation of the waterway would never serve the people, but would, if implemented, be truly a limited transportation service to profit only a limited number of industries handling a small number of commodities."

Red River's history is marred by raving floods, vicious cave-ins and a changing course.

Throughout the Corps of Engineers' hearings, farmers and landowners told of land and crops lost to the reddish colored waters.

Challenge Met

Productive Years

Sixty - four - year - old Earl J. Phelps, 722 Lakeshore, was a soldier for 30 years, serving in combat and in two armies of occupation, but he met one of his greatest challenges after returning to civilian life.

In 1959, he was working as a foreman for the State Department of Highways, when a gravel truck backed over him. Both legs and a hip were broken.

He was hospitalized for nine weeks, and doctors thought he would never be able to walk again. But after a year he began to walk on crutches, and today he is following a busy schedule of gardening and yard beautification.

DISCARDED

The wheelchair and crutches are in discard.

One day last week a table in the Phelps kitchen was piled high with fruit from trees and vines he had set out and tended, fresh vegetables grown in his garden, and jars of jelly made from freshly harvested fruit.

The garden has been yielding heavily this summer. Its products range from radishes, turnips, mustard, cucumbers, Irish potatoes, egg plants, onions, peppers and okra to tomatoes.

Mrs. Phelps said the tomato yield has been abundant, and they have given many of them away to friends and relatives. Producing trees in the back yard are peach, crab apple, apple, pear, three types of plum, then some grape vines have yielded generously and there are plenty of boysenberries.

Phelps said he had picked three bushels of grapes from the vines in the past week.

RETIREMENT

In 1957, after service in many sections of the nation and of the world, Phelps, a master sergeant in the post engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va., went into retirement. He and his wife moved to Monroe, and he began planting fruit trees, and flowers in the spacious yard which is 100 feet by 200 feet.

There is always plenty of work to do around the yard, and most of the time Phelps does the lawn mowing in addition to the many other jobs necessary to maintain the many projects.

Looking back over his long army career, Phelps recalled how he enlisted in 1914 and went to the Philippines for two years service. In 1916 he served with General Pershing's forces in Mexico.

He remembered a strange experience which he and several other soldiers had at Camp Harry J. Jones on the Mexican border. He said they arose early one morning and looked out from their campsite at what appeared to be a large movement of Mexican troops.

"It was a mirage which lasted for two or three minutes," he said. "Actually there were probably no Mexican troops within 200 miles."

IN FRANCE

In World War One, he served with the Infantry in France, and received shrapnel wounds in the leg. After the war ended he served in the occupation army in Germany. At the end of World War Two he served again with occupation forces in Germany.

In 1920 he was mustered out of the army and went to work for the Forestry Service on the west coast. This tour of duty, which lasted for about 12 years took him to many national forests in the west.

He helped fight many forest fires during that time. Probably the worst, he said, was one in Oregon where the fire was spread along a 70-mile front in Douglas firs.

That was before the day of the air drop, and Phelps said, "We had to either walk into the fire area or go in by truck."

From the Forestry service, Phelps returned to the army. In 1949 he was sent to Germany for occupation duty, and returned to the states in 1953.

FROM MONTANA

He came from a family of ranchers in Montana, where hay and wheat were the prime crops, so love of horticulture comes naturally to him.

He raises many types of flowers, but those he favors most are daylilies, iris and roses.

Another activity of his centers around a bird sanctuary he built. It consists of a large assortment of various types of bird houses on poles. The quarters are in big demand among the feathered clan.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps have two sons, John and Justin Fogleman, a grandson and a granddaughter.

Motif Of Pleasantry

Unusual Cemetery

At 80 he looked as solid as his 11-story concerte mausoleum atop the hill nearby, where many famous people are interred in museum-like surroundings.

"Is this going to be another satire?" he asked with a grin.

"In my next life I'm not going to pioneer. I'm going to work for a salary, just draw my paycheck and not try to do anything like this."

His cigar made a smoke arc that swept it all in: 300 acres of controversial real estate.

The wrought iron gates, like many things here the biggest anyplace, open on a visit that awes, inspires, mystifies or irks, depending on the viewer.

TRAIL BLAZER

From the moment they drive past the duck pond and its laughing marble baby clutching ducklings under pudgy arms, the 1½ million visitors a year know this cemetery is a trail blazer. Once radically different, it's widely copied now.

"I wanted to eradicate all signs of mourning," Eaton says.

He did. This cemetery is for the living, described by its founder as a memorial to the Christian doctrine of immortality. It's designed as a happy cemetery, where sorrow of parting is eased by reminders of faith in life beyond the grave.

Poetry and religious quotations are on every side.

"It's the only spot in the world where all the works of Michelangelo can be seen. The greatest collection of American sculptors' original work. Nowhere else in the world is there as much statuary and large size art."

Nearly a third as many persons get married as buried here each year. Its churches honor such diverse personages as Rudyard Kipling, Annie Laurie and—in Hollywood Hills — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Its museum houses a black opal, large bronzed doors and suits of armor. Souvenirs are sold.

The beauty and symbolism move many to tears of joy, comfort scores of thousands, express the religious convictions of multitudes. Such persons as Dr. Billy Graham and Dr. Norman Vincent Peale have praised Forest Lawn.

Some people—including many sincere Christians who uphold the aims—are singularly unmoved by the soft-piped omnipresent music among the shrubs, the flowing fountains and flawless renditions of Michelangelo and Kipling. They suggest it's all for money and is a hard-sell at that. Eaton and his creation have been mercilessly satirized in print, pictured as heartlessly mercenary.

"We have never had a Christian writer take that line," Eaton says. "Those things used to bother me, but a psychologist or two told me Forest Lawn symbolizes something that everybody is afraid of.

"When we started, we were a revolution. You can't have a revolution without being attacked. People hate change. Causes insecurity, I guess."

Sporadically, Eaton lights a new fuse, blasting new foes into orbit.

REVOLUTION

A mining engineer who in 1917 saw opportunity in the cemetery business, Eaton sprang one shock after another on once complacent competitors. They've never stopped battling him, but now they fight fire with fire.

Eaton started the memorial park idea, substituting works of art for tombstones; started selling graves before need and using door-to-door salesmen; was first to put a mortuary inside a cemetery; set up the nation's largest religious painting, "The Crucifixion;" went heavy on billboard, radio and bus stop bench advertising; drew up to 50,000 for Easter sunrise services until discontinuing them, and built his once faltering cemetery into a top tourist attraction.

Forest Lawn and Babyland, Lullabyland, Slumberland, Graceland, Borderland and Vesperland sections started long before Disneyland.

"I wish somebody would require that preachers went to salesman school," Eaton says. "Preachers have the greatest message in the world, but most of them don't know how to sell it."

To help, he established the Foundation for the Science and Art of Persuasion at his alma mater, William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo.

BELIEF

He believes Forest Lawn has bolstered the religious faith of many.

"I've heard Christian after Christian say, 'I never knew what the Crucifixion meant before I saw that painting.' But until the arrow was installed, it fell flat."

A white arrow helps viewers follow the musically accompanied narration over the panorama, as long as a 10-story building is high.

"We have nearly 2½ times the income of any institution of our kind in the world. With all the satire and all, why do we still do that?"

This proves, he feels, that people like the approach.

Scores of notables lie among the 170,000 buried at Forest Lawn—Clark Gable beside his former wife, Carole Lombard; Tom Mix in a silver casket; Aimee Semple McPherson in a $40,000 sarcophagus; Wallace Beery; Jean Harlow; Errol Flynn; physicist-educator Robert Andrews Millikan in the exclusive Memorial Court of Honor, and others. Caryl Chessman's ashes were rejected because he was an unrepentant agnostic.

"The biggest crowd we ever had for anyone was for my good friend Will Rogers," Eaton recalls. "The line to file past the casket stretched for blocks. And it was a closed casket."

Bottom prices:

A lot—$175; mortuary services, including casket — $115; permanent endowment fee—$17; concrete container—$31; hole charges—$71. Total—$409.

Fulbright And Muzzlers

Now the radical-liberals in congress, anxious to shut down on freedom of speech, have started calling the solid, conservative members of congress "radicals." Since when is being conservative being radical?

Senator J. William Fulbright, D-[illegible], who usually tries to spoonfeed all of President Kennedy's actions, right or wrong, caused an angry exchange in the senate over [illegible] sponsorship of public forums featured "radical, right-wing speakers."

Fulbright, replying to Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said he opposed such sponsorship because ofof "his strong belief in the principle om military subordiination to civil control."

Thurmond had attacked Fulbright's position as a "clandestine assault on the fundamental foundations of our republic."

The exchange centered on a confidential memorandum prepared by Fulbright and sent to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and President Kennedy recently. In it, Fulbright said the speakers at these military-sponsored meetings equate "social legislation with socialism and the latter with communism."

At this point it might well be stated that socialism is socialism, no matter whether it bears the name of New Frontier or anything else, and that, in many respects, it is extremely hard to tell the difference between socialism and communism, since they so frequently advocate the same steps, such as punishing industry and rewarding inefficiency.

In attacking the position of Fulbright, Thurmond inserted into the Congressional Record a memorandum that appeared to be the one Fulbright had sent to McNamara and President Kennedy.

Fulbright then arose, defended his position and inserted his memorandum into the record. The Thurmond version was almost identical to the one Fulbright handed senate clerks.

"The implication of this document goes far beyond a mere attack on our military leaders," Thurmond had told the senate. "It constitutes a clandestine assault on the fundamental foundations of our republic. It is a smear campaign, utilizing innuendo based on unsubstantiated allegations."

He concluded by saying it is imperative that the senate armed services committee immediately "undertake a full-scale investigation of this entire matter."

With reference to Fulbright's statement that speakers at these military-sponsored meetings "equate social legislation with socialism and the latter with communism," it is becoming harder and harder to get the truth about socialism and communism across to the American people.

Systematically, radical - liberals have sought to close down and silence every source of information on radicalism.

One of the most intensive "liberal" campaigns is to deny the American people the knowledge and counsel of the members of the armed forces of the United States. Officers of the armed forces are targets of the radical-liberals because the officers understand the menace of leftism to the security of the United States.

Ever since the end of World War II, prominent leaders of the armed forces have warned against Red expansionism and infiltration at home. The state department radical-liberals won a major victory for their cause when General of the Army Douglas MarArthur was removed from command in the Korean War, by the then President Harry Truman, a leftist, who resented the fact that MacArthur was so far superior to him in intellect and wisdom. MacArthur was hated by the leftists because he wanted to win the war, while they wanted nothing more than a stalemate because they did not want to damage the Red cause too much. The recall of General MacArthur and the debacle of refusing to win a war can be looked upon as two of the most disgraceful incidents in a most disastrous chapter of American history.

Liberal-leftists are furious at naval leaders such as Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, U.S.N., retiring chief of naval operations, because he alerted the country to the danger of Red Cuba. One of the first radical-liberal successes in the Kennedy administration was to get an order muzzling Admiral Burke and other great Americans for telling the country the truth about the full extent of communist infiltration.

In recent months a subtle campaign has been waged in the Bulletin of Atomic Sciences, The Nation, The Reporter, the New York Times and other leftists journals to discredit leaders of the armed forces who are vigorously anti-communist. These journals angrily attack the various community "alert" organizations and the cold war seminars that have been held about the country. They demanded that permissions be withdrawn for patriotic meetings to be held on defense bases. The liberal-leftists also demanded that anti-communist documentary films no longger be shown on military reservations, and they won a victory on that point, because President Truman lends an ear readily to leftists while apparently turning away from those advocating the fundamental principles of Americanism.

Radical-liberals won another victory when Major General Edwin Walker, commander of the 24th division in Europe, was admonished for telling his troops about the facts of communism and state socialism. Leftists gloated over this as a victory for their cause.

Senator Thurmond's vigorous attack on the sneaky trick of Senator Fulbright in sending the private memorandum to the state department, was what brought the outburst from Fulbright in the senate. Thurmond assiled Fulbright for what he called a "dastardly attempt to intimidate" U. S. armed forces commanders through the memorandum, which urged a "gag" on military officers expressing, conservative political beliefs.

Senator Thurmond termed the memorandum an effort to "prevent" armed forces commanders from "teaching their troops the nature and menace of world communist." He said "the real bastion of knowledge and understanding of the communist threat" lies among military personnel. He added that "suppression of the military's dissemination of this knowledge would be dangerous."

Everyone knows that suppression of free speech is always among the first moves taken by anyone [illegible] bureaucracy which seeks to take away the people's freedom and place them under absolute government domination, as was done in Germany under Hitler and as has been done in Russia and Cuba.

More and more muzzling is the objective of the socialistic radical-liberals. If we cannot prevent them from carrying out their aims, the United States will be lost, regardless of whether or not it is taken over by the Russians, a course of which some of the radicals do not seem to object greatly.

These liberal-leftists may not be communists but they had just as well be. If they are not stopped, they are going to deliver us into the hands of our enemies. It is time for the American people to decide who is going to run this country—patriots or pinks.

Double-Barrel At Our Back

Views Of Our Readers

Obey Whose Laws

Can the supreme court make a decision higher than the one made by God?

Back in the beginning when God made our world He looked back upon it and said it was good. He created man in His own image. He gave to his creation the breath of life.

Later He destroyed all of these things, saving pairs of each living species, telling them to be fruitful and multiply. Can you believe that He meant for all of the different kinds to intermingle in the multiplication?

If you study each step at a time that He planned for us to take I believe that you will find that He intended equality and the dwelling together in harmony to exist in our minds and in our hearts and never, never actually in the flesh. As an example: There are those of our own race to whom our hearts go out, we pray for constantly and will do for them nothing but good, yet under no conditions do we feel called upon to "sup" with them or dwell with them in the flesh — only in communion of hearts and minds.

God did not make one law for the South and one for others in his laws of creation. But he separated them "to each his own".

Do you take your stand for the decision of the supreme court or for the one made for you in the beginning by the Judge of all the earth?

SARAH A. CHAMBERS

Raps Foreign Aid

To the Editor:

The President said in his speech to the people that he had rather spend foreign aid than to send American boys to fight. Now he is asking for both five years of foreign aid and if foreign aid will do the job why call up American boys? It looks at this time that the Congress and Senate will pass the five year foreign aid.

The question is would the President call on any nation outside of the members of N.A.T.O. for troops for the defense of West Berlin and if he did would some of these nations receiving foreign aid respond. I think the answer to both questions would be a positive no. Just to mention some of these nations such as Pakistan who either was sent or invited Ayub Khan to warn the Congress and Senate we had better not get tired of foreign aid, would India, Indonesia, Poland or Yugoslavia come to our aid?

Since 1946 the United States has paid a total of $124,467,310,000 to 87 nations and has not solved our problems. Is there any reason to believe it would solve them in the future? Foreign aid in some instances has worked against us instead of for us. We have helped foreign nations build up industry that has closed down some industries in the U.S.A. and has caused wide spread unemployment. Some industry has moved to foreign countries so as to compete on account of low cost labor and to avoid high taxes in this country. Then we are called upon for more money for unemployment compensation.

Now we learn that 200,000 has been diverted from foreign aid for a committee to lobby to accept compulsory jurisdiction of the world court which would do away with the Connally reservation to decide our domestic affairs, and the United States Information Agency is spending $50,000 a year to subsidize a magazine in South East Asia for Burmese love stories to combat communism.

The State Department had a reason for exposing Bruce Alger, Congressman from Dallas, Tex., through the revenue department of back taxes. He called for an investigation of the State Department. Remember a similar case against Joe McCarthy, I think the time has come for the people to tell the President, the Congress and the Senate that we are for billions for defense but not one cent for tribute and no more compromise with the communists, which have once again brought us to the brink of war.

Story Given Praise

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your able staff writer Bill Hardin for the excellent feature story you published in the Sunday issue of the Monroe Morning World, July 30, 1961.

It was such a well written article and so timely, with the President's speech calling for more reservists, that I personally received several out of town calls asking about our Squadron and possibility of getting in.

Let me again express my thanks and those of the Squadron to you and Bill Hardin for a job well done.

Aid To Education

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

With reference to the federal aid to education bill, which probably will come up before the congress again, we believe that any such federal aid to our present educational system, is again the basic principles upon which our republic was founded.

Kennedy Prayers

Apparently Before He Thought He Could Offer God Advise

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "I need . . . above all, your prayers," said John F. Kennedy in winding up his latest telecast on the latest crisis. This is a departure for JFK. Till recently, he seemed a young executive who might offer God a few words of advice on how to run His world. Nobody made a more princely entrance to the Presidential stage than Kennedy did between January and March. His majesty, his eloquence, his easy way with old friends, his seeming ability to get his hand around all problems, large and small, gave some of us hope that the crazy process of President - picking had unaccountably selected a man to the White House born.

As one not guiltless of this heart felt yearning, I wrote in this column that Lincoln, who knew his limitations and virtually prayed his way through 1861-65, should become Mr. Kennedy's model rather than the bully boys in whose boots he seemed to be trying to strut — Jackson, Wilson, the Roosevelts. Early in 1960, the centennial of Lincoln's emergence from prairie lawyer to President, I had reread the Sandburg biography to let it tell me, if it could, that American greatness might still lurk beneath unpromising political exteriors.

So, last Tuesday, when I heard Mr. Kennedy, with something like a break in his voice and an apparent tremor on his lips, ask for prayers, I went to bed and dreamed of waking to a better morrow for America. Somewhere in the White House there must be corners where a man, with his country's fate on his heart and mind, might kneel down and pray for "firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right," which are the words of a certain tall man who used to live there.

Mr. Kennedy needs prayers — his own and ours, and how!

The President's speech could be called a sword - rattler made with chattering teeth. The latter need not matter if he would only suit action to his words. While the President talked, there was a hi-jacked American airliner in Havana, and 1,200 prisoners, for whom we are responsible, in Castro's dungeons. With $43 billion this year for military arms and men, and Mr. Kennedy asking for $3.5 billion more, we ought to be mighty enough to go to Cuba. We should recover the stolen plane, release the prisoners, and occupy whatever missile bases are there in the name of the Organization of American States.

That would be action. With that sort of policy in being, at the very moment the President talked to the nation and the world, his speech would have meant something more than — "You'll be sorry, Mr. Khrushchev. Wait and see!" With that sort of action, there would have been a discernible improvement for the West in postwar history. A fortnight or so ago, the British quit wringing their hands and sent commandos to protect their oil interest in Kuwait. A week or so ago, the French decided not to cut and run from Africans. They resisted and counter - attacked when the upstart Tunisians tried to take the fortifications at Bizerte. What an occasion Mr. Kennedy's worldwide telecast would have afforded for us to go to Cuba and act as the Squire of the Hemisphere ought to act when the riff-raff steals his apples and molests his children.

Mr. Kennedy said with apology that sacrifices would be required. He specified sacrifices only for those called to the colors, and for those who might be asked to pay more for postage stamps and to write off less on expense accounts if Congress should pass some Kennedy measures. But most of the Kennedy bills are not sacrificial. As this is written, the Senate is droning through its billions - for - farmers bill and will next take up billions - for - foreigners. The President plugged for his billions - for - Federal school aid. The administration is sympathetically watching maritime unions ask for frills and automaking unions ask for caviar.

Civilian Defense

This Responsibility Transferred To Top Military Agency

Civilian defense in the United States, particularly against nuclear bombing attacks, has been transferred by President Kennedy to the top military agency of the Nation — the Defense department —but it will still be directed and managed by men and women in civilian clothes. There is no thought on the part of the President or secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to put uniformed officers in charge.

There are very definite reasons for this decision by the President.

He believes, and this has been at least partially confirmed during the past week, that the past apathy of most American civilians to the defense program for their own benefit will be reduced by the shift of the program of the military department.

But he also believes that most of the 6,500,000 men and women throughout the country who are now working on the civilian defense program — and he hopes for more soon — want to work as civilians and not under direct military control.

The President, and his top advisors on this problem who include men in uniform with a lot of brass on their hats, are following the lead of Soviet Russia in this suddenly intensified civilian defense program.

Both civilian and military officials of Russia, shown by reliable reports reaching this country, strongly feel that a massive civilain defense program, including construction of fall - out shelters in almost every part of the nation, could reduce the possibility of nuclear attack upon the country.

This attitude on the part of the Russians has impressed American officials for some time as a potential deterrent for a "hot" atomic war, but they were unable to sell the American public until President Kennedy, spurred by recommendations of Secretary McNamara and Frank B. Ellis, director of the office of civil defense mobilization, stressed the urgency of the problem in his speech on the Berlin crisis last week.

The President and those close to him on this question are convinced that Russian authorities who know that their country is far ahead of the United States on protection for its civilians, feel that this is a basic weakness on the part of the United States.

Because death and disability from the fall - out of a nuclear bomb could be far more disastrous than the actual hit itself, Russian authorities are known to feel that at the present, at least, a comparatively few properly placed bombs could virtually paralyze this country.

President Kennedy's augmented program for shelters, totaling more than $300,000,000 for the current fiscal year, is expected to be approved by Congress after hearings during the coming week or two. But the all - out program, designed to encourage private shelters as well as those in the major cities, may not get under way for sometime.

In fact, the President's request for an additional $207,000,000, would be primarily spent for improvement and locating shelters in federal and other downtown buildings in large cities.

But Ellis and others in the government believe that private shelters away from the big buildings in the major cities are ever more important. That Secretary McNamara will go along with such a future program is clear.

In his testimony before the Senate appropriations committee last week, he declared:

"The program proposed by the President will not satisy every one. It is not large enough to guarantee survival for all our citizens in a large - scale nuclear attack. No program can do that. What it does do is to offer the greatest amount of protection against nuclear attack that can be made available to our civilian population in the near future while actively exploring possibilities for practical achievement of more effective and extensive shelter facilities. In the present state of the world, the measures which I have just described are manifestly both necessary and urgent.

Fulbright And Muzzlers

Now the radical-liberals in congress, anxious to shut down on freedom of speech, have started calling the solid, conservative members of congress "radicals." Since when is being conservative being radical?

Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who usually tries to spoon-feed all of President Kennedy's actions, right or wrong, caused an angry exchange in the senate over [illegible] sponsorship of public forums. The forums featured "radical, right-wing speakers."

Fulbright, replying to Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said he opposed such sponsorship because ofof "his strong belief in the principle om military subordination to civil control."

Thurmond had attacked Fulbright's position as a "clandestine assault on the fundamental foundations of our republic."

The exchange centered on a confidential memorandum prepared by Fulbright and sent to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and President Kennedy recently. In it, Fulbright said the speakers at these military-sponsored meetings equate "social legislation with socialism and the latter with communism."

At this point it might well be stated that socialism is socialism, no matter whether it bears the name of New Frontier or anything else, and that, in many respects, it is extremely hard to tell the difference between socialism and communism, since they so frequently advocate the same steps, such as punishing industry and rewarding inefficiency.

In attacking the position of Fulbright, Thurmond inserted into the Congressional Record a memorandum that appeared to be the one Fulbright had sent to McNamara and President Kennedy.

Fulbright then arose, defended his position and inserted his memorandum into the record. The Thurmond version was almost identical to the one Fulbright handed senate clerks.

"The implication of this document goes far beyond a mere attack on our military leaders," Thurmond had told the senate. "It constitutes a clandestine assault on the fundamental foundations of our republic. It is a smear campaign, utilizing innuendo based on unsubstantiated allegations."

He concluded by saying it is imperative that the senate armed services committee immediately "undertake a full-scale investigation of this entire matter."

With reference to Fulbright's statement that speakers at these military-sponsored meetings "equate social legislation with socialism and the latter with communism," it is becoming harder and harder to get the truth about socialism and communism across to the American people.

Systematically, radical - liberals have sought to close down and silence every source of information on radicalism.

One of the most intensive "liberal" campaigns is to deny the American people the knowledge and counsel of the members of the armed forces of the United States. Officers of the armed forces are targets of the radical-liberals because the officers understand the menace of leftism to the security of the United States.

Ever since the end of World War II, prominent leaders of the armed forces have warned against Red expansionism and infiltration at home. The state department radical-liberals won a major victory for their cause when General of the Army Douglas MarArthur was removed from command in the Korean War, by the then President Harry Truman, a leftist, who resented the fact that MacArthur was so far superior to him in intellect and wisdom. MacArthur was hated by the leftists because he wanted to win the war, while they wanted nothing more than a stalemate because they did not want to damage the Red cause too much. The recall of General MacArthur and the debacle of refusing to win a war can be looked upon as two of the most disgraceful incidents in a most disastrous chapter of American history.

Liberal-leftists are furious at naval leaders such as Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, U.S.N., retiring chief of naval operations, because he alerted the country to the danger of Red Cuba. One of the first radical-liberal successes in the Kennedy administration was to get an order muzzling Admiral Burke and other great Americans for telling the country the truth about the full extent of communist infiltration.

In recent months a subtle campaign has been waged in the Bulletin of Atomic Sciences, The Nation, The Reporter, the New York Times and other leftists journals to discredit leaders of the armed forces who are vigorously anti-communist. These journals angrily attack the various community "alert" organizations and the cold war seminars that have been held about the country. They demanded that permissions be withdrawn for patriotic meetings to be held on defense bases. The liberal-leftists also demanded that anti-communist documentary films no longger be shown on military reservations, and they won a victory on that point, because President Truman lends an ear readily to leftists while apparently turning away from those advocating the fundamental principles of Americanism.

Radical-liberals won another victory when Major General Edwin Walker, commander of the 24th division in Europe, was admonished for telling his troops about the facts of communism and state socialism. Leftists gloated over this as a victory for their cause.

Senator Thurmond's vigorous attack on the sneaky trick of Senator Fulbright in sending the private memorandum to the state department, was what brought the outburst from Fulbright in the senate. Thurmond assiled Fulbright for what he called a "dastardly attempt to intimidate" U. S. armed forces commanders through the memorandum, which urged a "gag" on military officers expressing, conservative political beliefs.

Senator Thurmond termed the memorandum an effort to "prevent" armed forces commanders from "teaching their troops the nature and menace of world communist." He said "the real bastion of knowledge and understanding of the communist threat" lies among military personnel. He added that "suppression of the military's dissemination of this knowledge would be dangerous."

Everyone knows that suppression of free speech is always among the first moves taken by anyone of any bureaucracy which seeks to take away the people's freedom and place them under absolute government domination, as was done in Germany under Hitler and as has been done in Russia and Cuba.

More and more muzzling is the objective of the socialistic radical-liberals. If we cannot prevent them from carrying out their aims, the United States will be lost, regardless of whether or not it is taken over by the Russians, a course of which some of the radicals do not seem to object greatly.

These liberal-leftists may not be communists but they had just as well be. If they are not stopped, they are going to deliver us into the hands of our enemies. It is time for the American people to decide who is going to run this country—patriots or pinks.

Double-Barrel At Our Back

Views Of Our Readers

Obey Whose Laws

Can the supreme court make a decision higher than the one made by God?

Back in the beginning when God made our world He looked back upon it and said it was good. He created man in His own image. He gave to his creation the breath of life.

Later He destroyed all of these things, saving pairs of each living species, telling them to be fruitful and multiply. Can you believe that He meant for all of the different kinds to intermingle in the multiplication?

If you study each step at a time that He planned for us to take I believe that you will find that He intended equality and the dwelling together in harmony to exist in our minds and in our hearts and never, never actually in the flesh. As an example: There are those of our own race to whom our hearts go out, we pray for constantly and will do for them nothing but good, yet under no conditions do we feel called upon to "sup" with them or dwell with them in the flesh — only in communion of hearts and minds.

God did not make one law for the South and one for others in his laws of creation. But he separated them "to each his own".

Do you take your stand for the decision of the supreme court or for the one made for you in the beginning by the Judge of all the earth?

Raps Foreign Aid

To the Editor:

The President said in his speech to the people that he had rather spend foreign aid than to send American boys to fight. Now he is asking for both five years of foreign aid and if foreign aid will do the job why call up American boys? It looks at this time that the Congress and Senate will pass the five year foreign aid.

The question is would the President call on any nation outside of the members of N.A.T.O. for troops for the defense of West Berlin and if he did would some of these nations receiving foreign aid respond. I think the answer to both questions would be a positive no. Just to mention some of these nations such as Pakistan who either was sent or invited Ayub Khan to warn the Congress and Senate we had better not get tired of foreign aid, would India, Indonesia, Poland or Yugoslavia come to our aid?

Since 1946 the United States has paid a total of $124,467,310,000 to 87 nations and has not solved our problems. Is there any reason to believe it would solve them in the future? Foreign aid in some instances has worked against us instead of for us. We have helped foreign nations build up industry that has closed down some industries in the U.S.A. and has caused wide spread unemployment. Some industry has moved to foreign countries so as to compete on account of low cost labor and to avoid high taxes in this country. Then we are called upon for more money for unemployment compensation.

Now we learn that 200,000 has been diverted from foreign aid for a committee to lobby to accept compulsory jurisdiction of the world court which would do away with the Connally reservation to decide our domestic affairs, and the United States Information Agency is spending $50,000 a year to subsidize a magazine in South East Asia for Burmese love stories to combat communism.

The State Department had a reason for exposing Bruce Alger, Congressman from Dallas, Tex., through the revenue department of back taxes. He called for an investigation of the State Department. Remember a similar case against Joe McCarthy, I think the time has come for the people to tell the President, the Congress and the Senate that we are for billions for defense but not one cent for tribute and no more compromise with the communists, which have once again brought us to the brink of war.

But he also believes that most of the 6,500,000 men and women throughout the country who are now working on the civilian defense program — and he hopes for more soon — want to work as civilians and not under direct military control.

The President, and his top advisors on this problem who include men in uniform with a lot of brass on their hats, are following the lead of Soviet Russia in this suddenly intensified civilian defense program.

Both civilian and military officials of Russia, shown by reliable reports reaching this country, strongly feel that a massive civilain defense program, including construction of fall - out shelters in almost every part of the nation, could reduce the possibility of nuclear attack upon the country.

This attitude on the part of the Russians has impressed American officials for some time as a potential deterrent for a "hot" atomic war, but they were unable to sell the American public until President Kennedy, spurred by recommendations of Secretary McNamara and Frank B. Ellis, director of the office of civil defense mobilization, stressed the urgency of the problem in his speech on the Berlin crisis last week.

The President and those close to him on this question are convinced that Russian authorities who know that their country is far ahead of the United States on protection for its civilians, feel that this is a basic weakness on the part of the United States.

Because death and disability from the fall - out of a nuclear bomb could be far more disastrous than the actual hit itself, Russian authorities are known to feel that at the present, at least, a comparatively few properly placed bombs could virtually paralyze this country.

President Kennedy's augmented program for shelters, totaling more than $300,000,000 for the current fiscal year, is expected to be approved by Congress after hearings during the coming week or two. But the all - out program, designed to encourage private shelters as well as those in the major cities, may not get under way for sometime.

In fact, the President's request for an additional $207,000,000, would be primarily spent for improvement and locating shelters in federal and other downtown buildings in large cities.

But Ellis and others in the government believe that private shelters away from the big buildings in the major cities are even more important. That Secretary McNamara will go along with such a future program is clear.

In his testimony before the Senate appropriations committee last week, he declared:

"The program proposed by the President will not satisy everyone. It is not large enough to guarantee survival for all our citizens in a large - scale nuclear attack. No program can do that. What it does do is to offer the greatest amount of protection against nuclear attack that can be made available to our civilian population in the near future, while actively exploring possibilities for practical achievement of more effective and extensive shelter facilities. In the present state of the world, the measures which I have just described are manifestly both necessary and urgent."

Bible Thought

H. B. Dean

And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood."

Revelation 1:5

It took the sacrifice of a Saviour to redeem a sinner, and when the Lord cleans up a life He never leaves a stain.

Large numbers of Texas Democrats switched to the GOP on a permanent basis during the Tower campaign. Last week in Littlefield, Texas, 120 Democrats and independents met and decided to become registered Republicans to "secure and retain conservative platforms and candidates from the precinct level to President." In 1952 the Texas GOP was so small that the Eisenhower and Taft forces waged their delegation battle in a small frame building.

Nebraska Democrats are grumbling about the appointment of Jack D. Obbink to be U.S. Marshal. He made news last year as State Director of Aeronautics by piloting Robert Kennedy to Kansas City in a state - owned plane. He was fired by a Republican interim Governor because he was unable to justify the flight as "state business."

There is a strong belief at the Federal Reserve Board that the Administration defense build-up without an increase in taxation is inflationary. Board, which is and will for a considerable time yet be controlled by non - Kennedy members, thus may swing from "easy" to "tight" money policies. Kennedy would fight move, fearing that tightening of money could cut the nation's economic recovery short. Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, who is moving further and further away from his once conservative views, would be on Kennedy side. Show-down, between Administration and Reserve Board if it comes, will not come before October. Deficit for this fiscal year which began July 1 will be around $7,000,000,000; could be more without postal raise which President Kennedy asked, but seems to be stymied in Senate.

Some insiders say that generally accepted idea that Wall Street Lawyer Fowler Hamilton is Kennedy choice to succeed Allen W. Dulles at Central Intelligence Agency is all wrong. They insist place will go to Paul Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, and that Hamilton will be Nitze's top assistant, and thus No. 2 man in CIA.

Smith of Massachusetts, a college class mate of President Kennedy, succeeded Kennedy in the Senate to the then President - elect, request, will stand aside if the Kennedy family wants 29-year-old Edward Kennedy to be the Senatorial candidate next year. Even if Smith bows out the younger brother of the President and Attorney General may have Democratic primary opposition. Some Massachusetts Democrats are saying it would be too big a dose of Kennedy.

Berlin crisis has so greatly enhanced the strength of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that he is now expected to have a one-sided victory over Mayor Willy Brandt, West Berlin Mayor, in the September 17, elections. Adenauer "don't change horses in the middle of a stream" campaign calls for only 25 speeches.

Seattle, Washington, where a World's Fair will open on April 21, 1962, and New York City which will stage a similar event opening on April 22, 1964, are finding only a tepid interest in their plans. Seattle which set out to obtain $40 million in financing has got only $25 million. Also is finding little interest in rental of its exhibition space. New York plans are slowing getting off ground.

A device that destroys crankcase fumes and a complete set of anchors for safety belts will be required on all 1962 and later model cars bought by the Federal Government. Their requirements were imposed by the General Services Administration after consultation with the Public Health Service. GSA buys about 7000 new autos annually.

Indications now are that the Defense Department will hire up to 100,000 new civilian employees in the big military build-up. Not to exceed 10 per cent of these will be in Washington area. Administration is pushing for creation by Congress of about 1000 new jobs which would pay from $15,255 to $19,500, mostly in Washington. Democratic National Committee would have a big part in filling these new jobs.

Security check of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (moon shot and related programs) will be a stupendous task. Many of its employees were taken over from the Army and although they had been on the payroll for sometime approximately 4,000 of them had not been completely cleared for security purposes. Appropriation bill for NASA recently passed by Congress provides $2 million to push the examination and investigation of employees.

Civil Service Commission is troubled about its unfunded liability of $32 billion. Some Civil Service officials estimate that unless further Government financing is obtained the fund will go broke in 1985, or earlier. University of Michigan which made study for the Senate to see whether non-contributory system of military retirement pay might be made contributory found it would not be feasible. Now Civil Service wants to see if civil service retirement can be made non - contributory. Military personnel do not contribute any of their pay toward retirement purposes. Federal employes contribute 6.5 per cent of their salaries for retirement purposes.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Terrifying Dream May Cause Attack

EDITOR'S NOTE—We've been warned about cholesterol and diet. Now scientists are experimenting with cholesterol and dreams. It's just possible, they theorize, that arteries can be clogged and a heart attack brought on by a nightmare as well as too many pieces of pie.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Can a terrifying or stressful dream actually kill a person with a weak heart?

For years troubled dreams have been suspected of triggering heart attacks or brain strokes.

A bit of physical evidence has been found in new studies of dreams, the free movies of sleep which come to everyone every night.

In one dream, he felt under stress. Right then he had a higher than normal amount of cholesterol circulating in his blood. Cholesterol is a fatty material suspected of playing a prime role in clogging arteries and thus bringing on heart attacks and strokes.

The experiments, just getting under way, cannot yet answer the question whether dreams can prove physically harmful at times.

But the technique offers a means of getting at answers to this and other questions concerning dreams.

The volunteer sleeps in a hospital laboratory, with a tube attached to a vein in his arm. Salt solution can be slowly dripped in constantly. And blood samples can be withdrawn, painlessly, whenever he is having a dream.

Brain waves and eyeball movements recorded through electrodes attached to the head tell when he is dreaming. The volunteer can be wakened to describe his dream in detail, immediately.

The initial studies by Dr. Pierce and Drs. Boyd K. Lester, James L. Mathis and James F. Hammarsten found no meaningful changes in the amount of sugar in the blood during happy or stressful anxious dreams. The amount of eosinophiles, one type of white blood cells, varied widely with no apparent connection with the kind of dream.

The studies are part of new and varied investigations into dreams and the curious chemistry of sleep.

Dr. Pierce, who transferred here recently from the University of Cincinnati Medical School, says the refreshment from sleep may depend upon the intensity rather than duration.

In Cincinnati studies with Drs. Roy Whitman, James Maas and Bill Baldridge, he found that drugs used to treat mental patients seem to affect their dreams.

Calm-down or tranquilizing drugs keep persons relaxed by day. But in their dreams these people reported high activity, like running down to a store, or flying off on long trips. It was as though the dream provided an outlet for activity.

In the Cincinnati studies, Dr. Pierce and his associates also found that children who wet their beds had fewer dreams per night than other youngsters. An average number of dreams per night is about five.

Marvelous Gadgets But Unreal People

STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND. By Robert A. Heinlein. Putnam. $4.50.

Heinlein is a writer of science fiction, and in this tale has attempted to add social criticism to his formula. The combination is formidable, but somewhere along the line the formula has slipped.

The story is about a young man whose parents were members of a disastrous expedition from Earth to Mars. He has been raised by Martians and then is brought to Earth by a second expedition. The point is that he has none of the morals, intellectual attitudes or cultural patterns of human beings. Besides having some unusual Martian concepts, he also has some of their magic—cataleptic trances, the power of levitation and the neat ability to leave his body.

The first part of the story is straight science fiction, a struggle of a small group to keep the "Martian" out of the hands of a scheming World Federation. Then suddenly, for some unexplained reason, the federation fades out of the picture. After learning what humans are like — the key is the fact they are laughing creatures — the "Martian" founds a remarkable sect that is a cross between free love and self - hypnotism, with a little snake-handling thrown in for theatrical effect.

The author has succeeded partly in showing that our attitudes towards life and death, wealth and poverty, love and fate, look rather odd when placed in contrast with a directly opposite view.

But the presentation of social criticism loses its effectiveness in the weird device of having the pseudo - Martian, whose name is Mike, found a sect that is both humorless and unconsciously funny. To this reader it seems the science fiction writer's chief pitfall is to become so engrossed in the imaginative potentials of science that he loses sight of human personalities and human emotions. The gadgets are marvelous, but some of the people aren't real.

This Book Could Be A Lot Better

THE LAST OF THE SOUTHERN WINDS. By Donald Loovis. Scribners. $4.50.

Here is a story about a young man "of querulous character" and the odd solution he finds to his dilemma of being a human fiasco.

His name is Carl Solon, and his only relative is an uncle, Ben Hoyt. Or more properly, the Rev. Benjamin T. Hoyt, rector of a fashionable church and a television "personality." In his college days Ben had been grateful for the friendship of a gridiron hero, Jake Romano. Over the years he had made several loans to him.

Now Jake's restaurant in Key West, "The Southern Winds," needed financial help — partly because it was being bled by racketeers, though Jake hadn't mentioned that. Ben was willing to help, and decided to send Carl, now unemployed, to Key West for a few weeks. Ben thought perhaps he could help both men that way.

Carl finds some rather depraved characters gathered around the tragic figure of Jake, and some even stranger people among his clientele. He begins to have an affair with Charlotte, a big, crude, partly deaf woman who combines the occupations of restaurant cashier and gossip columnist. Charlotte's past has included four husbands.

Then Jake and "The Southern Winds" come to a sudden end. So what does Carl do? He settles down in Key West with Charlotte, deciding they would make a good pair, since both of them are fiascos, "and I need love more than money."

Somehow this book seems to make Key West a little too bizarre, and Carl is not too convincing a character. Loovis can write, but he seems to be going in several directions at once in this book.

Laotian Views Laos: Storm Center Of East

STORM OVER LAOS. By Sisouk Champassak. Praeger. $5.

There scarcely could be a book more timely than this one, for in recent weeks the news columns have been full of the negotiations over Laos.

The chief Laotian figures mentioned in the dispatches are the chief figures in this book too. It is an ominous thought that the current arguments over expansion of the International Control Commission (originally composed of Polish, Canadian and Indian delegates) have an echo in this book. The author plainly states that the original commission was an easy mark for the Communist-tinged Pathet Lao and the directly Communist Viet Minh.

The author has been a diplomatic official in several Laotian governments, an envoy to the United Nations, and a member of the "Young Ones" political group of his country.

He gives a complete review of the reasons for the crisis in Laos, an explanation of how the situation developed, and a comprehensive picture of the personalities involved.

A Sly Spoof Of Montezuma's Big Sex Hex

A TALENT FOR LOVING. By Richard Condon. McGraw - Hill. $4.95.

When tales are told slyly, they are more enjoyable, particularly if one has shucked one's shoes and has settled back to be entertained by an imaginative raconteur.

Condon's book is a sly spoof and he is an excellent talespinner.

He starts with the idea that a Montezuma curse has been put on all the descendants of a conquistadore, so that all female and male members of the family, once they have experienced physical love, are consumed with an insatiable and often ruinous desire for more loving.

In the mid-19th Century, the descendants include Don Jose, who owns enormous cattle lands in northern Mexico, and his daughter Maria de Lourdes. They are joined by Major Patten, a professional gambler who has worked his way through the saloons of the fronteir to Texas, where he decides to settle down as a cattle baron. Ergo, the Major marries Maria and inherits Don Jose's vast domain.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This is the season of the year when the publishers slack up on their output and there are not too many new books released. In spite of this fact, the Ouachita Parish Public Library has added several interesting new titles in the past week.

John Cheever, who made such a success several years ago with his "Wapshot Chronicle" has a new title called "Some People, Places and Things that Will Not Appear in My Next Novel." With such a title as this there is certain to be something to interest every reader. Mr. Cheever writes well and this book should be popular.

Stories of suspense and mystery are always popular and there are three new titles which come in this category. "Thunderball" is the title of the new thriller by Ian Fleming. It concerns the adventures of secret operative James Bond in his search for the men who make up a deadly group known as S.P.E.C.T.R.E. This is a book to make the reader's spine tingle and there are many who will want to read it. "Night of Wenceslas" is the title of a new Harper novel of suspense by Lionel Davidson. This is the story of an average young Englishman, who inherited an estate, but was forced to go to Prague to claim it. There he found himself immersed in intrigue and international espionage to an alarming extent. This book is well-written, exciting and surprising. "The Chinese Hammer" is the title of the suspense novel by Simon Harvester. It has it's setting in China and India and is also a story of international intrigue and espionage. These three books should provide interest for many readers who enjoy this sort of book.

Probably the most popular type of non - fiction in the entire library collection is that dealing with the art of arranging flowers. Each year we purchase many new titles dealing with this subject, but never seem to have enough to meet all of the demands. One reason that the gardening and flower arrangement sections are as complete as they are, is that these books are especially suitable for memorial books. The latest addition to this section is "Arranging Flowers for the Sanctuary" by Francis Patteson - Knight and Margaret McReynolds St. Claire. This book will be very valuable to the many people in the community who are responsible for the flowers in their churches. It contains practical, down to earth advice and is also well illustrated.

In addition to the stories of suspense and international intrigue, mentioned above, a number of exciting mystery stories are also recent additions. John Rhode is the author of "The Vanishing Diary." This story has its setting in northern England and is a Dr. Priestley story. One of the most popular writers of mystery stories is Agatha Christie. Her latest one is called "Double Sin." In this book are eight different stories, which will be eagerly welcomed by her readers. "Five of a Kind" by Rex Stout is also a collection of Nero Wolfe stories by Rex Stout. This is an exciting collection, which will be eagerly read.

J. B. Priestley is the author of "Saturn over the Water," a novel of entertainment and action on a global basis. It is fast moving and exciting. "Hear Me Pilate" by Legette Blythe is a powerful reconstruction of the dramatic circumstances surrounding the death of Jesus. In this book we get an excellent depiction of the character of Pilate — his weakness, corruption and ambition. The author has put to use all of his story telling talents and his thorough knowledge of Biblical and Roman history. The result is a tale of human beings caught in a web of political intrigue and personal involvement and of the reasons which made them commit a deed, which forever condemned them in the eyes of the world.

SIMPLE MACHINE SAVES 7,000 KOREANS FROM STARVING

Until a simple noodle-making machine was brought to South Korea, 7,000 orphans, widows and students were on the verge of starvation. Now, 500 miles of noodles a day, every day, are made from American wheat flour, corn meal and powdered milk—and Kyonggi's hungry people can face the future with new hope and courage.

This life-saving assistance is the direct result of Americans supporting their faith's Overseas Aid Program. While this endeavor is Catholic, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain extensive relief programs.

The needs of millions are being met, one by one . . . and the work must go on. These religion-sponsored programs are often the only hope for destitute millions throughout the free world. Next time you are asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember what just simple noodles can mean in terms of human life.

In 1952 the Texas GOP was so small that the Eisenhower and Taft forces waged their delegation battle in a small frame building.

Nebraska Democrats are grumbling about the appointment of Jack D. Obbink to be U.S. Marshal. He made news last year as State Director of Aeronautics by piloting Robert Kennedy to Kansas City in a state - owned plane. He was fired by a Republican interim Governor because he was unable to justify the flight as "state business."

There is a strong belief at the Federal Reserve Board that the Administration defense build-up without an increase in taxation is inflationary. Board, which is and will for a considerable time yet be controlled by non - Kennedy members, thus may swing from "easy" to "tight" money policies. Kennedy would fight move, fearing that tightening of money could cut the nation's economic recovery short. Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, who is moving further and further away from his once conservative views, would be on Kennedy side. Show-down, between Administration and Reserve Board if it comes, will not come before October. Deficit for this fiscal year which began July 1 will be around $7,000,000,000; could be more without postal raise which President Kennedy asked, but seems to be stymied in Senate.

Some insiders say that generally accepted idea that Wall Street Lawyer Fowler Hamilton is Kennedy choice to succeed Allen W. Dulles at Central Intelligence Agency is all wrong. They insist place will go to Paul Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, and that Hamilton will be Nitze's top assistant, and thus No. 2 man in CIA.

Senator Benjamin A. Smith of Massachusetts, a college class mate of President Kennedy, succeeded Kennedy in the Senate te the then President - elect, request, will stand aside if the Kennedy family wants 29-year-old Edward Kennedy to be the Senatorial candidate next year. Ted Kennedy will reach the constitutional age for a Senator (30) before the 1962 election. Even if Smith bows out the younger brother of the President and Attorney General may have Democratic primary opposition. Some Massachusetts Democrats are saying it would be too big a dose of Kennedy.

Berlin crisis has so greatly enhanced the strength of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that he is now expected to have a one-sided victory over Mayor Willy Brandt, West Berlin Mayor, in the September 17, elections. Brandt, however, will continue his vigorous campaign, making close to 400 speeches in the next six weeks. Adenauer "don't change horses in the middle of a stream" campaign calls for only 25 speeches.

Seattle, Washington, where a World's Fair will open on April 21, 1962, and New York City which will stage a similar event opening on April 22, 1964, are finding only a tepid interest in their plans. Seattle which set out to obtain $40 million in financing has got only $25 million. Also is finding little interest in rental of its exhibition space. New York plans are slowing getting off ground.

A device that destroys crankcase fumes and a complete set of anchors for safety belts will be required on all 1962 and later model cars bought by the Federal Government. Their requirements were imposed by the General Services Administration after consultation with the Public Health Service. GSA buys about 7000 new autos annually.

Indications now are that the Defense Department will hire up to 100,000 new civilian employees in the big military build-up. Not to exceed 10 per cent of these will be in Washington area. Administration is pushing for creation by Congress of about 1000 new jobs which would pay from $15,255 to $19,500, mostly in Washington. Democratic National Committee would have a big part in filling these new jobs.

Security check of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (moon shot and related programs) will be a stupendous task. Many of its employees were taken over from the Army and although they had been on the payroll for sometime approximately 4,000 of them had not been completely cleared for security purposes. Appropriation bill for NASA recently passed by Congress provides $2 million to push the examination and investigation of employees.

Civil Service Commission is troubled about its unfunded liability of $32 billion. Some Civil Service officials estimate that unless further Government financing is obtained the fund will go broke in 1985, or earlier. University of Michigan which made study for the Senate to see whether non-contributory system of military retirement pay might be made contributory found it would not be feasible. Now Civil Service wants to see if civil service retirement can be made non - contributory. Military personnel do not contribute any of their pay toward retirement purposes. Federal employes contribute 6.5 per cent of their salaries for retirement purposes.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Terrifying Dream May Cause Attack

EDITOR'S NOTE—We've been warned about cholesterol and diet. Now scientists are experimenting with cholesterol and dreams. It's just possible, they theorize, that arteries can be clogged and a heart attack brought on by a nightmare as well as too many pieces of pie.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Can a terrifying or stressful dream actually kill a person with a weak heart?

For years troubled dreams have been suspected of triggering heart attacks or brain strokes.

A bit of physical evidence has been found in new studies of dreams, the free movies of sleep which come to everyone every night.

In one dream, he felt under stress. Right then he had a higher than normal amount of cholesterol circulating in his blood. Cholesterol is a fatty material suspected of playing a prime role in clogging arteries and thus bringing on heart attacks and strokes.

The experiments, just getting under way, cannot yet answer the question whether dreams can prove physically harmful at times.

But the technique offers a means of getting at answers to this and other questions concerning dreams.

The volunteer sleeps in a hospital laboratory, with a tube attached to a vein in his arm. Salt solution can be slowly dripped in constantly. And blood samples can be withdrawn, painlessly, whenever he is having a dream.

Brain waves and eyeball movements recorded through electrodes attached to the head tell when he is dreaming. The volunteer can be wakened to describe his dream in detail, immediately.

The initial studies by Dr. Pierce and Drs. Boyd K. Lester, James L. Mathis and James F. Hammarsten found no meaningful changes in the amount of sugar in the blood during happy or stressful anxious dreams. The amount of eosinophiles, one type of white blood cells, varied widely with no apparent connection with the kind of dream.

The studies are part of new and varied investigations into dreams and the curious chemistry of sleep.

Dr. Pierce, who transferred here recently from the University of Cincinnati Medical School, says the refreshment from sleep may depend upon the intensity rather than duration.

In Cincinnati studies with Drs. Roy Whitman, James Maas and Bill Baldridge, he found that drugs used to treat mental patients seem to affect their dreams.

Calm-down or tranquilizing drugs keep persons relaxed by day. But in their dreams these people reported high activity, like running down to a store, or flying off on long trips. It was as though the dream provided an outlet for activity.

In the Cincinnati studies, Dr. Pierce and his associates also found that children who wet their beds had fewer dreams per night than other youngsters. An average number of dreams per night is about five.

Marvelous Gadgets But Unreal People

STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND. By Robert A. Heinlein. Putnam. $4.50.

Heinlein is a writer of science fiction, and in this tale has attempted to add social criticism to his formula. The combination is formidable, but somewhere along the line the formula has slipped.

The story is about a young man whose parents were members of a disastrous expedition from Earth to Mars. He has been raised by Martians and then is brought to Earth by a second expedition. The point is that he has none of the morals, intellectual attitudes or cultural patterns of human beings. Besides having some unusual Martian concepts, he also has some of their magic—cataleptic trances, the power of levitation and the neat ability to leave his body.

The first part of the story is straight science fiction, a struggle of a small group to keep the "Martian" out of the hands of a scheming World Federation. Then suddenly, for some unexplained reason, the federation fades out of the picture. After learning what humans are like — the key is the fact they are laughing creatures — the "Martian" founds a remarkable sect that is a cross between free love and self - hypnotism, with a little snake-handling thrown in for theatrical effect.

The author has succeeded partly in showing that our attitudes towards life and death, wealth and poverty, love and fate, look rather odd when placed in contrast with a directly opposite view.

But the presentation of social criticism loses its effectiveness in the weird device of having the pseudo - Martian, whose name is Mike, found a sect that is both humorless and unconsciously funny. To this reader it seems the science fiction writer's chief pitfall is to become so engrossed in the imaginative potentials of science that he loses sight of human personalities and human emotions. The gadgets are marvelous, but some of the people aren't real.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The status symbol that once belonged to locomotive engineers — the power to make a loud noise — apparently has passed to truck drivers.

Several truckers in this area recently sounded their air horns to the delight of children who had leaned from their passing automobiles and gestured as if pulling whistle cords.

This Book Could Be A Lot Better

THE LAST OF THE SOUTHERN WINDS. By Donald Loovis. Scribners. $4.50.

Here is a story about a young man "of querulous character" and the odd solution he finds to his dilemma of being a human fiasco.

His name is Carl Solon, and his only relative is an uncle, Ben Hoyt. Or more properly, the Rev. Benjamin T. Hoyt, rector of a fashionable church and a television "personality." In his college days Ben had been grateful for the friendship of a gridiron hero, Jake Romano. Over the years he had made several loans to him.

Now Jake's restaurant in Key West, "The Southern Winds," needed financial help — partly because it was being bled by racketeers, though Jake hadn't mentioned that. Ben was willing to help, and decided to send Carl, now unemployed, to Key West for a few weeks. Ben thought perhaps he could help both men that way.

Carl finds some rather depraved characters gathered around the tragic figure of Jake, and some even stranger people among his clientele. He begins to have an affair with Charlotte, a big, crude, partly deaf woman who combines the occupations of restaurant cashier and gossip columnist. Charlotte's past has included four husbands.

Then Jake and "The Southern Winds" come to a sudden end. So what does Carl do? He settles down in Key West with Charlotte, deciding they would make a good pair, since both of them are fiascos, "and I need love more than money."

Somehow this book seems to make Key West a little too bizarre, and Carl is not too convincing a character. Loovis can write, but he seems to be going in several directions at once in this book.

Laotian Views Laos: Storm Center Of East

STORM OVER LAOS. By Sisouk Champassak. Praeger. $5.

There scarcely could be a book more timely than this one, for in recent weeks the news columns have been full of the negotiations over Laos.

The chief Laotian figures mentioned in the dispatches are the chief figures in this book too. It is an ominous thought that the current arguments over expansion of the International Control Commission (originally composed of Polish, Canadian and Indian delegates) have an echo in this book. The author plainly states that the original commission was an easy mark for the Communist-tinged Pathet Lao and the directly Communist Viet Minh.

The author has been a diplomatic official in several Laotian governments, an envoy to the United Nations, and a member of the "Young Ones" political group of his country.

He gives a complete review of the reasons for the crisis in Laos, an explanation of how the situation developed, and a comprehensive picture of the personalities involved.

A Sly Spoof Of Montezuma's Big Sex Hex

When tales are told slyly, they are more enjoyable, particularly if one has shucked one's shoes and has settled back to be entertained by an imaginative raconteur.

He starts with the idea that a Montezuma curse has been put on all the descendants of a conquistadore, so that all female and male members of the family, once they have experienced physical love, are consumed with an insatiable and often ruinous desire for more loving.

In the mid-19th Century, the descendants include Don Jose, who owns enormous cattle lands in northern Mexico, and his daughter Maria de Lourdes. They are joined by Major Patten, a professional gambler who has worked his way through the saloons of the fronteir to Texas, where he decides to settle down as a cattle baron. Ergo, the Major marries Maria and inherits Don Jose's vast domain.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This is the season of the year when the publishers slack up on their output and there are not too many new books released. In spite of this fact, the Ouachita Parish Public Library has added several interesting new titles in the past week.

John Cheever, who made such a success several years ago with his "Wapshot Chronicle" has a new title called "Some People, Places and Things that Will Not Appear in My Next Novel." With such a title as this there is certain to be something to interest every reader. Mr. Cheever writes well and this book should be popular.

Stories of suspense and mystery are always popular and there are three new titles which come in this category. "Thunderball" is the title of the new thriller by Ian Fleming. It concerns the adventures of secret operative James Bond in his search for the men who make up a deadly group known as S.P.E.C.T.R.E. This is a book to make the reader's spine tingle and there are many who will want to read it. "Night of Wenceslas" is the title of a new Harper novel of suspense by Lionel Davidson. This is the story of an average young Englishman, who inherited an estate, but was forced to go to Prague to claim it. There he found himself immersed in intrigue and international espionage to an alarming extent. This book is well-written, exciting and surprising. "The Chinese Hammer" is the title of the suspense novel by Simon Harvester. It has it's setting in China and India and is also a story of international intrigue and espionage. These three books should provide interest for many readers who enjoy this sort of book.

Probably the most popular type of non - fiction in the entire library collection is that dealing with the art of arranging flowers. Each year we purchase many new titles dealing with this subject, but never seem to have enough to meet all of the demands. One reason that the gardening and flower arrangement sections are as complete as they are, is that these books are especially suitable for memorial books. The latest addition to this section is "Arranging Flowers for the Sanctuary" by Francis Patteson - Knight and Margaret McReynolds St. Claire. This book will be very valuable to the many people in the community who are responsible for the flowers in their churches. It contains practical, down to earth advice and is also well illustrated.

In addition to the stories of suspense and international intrigue, mentioned above, a number of exciting mystery stories are also recent additions. John Rhode is the author of "The Vanishing Diary." This story has its setting in northern England and is a Dr. Priestley story. One of the most popular writers of mystery stories is Agatha Christie. Her latest one is called "Double Sin." In this book are eight different stories, which will be eagerly welcomed by her readers. "Five of a Kind" by Rex Stout is also a collection of Nero Wolfe stories by Rex Stout. This is an exciting collection, which will be eagerly read.

J. B. Priestley is the author of "Saturn over the Water," a novel of entertainment and action on a global basis. It is fast moving and exciting. "Hear Me Pilate" by Legette Blythe is a powerful reconstruction of the dramatic circumstances surrounding the death of Jesus. In this book we get an excellent depiction of the character of Pilate — his weakness, corruption and ambition. The author has put to use all of his story telling talents and his thorough knowledge of Biblical and Roman history. The result is a tale of human beings caught in a web of political intrigue and personal involvement and of the reasons which made them commit a deed, which forever condemned them in the eyes of the world.

Until a simple noodle-making machine was brought to South Korea, 7,000 orphans, widows and students were on the verge of starvation. Now, 500 miles of noodles a day, every day, are made from American wheat flour, corn meal and powdered milk—and Kyonggi's hungry people can face the future with new hope and courage.

This life-saving assistance is the direct result of Americans supporting their faith's Overseas Aid Program. While this endeavor is Catholic, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain extensive relief programs.

The needs of millions are being met, one by one . . . and the work must go on. These religion-sponsored programs are often the only hope for destitute millions throughout the free world. Next time you are asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember what just simple noodles can mean in terms of human life.

Judge Will Serve As Go-Between

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge has agreed to act as an intermediary in seeking the return of 10 valuable paintings stolen from an industrialist's home.

"It is my earnest hope that the stolen works of art will be safely returned and as soon as possible," said Judge Henry X. O'Brien of Allegheny County Court, Saturday. "I appeal to anyone who may know the whereabouts of these paintings to contact me."

G. David Thompson has offered a $100,000 reward for the safe return of the paintings, which were stolen from his suburban Whitehall home a week ago. The burglars also damaged a number of other paintings.

Thompson has not placed a value on the stolen paintings, but the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said they are worth an estimated $500,000. Stolen were six Picassos, one Miro, one Matisse, and two Legers.

Judge O'Brien, in elaborating on his position as intermediary, said: "I will not be an intermediary in the sense that I will be dealing with crooks directly. No money will be handled by me. I will be acting more as a person making a public appeal for the paintings return.

"An intermediary is bound by the law the same as everyone else. He could arrange to recover the paintings, even arrange for payment of the money, but he couldn't arrange not to prosecute or grant any immunity."

Thompson said in a statement his primary objective in offering a $100,000 reward was to prevent the destruction of the paintings by people who might panic when they found they had taken pictures they could not sell on the world art market.

Coal Industry Seeks Aid Against Bill

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Another effort to get Congress to put stronger teeth in oil imports controls can be expected next year.

Texas independent producers already are at work mapping strategy.

The newed efforts will center on amendments to the trade agreements act. The act will require extension by Congress in 1962.

A defense amendment tacked onto the act in 1955 paved the way for the voluntary oil imports control program ordered by President Eisenhower in 1957. Revision of the amendment in 1958 preceded the change to mandatory controls in early 1959.

NEW AMENDMENT

The Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association has not anonunced its objectives for 1962 but has ordered its imports committee to begin immediate preparation for a new amendment for placement before Congress.

The Texans and other independents who have been fighting oil imports can be expected, however, to repeat earlier requests that Congress spell out its desires on the control of imports of crude oil and petroleum products. This would include the naming of specific products to be controlled and placing specific limitations on such products.

A rash of requests for Congress to limit imports developed after the end of the Korean crisis. Various proposals called for control of such products as oil, flurospar, lead and zinc. Another called for limiting oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand.

Congress lumped all the proposals into the 1955 defense amendment. No specific products were named. The amendment merely authorized the President to control "any article" which was being imported in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security. The decision on whether imports would be controlled by the use of tariffs, quotas, import taxes or other methods of restriction was left to the President.

INDEPENDENTS BUCK

The independents were back again with their requests when the trade act came up for extension again in 1958. The Independent Petroleum Association of America asked for definite mandatory restrictions.

Congress again declined but broadened the 1955 amendment so as to cover any "article and its derivatives." It also gave the President greater authority to control imports at a level consistent with national security requirements.

The 1958 amendment lists a dozen factors the President was asked to consider in establishing imports controls.

These factors included domestic production levels and productive capacity, two matters about which the Texas independents oil operator are alarmed.

The nation currently has idle oil productive capacity in excess of three million barrels a day. About half of this is in Texas.

In announcing plans to draft a new defense amendment, James F. West, president of the Texas Independents, said Texas also has lost part of the domestic oil market to other oil states.

"These and other factors have forced Texas to shoulder far more than its share of the reserve productive capacity burden," he said.

Sun Oil Extends McComb Field In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Sun Oil Co. has extended the McComb Field of Pike County three-fourths of a mile northwest.

The McComb unit No. 6, sec. 31-4n-7e logged 10 feet of oil sand at 11,001 feet. Initial productions tests recorded a 133-barrell flow of oil per day.

Sun has two outpost wells drilling in the same section of the big field. The unit No. 1, sec. 1-3n-6w was below 2,500 feet and the unit No. N-1, sec. 31-4n-7e was below 9,500 feet.

In the new Johnston station school No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e.

Hill and McLoan were below 11,650 feet in an Amite County wildcat, the Wall No. 1, sec. 35-1n-6e. It is scheduled to 14,500 feet.

Reports indicated that operators logged three feet of hard sand with a slight show of oil at 11,586 feet.

The Offshore Co. has abandoned a Pike County wildcat, the Reeves o. 1, sec. 14-4n-7e, which logged .o shows to 11,200 feet. The try was about a mile northeast of the Summit oil field.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. was below 13,200 feet in a Covington County wildcat, the Windham No. 1, sec. 25-8n-15w, east of Collins. The test was scheduled to 14,000 feet and has logged slight asphaltic oil shows below 11,900 feet.

In Hinds County, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. was below 13,200 feet in a wildcat, the Wolfe No. 1, sec. 26-3n-2w. Pan American petroleum was below 11,500 feet in the United Christian Mission Society No. 1, sec. 30-6n-4w, Hinds County.

In the one well Traxler Field of Smith County, Triad Oil and Gas Co. recompleted the Dukes-Central No. 1, sec. 36-3n-6e from the paluxy sand at 10,008-16 feet with the well reported flowing 249 barrels of oil per day.

The well was the discovery and was flowing 100 barrels per day from the Rodessa sand at 11,072-78 feet before being recompleted.

In the Hardrock Country of northeast Mississippi, McAlester Fuel Co. was below 6,700 feet in an Oktibbeha County wildcat, the Cole No. 1, sec. 7-19n-15e. It was scheduled to 9,500 feet.

Oilers Hope For Stronger Impot Contol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The coal industry would like to see rival fuels industries join its fight against a bill in Congress to produce public power with waste steam at a proposed $5 million nuclear weapons plant at Hanford, Wash.

But at the moment it appears it will have to go it alone. A UPI check showed there is no disposition in either oil or natural gas councils to take up the issue although it is possible there may be regrets in the years ahead.

This could prove true if, as coal charges, the dual-purpose plant becomes the forerunner of a public power grid system using steam from atomic heat instead of the conventional fuels—coal, oil and gas. Power plants are among coal's best cusomters.

The National Coal Association (NCA) and the United Mine Workers managed with strong Republican support to sidetrack the power-producing part of the bill in the House. But they could pose the final battle in parliamentary jockeying unless their ranks are strengthened.

That is why coal would like to see its arch rivals join the campaign. In effect, NCA has warned them that it is a mutual fight for self-preservation.

But there is division among coal state legislators about the alleged dangers ahead. Sen. Jennings Randolph, Democrat from coal-producing West Virginia, voted with the majority when the Senate approved the plant in the Atomic Energy Commission's $600 million construction authorization.

"It is tragic to imply," said Randolph, "that if the Hanford than turbinized to generate elecreactor heat is wasted, rather tric power, there will somehow be created in that region a market for two million tons of coal. I do not view the proposal with any more alarm than senators from the northwest viewed the distressed areas development legislation."

In contrast, Rep. James C. Van Zandt, R-Pa., managed before the House passed its bill to delete the power provision. He declared it would put the AEC in the public power business on what could become a tremendous scale, with serious damage to coal.

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., then stepped in and blocked naming of House conferees to iron out differences in the bills with Senate conferees. Halleck demanded instead that the House Rules Committee give the House the right to vote the power proviso up or down separately.

Oil and gas, though they fuel thousands of industrial plants, are merely interested spectators. Three big industry organizations —the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Natural Gas Association, and the Independent Petroleum Association of America —said they had no plans to join the NCA's campaign.

Road Work Set After Contract In Area Given

BATON ROUGE (Special)—Louisiana Highway Director Ray W. Burgess said that construction is scheduled to begin on a 10-mile road improvement project on the Clayton - Highland Highway (State Route 571) in Tensas Parish after a contract of $201,899 was awarded to the Catahoula Construction Co. of Sicily Island.

The highway director said plans call for grading, drainage structures, aggregate type base course and bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide.

Burgess added the project begins north of Clayton at the junction of State Routes 566 and 571, then proceeds northwest and then east along State Route 571 for a distance of 10 miles.

The contractor will be required to provide for and maintain through and local traffic at all times for the specified contract time of 13 months.

Project engineer for the highway department is H. D. Champlin of Ferriday.

Judge Will Serve As Go-Between

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge has agreed to act as an intermediary in seeking the return of 10 valuable paintings stolen from an industrialist's home.

"It is my earnest hope that the stolen works of art will be safely returned and as soon as possible," said Judge Henry X. O'Brien of Allegheny County Court, Saturday. "I appeal to anyone who may know the whereabouts of these paintings to contact me."

G. David Thompson has offered a $100,000 reward for the safe return of the paintings, which were stolen from his suburban Whitehall home a week ago. The burglars also damaged a number of other paintings.

Thompson has not placed a value on the stolen paintings, but the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said they are worth an estimated $500,000. Stolen were six Picassos, one Miro, one Matisse, and two Legers.

Judge O'Brien, in elaborating on his position as intermediary, said: "I will not be an intermediary in the sense that I will be dealing with crooks directly. No money will be handled by me. I will be acting more as a person making a public appeal for the paintings return.

"An intermediary is bound by the law the same as everyone else. He could arrange to recover the paintings, even arrange for payment of the money, but he couldn't arrange not to prosecute or grant any immunity."

Thompson said in a statement his primary objective in offering a $100,000 reward was to prevent the destruction of the paintings by people who might panic when they found they had taken pictures they could not sell on the world art market.

Coal Industry Seeks Aid Against Bill

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Another effort to get Congress to put stronger teeth in oil imports controls can be expected next year.

Texas independent producers already are at work mapping strategy.

The newed efforts will center on amendments to the trade agreements act. The act will require extension by Congress in 1962.

A defense amendment tacked onto the act in 1955 paved the way for the voluntary oil imports control program ordered by President Eisenhower in 1957. Revision of the amendment in 1958 preceded the change to mandatory controls in early 1959.

NEW AMENDMENT

The Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association has not anonunced its objectives for 1962 but has ordered its imports committee to begin immediate preparation for a new amendment for placement before Congress.

The Texans and other independents who have been fighting oil imports can be expected, however, to repeat earlier requests that Congress spell out its desires on the control of imports of crude oil and petroleum products. This would include the naming of specific products to be controlled and placing specific limitations on such products.

A rash of requests for Congress to limit imports developed after the end of the Korean crisis. Various proposals called for control of such products as oil, flurospar, lead and zinc. Another called for limiting oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand.

Congress lumped all the proposals into the 1955 defense amendment. No specific products were named. The amendment merely authorized the President to control "any article" which was being imported in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security. The decision on whether imports would be controlled by the use of tariffs, quotas, import taxes or other methods of restriction was left to the President.

INDEPENDENTS BUCK

The independents were back again with their requests when the trade act came up for extension again in 1958. The I...lependent Petroleum Association of America asked for definite mandatory restrictions.

Congress again declined but broadened the 1955 amendment so as to cover any "article and its derivatives." It also gave the President greater authority to control imports at a level consistent with national security requirements.

The 1958 amendment lists a dozen factors the President was asked to consider in establishing imports controls.

These factors included domestic production levels and productive capacity, two matters about which the Texas independents oil operator are alarmed.

The nation currently has idle oil productive capacity in excess of three million barrels a day. About half of this is in Texas.

In announcing plans to draft a new defense amendment, James F. West, president of the Texas Independents, said Texas also has lost part of the domestic oil market to other oil states.

"These and other factors have forced Texas to shoulder far more than its share of the reserve productive capacity burden," he said.

Sun Oil Extends McComb Field In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Sun Oil Co. has extended the McComb Field of Pike County three-fourths of a mile northwest.

The McComb unit No. 6, sec. 31-4n-7e logged 10 feet of oil sand at 11,001 feet. Initial productions tests recorded a 133-barrell flow of oil per day.

Sun has two outpost wells drilling in the same section of the big field. The unit No. 1, sec. 1-3n-6w was below 2,500 feet and the unit No. N-1, sec. 31-4n-7e was below 9,500 feet.

In the new Johnston station school No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e.

Oilers Hope For Stronger Impot Contol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The coal industry would like to see rival fuels industries join its fight against a bill in Congress to produce public power with waste steam at a proposed $5 million nuclear weapons plant at Hanford, Wash.

But at the moment it appears it will have to go it alone. A UPI check showed there is no disposition in either oil or natural gas councils to take up the issue although it is possible there may be regrets in the years ahead.

This could prove true if, as coal charges, the dual-purpose plant becomes the forerunner of a public power grid system using steam from atomic heat instead of the conventional fuels—coal, oil and gas. Power plants are among coal's best cusomters.

The National Coal Association (NCA) and the United Mine Workers managed with strong Republican support to sidetrack the power-producing part of the bill in the House. But they could pose the final battle in parliamentary jockeying unless their ranks are strengthened.

That is why coal would like to see its arch rivals join the campaign. In effect, NCA has warned them that it is a mutual fight for self-preservation.

But there is division among coal state legislators about the alleged dangers ahead. Sen. Jennings Randolph, Democrat from coal-producing West Virginia, voted with the majority when the Senate approved the plant in the Atomic Energy Commission's $600 million construction authorization.

"It is tragic to imply," said Randolph, "that if the Hanford than turbinized to generate elecreactor heat is wasted, rather tric power, there will somehow be created in that region a market for two million tons of coal. I do not view the proposal with any more alarm than senators from the northwest viewed the distressed areas development legislation."

In contrast, Rep. James C. Van Zandt, R-Pa., managed before the House passed its bill to delete the power provision. He declared it would put the AEC in the public power business on what could become a tremendous scale, with serious damage to coal.

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., then stepped in and blocked naming of House conferees to iron out differences in the bills with Senate conferees. Halleck demanded instead that the House Rules Committee give the House the right to vote the power proviso up or down separately.

Oil and gas, though they fuel thousands of industrial plants, are merely interested spectators. Three big industry organizations —the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Natural Gas Association, and the Independent Petroleum Association of America —said they had no plans to join the NCA's campaign.

Lyndra Pate Days Slated In Bastrop

BASTROP (Special) — The reigning queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair, who is now "Miss Louisiana," will be honored August 11 and 12 during "Lyndra Pate Days" in Bastrop. The citywide movement is being directed by the Jaycees with Billy Dark and John Cordaro as chairman and co-chairman.

Lyndra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Pate of Shreveport, was named Cotton queen last September from a field of 16 beauties and was selected from a bevy of queens July 4 to represent the state at the "Miss America Pageant" in Atlantic City, N. J., in early September.

Civic clubs, parish and city officials, the Cotton Festival, the Bastrop Association of Commerce, the press, radio, and television, plus leaders in industry will host a luncheon August 11 at the Louisiana Motor Hotel honoring the brown-haired beauty.

Under the sponsorship of the festival and the Association of Commerce and Industry, the new "Miss Louisiana" will be introduced to the public at a tea from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, August 11. The open-to-the-public event is scheduled in the International House with the Jaycee Jaynes making arrangements for the affair.

Saturday morning will find Lyndra on tour of the downtown business area making calls on merchants participating in the celebration.

As Cotton Festival queen, the Centenary College junior made official visits to the Forest Festival in Winnfield; Rice Festival in Crowley; Mardi Gras Ball in Washington, D. C., where she was chosen to return and represent the state in the Cherry Blossom Festival; the Peach Festival in Ruston, and many other festivities throughout Louisiana.

She is currently making personal appearances as "Miss Louisiana" in cities of the state and has officially visited the "Miss Arkansas" and "Miss Mississippi" pageants.

Queen Lyndra will compete in the "Miss America Pageant" in Atlantic City, September 5-9.

An official proclamation has been issued by Mayor A. P. Carter proclaiming August 11 and 12 "Lyndra Pate Days" in Bastrop.

Reds Join Tunisia In UN Demand

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Saturday joined Tunisia in a demand for an extraordinary session of the U. N. General Assembly to consider the "continuing aggression" against Bizerte, according to the official Soviet news agency Tass.

A joint communique on the conclusion of talks between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Tunisian Foreign Minister Sadok Mokkadem published by Tass said:

The Soviet Union supports the proposal for the summoning of an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly in connection with the continuing aggression against Bizerte."

"The Soviet people and the government of the U. S. S. R. are convinced that the Tunisia's just struggle for the restoration of their sovereign rights to Bizerte will be crowned with an early and complete victory," the announcement said.

Tass said Gromyko assured Mokkadem of Russia's support for "Tunisia's just demand for the immediate cessation by France of all actions violating the sovereignty and independence of the Tunisian republic."

In a summary, published before the full communique text was announced, Tass attributed most of it directly to Gromyko.

Tass quoted Gromyko as saying the Soviet position "is determined by the general basic line of policy of the Soviet Union regarding its support for the efforts of peoples fighting to strengthen their national independence, liquidate foreign military bases and abolish aggressive military blocs and alliances."

Road Work Set After Contract In Area Given

BATON ROUGE (Special)—Louisiana Highway Director Ray W. Burgess said that construction is scheduled to begin on a 10-mile road improvement project on the Clayton - Highland Highway (State Route 571) in Tensas Parish after a contract of $201,899 was awarded to the Catahoula Construction Co. of Sicily Island.

The highway director said plans call for grading, drainage structures, aggregate type base course and bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide.

Burgess added the project begins north of Clayton at the junction of State Routes 566 and 571, then proceeds northwest and then east along State Route 571 for a distance of 10 miles.

The contractor will be required to provide for and maintain through and local traffic at all times for the specified contract time of 13 months.

Project engineer for the highway department is H. D. Champlin of Ferriday.

Judge Will Serve As Go-Between

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge has agreed to act as an intermediary in seeking the return of 10 valuable paintings stolen from an industrialist's home.

"It is my earnest hope that the stolen works of art will be safely returned and as soon as possible," said Judge Henry X. O'Brien of Allegheny County Court, Saturday. "I appeal to anyone who may know the whereabouts of these paintings to contact me."

G. David Thompson has offered a $100,000 reward for the safe return of the paintings, which were stolen from his suburban Whitehall home a week ago. The burglars also damaged a number of other paintings.

Thompson has not placed a value on the stolen paintings, but the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said they are worth an estimated $500,000. Stolen were six Picassos, one Miro, one Matisse, and two Legers.

Judge O'Brien, in elaborating on his position as intermediary, said: "I will not be an intermediary in the sense that I will be dealing with crooks directly. No money will be handled by me. I will be acting more as a person making a public appeal for the paintings return.

"An intermediary is bound by the law the same as everyone else. He could arrange to recover the paintings, even arrange for payment of the money, but he couldn't arrange not to prosecute or grant any immunity."

Thompson said in a statement his primary objective in offering a $100,000 reward was to prevent the destruction of the paintings by people who might panic when they found they had taken pictures they could not sell on the world art market.

Coal Industry Seeks Aid Against Bill

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Another effort to get Congress to put stronger teeth in oil imports controls can be expected next year.

Texas independent producers already are at work mapping strategy.

The newed efforts will center on amendments to the trade agreements act. The act will require extension by Congress in 1962.

A defense amendment tacked onto the act in 1955 paved the way for the voluntary oil imports control program ordered by President Eisenhower in 1957. Revision of the amendment in 1958 preceded the change to mandatory controls in early 1959.

NEW AMENDMENT

The Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association has not anonunced its objectives for 1962 but has ordered its imports committee to begin immediate preparation for a new amendment for placement before Congress.

The Texans and other independents who have been fighting oil imports can be expected, however, to repeat earlier requests that Congress spell out its desires on the control of imports of crude oil and petroleum products. This would include the naming of specific products to be controlled and placing specific limitations on such products.

A rash of requests for Congress to limit imports developed after the end of the Korean crisis. Various proposals called for control of such products as oil, flurospar, lead and zinc. Another called for limiting oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand.

Congress lumped all the proposals into the 1955 defense amendment. No specific products were named. The amendment merely authorized the President to control "any article" which was being imported in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security. The decision on whether imports would be controlled by the use of tariffs, quotas, import taxes or other methods of restriction was left to the President.

INDEPENDENTS BUCK

The independents were back again with their requests when the trade act came up for extension again in 1958. The I...lependent Petroleum Association of America asked for definite mandatory restrictions.

Congress again declined but broadened the 1955 amendment so as to cover any "article and its derivatives." It also gave the President greater authority to control imports at a level consistent with national security requirements.

The 1958 amendment lists a dozen factors the President was asked to consider in establishing imports controls.

These factors included domestic production levels and productive capacity, two matters about which the Texas independents oil operator are alarmed.

The nation currently has idle oil productive capacity in excess of three million barrels a day. About half of this is in Texas.

In announcing plans to draft a new defense amendment, James F. West, president of the Texas Independents, said Texas also has lost part of the domestic oil market to other oil states.

"These and other factors have forced Texas to shoulder far more than its share of the reserve productive capacity burden," he said.

Sun Oil Extends McComb Field In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Sun Oil Co. has extended the McComb Field of Pike County three-fourths of a mile northwest.

The McComb unit No. 6, sec. 31-4n-7e logged 10 feet of oil sand at 11,001 feet. Initial productions tests recorded a 133-barrell flow of oil per day.

Sun has two outpost wells drilling in the same section of the big field. The unit No. 1, sec. 1-3n-6w was below 2,500 feet and the unit No. N-1, sec. 31-4n-7e was below 9,500 feet.

In the new Johnston station school No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e.

Hill and McLean were below 11,650 feet in an Amite County wildcat, the Wall No. 1, sec. 35-1n-6e. It is scheduled to 14,500 feet.

Reports indicated that operators logged three feet of hard sand with a slight show of oil at 11,586 feet.

The Offshore Co. has abandoned a Pike County wildcat, the Reeves o. 1, sec. 14-4n-7e, which logged no shows to 11,200 feet. The try was about a mile northeast of the Summit oil field.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. was below 13,200 feet in a Covington County wildcat, the Windham No. 1, sec. 25-8n-15w, east of Collins. The test was scheduled to 14,000 feet and has logged slight asphaltic oil shows below 11,900 feet.

In Hinds County, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. was below 13,200 feet in a wildcat, the Wolfe No. 1, sec. 26-3n-2w. Pan American petroleum was below 11,500 feet in the United Christian Mission Society No. 1, sec. 30-6n-4w, Hinds County.

In the one well Traxler Field of Smith County, Triad Oil and Gas Co. recompleted the Dukes-Central No. 1, sec. 36-3n-6e from the paluxy sand at 10,008-16 feet with the well reported flowing 249 barrels of oil per day.

The well was the discovery and was flowing 100 barrels per day from the Rodessa sand at 11,072-78 feet before being recompleted.

In the Hardrock Country of northeast Mississippi, McAlester Fuel Co. was below 6,700 feet in an Oktibbeha County wildcat, the Cole No. 1, sec. 7-19n-15e. It was scheduled to 9,500 feet.

Oilers Hope For Stronger Impot Contol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The coal industry would like to see rival fuels industries join its fight against a bill in Congress to produce public power with waste steam at a proposed $5 million nuclear weapons plant at Hanford, Wash.

But at the monent it appears it will have to go it alone. A UPI check showed there is no disposition in either oil or natural gas councils to take up the issue although it is possible there may be regrets in the years ahead.

This could prove true if, as coal charges, the dual-purpose plant becomes the forerunner of a public power grid system using steam from atomic heat instead of the conventional fuels—coal, oil and gas. Power plants are among coal's best cusomters.

The National Coal Association (NCA) and the United Mine Workers managed with strong Republican support to sidetrack the power-producing part of the bill in the House. But they could pose the final battle in parliamentary jockeying unless their ranks are strengthened.

That is why coal would like to see its arch rivals join the campaign. In effect, NCA has warned them that it is a mutual fight for self-preservation.

But there is division among coal state legislators about the alleged dangers ahead. Sen. Jennings Randolph, Democrat from coal-producing West Virginia, voted with the majority when the Senate approved the plant in the Atomic Energy Commission's $600 million construction authorization.

"It is tragic to imply," said Randolph, "that if the Hanford than turbinized to generate electreactor heat is wasted, rather tric power, there will somehow be created in that region a market for two million tons of coal. I do not view the proposal with any more alarm than senators from the northwest viewed the distressed areas development legislation."

In contrast, Rep. James C. Van Zandt, R-Pa., managed before the House passed its bill to delete the power provision. He declared it would put the AEC in the public power business on what could become a tremendous scale, with serious damage to coal.

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., then stepped in and blocked naming of House conferees to iron out differences in the bills with Senate conferees. Halleck demanded instead that the House Rules Committee give the House the right to vote the power proviso up or down separately.

Oil and gas, though they fuel thousands of industrial plants, are merely interested spectators. Three big industry organizations —the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Natural Gas Association, and the Independent Petroleum Association of America —said they had no plans to join the NCA's campaign.

A WELL - KNOWN hymn speaks of the christian's faith and refuge when it proclaims, "On the rock of Christ I stand, all other ground is sinking sand. . . ."

THE REV. LOWELL O. Ryan, Methodist district superintendent of Kerrville, Texas, will be the evangelist at revival services at Claiborne Methodist Church, five miles west of West Monroe on Highway 80, during the period of August 13-18. The Rev. T. A. Brown, church pastor, announced. Services will be held daily at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Special Services Are Announced At Church Here

The president of Christ Ambassadors for the Louisiana district, the Rev. M. E. Gorman, will speak today at 11 a.m. at the College Town Assembly of God Church, D'Arbonne and Harrison streets, Monroe.

Speaker at dedication of the church's new sanctuary today at 2:30 p.m. will be the Rev. J. E. Allen, presbyter of the Monroe District of the Assemblies of God.

Church pastor, the Rev. E. J. Graves, said that special groups of singers from neighboring churches will be present and there will be singing of old time gospel songs.

Lyndra Pate Days Slated In Bastrop

BASTROP (Special) — The reigning queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair, who is now "Miss Louisiana," will be honored August 11 and 12 during "Lyndra Pate Days" in Bastrop. The citywide movement is being directed by the Jaycees with Billy Dark and John Cordaro as chairman and co-chairman.

Lyndra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Pate of Shreveport, was named Cotton queen last September from a field of 16 beauties and was selected from a bevy of queens July 4 to represent the state at the "Miss America Pageant" in Atlantic City, N. J., in early September.

Civic clubs, parish and city officials, the Cotton Festival, the Bastrop Association of Commerce, the press, radio, and television, plus leaders in industry will host a luncheon August 11 at the Louisiana Motor Hotel honoring the brown-haired beauty.

Under the sponsorship of the festival and the Association of Commerce and Industry, the new "Miss Louisiana" will be introduced to the public at a tea from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, August 11. The open-to-the-public event is scheduled in the International House with the Jaycee Jaynes making arrangements for the affair.

Saturday morning will find Lyndra on tour of the downtown business area making calls on merchants participating in the celebration.

As Cotton Festival queen, the Centenary College junior made official visits to the Forest Festival in Winnfield; Rice Festival in Crowley; Mardi Gras Ball in Washington, D. C., where she was chosen to return and represent the state in the Cherry Blossom Festival; the Peach Festival in Ruston, and many other festivities throughout Louisiana.

She is currently making personal appearances as "Miss Louisiana" in cities of the state and has officially visited the "Miss Arkansas" and "Miss Mississippi" pageants.

Queen Lyndra will compete in the "Miss America Pageant" in Atlantic City, September 5-9.

An official proclamation has been issued by Mayor A. P. Carter proclaiming August 11 and 12 "Lyndra Pate Days" in Bastrop.

Reds Join Tunisia In UN Demand

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Saturday joined Tunisia in a demand for an extraordinary session of the U. N. General Assembly to consider the "continuing aggression" against Bizerte, according to the official Soviet news agency Tass.

A joint communique on the conclusion of talks between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Tunisian Foreign Minister Sadok Mokkadem published by Tass said:

The Soviet Union supports the proposal for the summoning of an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly in connection with the continuing aggression against Bizerte."

"The Soviet people and the government of the U. S. S. R. are convinced that the Tunisia's just struggle for the restoration of their sovereign rights to Bizerte will be crowned with an early and complete victory," the announcement said.

Tass said Gromyko assured Mokkadem of Russia's support for "Tunisia's just demand for the immediate cessation by France of all actions violating the sovereignty and independence of the Tunisian republic."

In a summary, published before the full communique text was announced, Tass attributed most of it directly to Gromyko.

Tass quoted Gromyko as saying the Soviet position "is determined by the general basic line of policy of the Soviet Union regarding its support for the efforts of peoples fighting to strengthen their national independence, liquidate foreign military bases and abolish aggressive military blocs and alliances."

Optimists Hold Melon Party For Youngsters

The West Monroe Optimist club Friday held a watermelon party for children in the Bawcomville area where the Optimists have maintained a summer playground this summer.

The party, attended by children of the area, was held at the Lenwil school grounds, where the playground has been maintained by the Optimists.

"We just thought it would be a good way to further show our appreciation or youth," according to Optimist President Alan Roberson.

Babysitter Is Charged In Death

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — A charge of manslaughter was filed Saturday against a heavy-set baby sitter for the suffocation of one of three children she admitted died in her arms.

Mary Kathryn Madigan, 29, was given until Aug. 15 to enter a plea in the death of Gail Nemmers, 3, who died of suffocation while in the 180-pound woman's care Thursday night.

County attorney Robert Oeth said no charges would be filed in the deaths last month of Gail's sister, Karen Sue, 22 months old, and Michael Fitzpatrick, 4, because the county medical examiner had ruled they died of natural causes. She is being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Police quoted her as saying she held her hand over Gail Nemmers' mouth "quite a bit" because she was crying. After the child died, police found that Madigan also had been babysitting when Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nemmers' other girl died and when the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fitzpatrick died.

The Nemmers have a son, Richie, 5. The Fitzpatricks have no other children.

Police said Madigan told them she held Karen Nemmers and the Fitzpatrick boy with their mouths close to her neck until "they seemed to gasp for air and their bodies went limp."

"She took excellent care of the children and did extra things around the house," Mrs. Fitzpatrick said. "There was no reason to suspect Michael's death resulted from anything Miss Madigan may have done."

However, authorities said some families had refused to rehire Madigan "because she was too loving" with their children.

75-Year-Old Lady Rescued From Bathtub

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)— Police and firemen Saturday who was unable to get out of the bath tub in her apartment since Thursday night.

Officers said Sarah Katz apparently was too embarrassed to permit would-be rescuers to enter her apartment.

She was reported in fair condition at County General Hospital where she was taken after neighbors finally called police and firemen Saturday. They broke a chain lock on the door to her apartment.

She could not explain immediately why she was unable to get out of the tub but officers said she had hoped she would regain her strength so she could get out herself. She had no food or water during the 38-hour ordeal.

Two Convicts Are Captured

RIPLEY, Tenn. (UPI)— Two men identified as escapers from the Mississippi County jail at Osceola, Ark., were picked up Saturday morning after a narrow escape from drowning in the Mississippi River.

Officers said the two men, identified as Joe Anderson, 33, of Little Rock, and Iden Jones, 35, of Indiana, were among six escapers from the jail Friday night.

Officials at the Fort Pillow State Prison Farm, where Anderson and Jones were first carried, said the fugitives claimed they hacked their way out of the jail and tried to cross the Mississippi into Tennessee in a small boat. The boat sank and they grabbed a floating log and began to maneuver across the river. The log then sank and they were forced to swim the rest of the way.

Adoula Says Katanga Head Is Welcome

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe has offered to come here to meet new Central Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula if the United Nations guarantees his safety, it was announed Saturday.

A spokesman for Adoula said Tshombe's message was relayed by U. N. Chief Representative Sture Linner.

Adoula told Linner that Tshombe "is welcome to come to Leopoldville any time he wants," the spokesman said. But he stressed Adoula was not prepared to discuss the circumstances of a Tshombe visit.

Informed sources said Tshombe apparently was anxious for high-level talks before committing himself on Katanga's participation in the Congolese parliament.

Tshombe, they said, may be worried about Adoula's expressed desire to assert his government's authority throughout the troubled nation and to restore order everywhere.

Informed sources said Tshombes appeal for a meeting was aimed at preventing military action against Katanga by the new central government.

At the same time Saturday, a U. S. Embassy spokesman denied reports that Tshombe's approach to Adoula was the result of a U. S. diplomatic offensive designed to bring Katanga into the Congo fold.

The spokesman said the reports probably arose from the presence in Elisabethville of Robert Eisenberg, deputy director of the State Department's office of Congolese affairs.

Eisenberg, who has toured the Congo for the past 10 days, was only trying to "familiarize himself with the Congo," the embassy spokesman said.

CHURCH WINDFALL

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Communist Hungary's Roman Catholic Church, stripped of all its properties and estates after World War II, has had a windfall, the Catholic newspaper Uj Ember disclosed Saturday.

PORTRAIT TROUBLE

The committee claimed it become a target for disturbances. The Foreign Ministry — already turned down by the Soviets on a request to have the portrait removed—said it would study the matter.

ARRESTED BY FBI

Cultist Is Free After Jail Stay

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Cultist John R. Harrell, who claims he receives instructions from the Lord, and his young son went free on $9,500 bond Saturday after spending a night in the city jail.

They left for their Louisville, Ill., estate where some of the womenfolk among Harrell's 100-member religious colony are fasting "until our leader returns."

Still occupying cells in the jail are 15 of Harrell's followers and Pvt. Dion Gaylord Davis, 18, the Marine Corps deserter. All are charged with harboring on Harrell's wooded retreat.

They were arrested during an FBI-led, 100-men raid on the colony early Friday after FBI agents tried without success for two days to coax Davis to leave. Some of Harrell's band were armed, but no shots were fired.

U. S. Commissioner Elvira Fellner granted bond during a brief hearing in her office at East St. Louis, Ill. There to greet Harrell, 38, and his son, Tod, 13, were his mother, Natalia Harrell, 62, and his auburn-haired wife, Betty, 39.

Harrell's mother made the bond with a money order.

The silvery - haired Harrell, founder of a sect he calls the Christian Conservative Church, said he would not be able to arrange bond totaling $43,000 for his followers until Monday.

Asked if he considered himself and his followers as having been in a state of armed insurrection against the government, the former Air Force officer replied: "Not even remotely."

The FBI contends Harrell told one agent before the commando-style raid he realized he was defying the government by granting asylum to young Davis and, in effect, was in a state of ramed insurrection.

Harrell then was asked by a newsman if, in fact, he had refused to turn over Davis. Before he could reply, his attorney, Carl Rice, raised his hand and said: "I don't think I would answer that one at this stage."

Harrell, 38, said he took in Davis because the lad told him of what he called debauchery, immorality and atheism at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The maximum penalty for harboring a deserter is three years imprisonment, a $2,000 fine or both.

The cult leader said he and his son, a 200-pounder whose long curly hair hangs to his shoulders, were nicely treated in jail. Harrell's hair folds over his collar.

He said he didn't know whether he would order his followers to end their fast.

"There will be instructions," he said. "They'll know themselves. They're close enough to the Lord to know."

His mother said she's taken only a few glasses of milk the last three days. Harrel's wife of 16 years explained she is expecting their fifth child and did not take part in the fast.

A maid at the Harrell home in Louisville, 90 miles east of here, said some of his woman followers "may continue to fast until all our men are returned if the Lord orders it."

Still jailed are two youths under 19 and 13 men ranging in age from 23 to 58. All work for Harrell, who operates a construction firm and a sporting goods store, in addition to the colony and an anti-Communist school.

Harrell's mother tried to get the group freed Friday. When she couldn't produce deeds, title papers and tax receipts for property her son says is worth $225,000, Commissioner Fellner sent them all to jail.

The young Marine, who sports extra long sideburns and a pencil mustache, was declared a deserter from Camp Lejeune May 29. He is to be returned there to face military proceedings.

Some of Harrell's followers were armed and a large cache of rifles, side arms and ammunition was seized.

Harrell, master of the estate, the centerpiece of which is a replica of George Washington's storied Mount Vernon home, attended Springfeild, Ill., junior college and the University of Arkansas for 3½ years. During World War II he served as a stateside pilot instructor.

He claims the Lord cured him of cancer one night in a motel near the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

"The Lord came in my room that night for six hours," he said. "He treated me rather roughly. He ranged fire over my body. Then he explained why he had healed me."

Crowds Battle Off 'Invasion' Of 50 Whales

CORNWALL, England (UPI) — Crowds of holidaymakers and residents fought off an invasion by a school of nearly 50 whales Saturday at Gillan Coye, a tiny beach resort on Britain's southwest coast.

The whales—between 15 and 30 feet in length — moved into the cove with the morning tide. Villagers went out in boats in an effort to beat them back—fearing that the whales would be caught and die on the beach when the tide went out.

About 20 whales were caught on the rocks but groups of men and boys rolled them back into the surf with wooden paddles.

Babysitter Is Charged In Death

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — A charge of manslaughter was filed Saturday against a heavy-set baby sitter for the suffocation of one of three children she admitted died in her arms.

Mary Kathryn Madigan, 29, was given until Aug. 15 to enter a plea in the death of Gail Nemmers, 3, who died of suffocation while in the 180-pound woman's care Thursday night.

County attorney Robert Oeth said no charges would be filed in the deaths last month of Gail's sister, Karen Sue, 22 months old, and Michael Fitzpatrick, 4, because the county medical examiner had ruled they died of natural causes. She is being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Police quoted her as saying she held her hand over Gail Nemmers' mouth "quite a bit" because she was crying. After the child died, police found that Madigan also had been babysitting when Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nemmers' other girl died and when the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fitzpatrick died.

The Nemmers have a son, Richie, 5. The Fitzpatricks have no other children.

Police said Madigan told them she held Karen Nemmers and the Fitzpatrick boy with their mouths close to her neck until "they seemed to gasp for air and their bodies went limp."

"She took excellent care of the children and did extra things around the house," Mrs. Fitzpatrick said. "There was no reason to suspect Michael's death resulted from anything Miss Madigan may have done."

However, authorities said some families had refused to rehire Madigan "because she was too loving" with their children.

75-Year-Old Lady Rescued From Bathtub

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)— Police and firemen Saturday who was unable to get out of the bath tub in her apartment since Thursday night.

Officers said Sarah Katz apparently was too embarrassed to permit would-be rescuers to enter her apartment.

She was reported in fair condition at County General Hospital where she was taken after neighbors finally called police and firemen Saturday. They broke a chain lock on the door to her apartment.

She could not explain immediately why she was unable to get out of the tub but officers said she had hoped she would regain her strength so she could get out herself. She had no food or water during the 38-hour ordeal.

Two Convicts Are Captured

RIPLEY, Tenn. (UPI)— Two men identified as escapees from the Mississippi County jail at Osceola, Ark., were picked up Saturday morning after a narrow escape from drowning in the Mississippi River.

Officers said the two men, identified as Joe Anderson, 33, of Little Rock, and Iden Jones, 28, of Indiana, were among six escapers from the jail Friday night.

Officials at the Fort Pillow State Prison Farm, where Anderson and Jones were first carried, said the fugitives claimed they hacked their way out of the jail and tried to cross the Mississippi into Tennessee in a small boat. The boat sank and they grabbed a floating log and began to maneuver across the river. The log then sank and they were forced to swim the rest of the way.

Adoula Says Katanga Head Is Welcome

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe has offered to come here to meet new Central Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula if the United Nations guarantees his safety, it was announced Saturday.

A spokesman for Adoula said Tshombe's message was relayed by U. N. Chief Representative Sture Linner.

Adoula told Linner that Tshombe "is welcome to come to Leopoldville any time he wants," the spokesman said. But he stressed Adoula was not prepared to discuss the circumstances of a Tshombe visit.

Informed sources said Tshombe apparently was anxious for high-level talks before committing himself on Katanga's participation in the Congolese parliament.

Tshombe, they said, may be worried about Adoula's expressed desire to assert his government's authority throughout the troubled nation and to restore order everywhere.

Informed sources said Tshombes appeal for a meeting was aimed at preventing military action against Katanga by the new central government.

At the same time Saturday, a U. S. Embassy spokesman denied reports that Tshombe's approach to Adoula was the result of a U. S. diplomatic offensive designed to bring Katanga into the Congo fold.

The spokesman said the reports probably arose from the presence in Elisabethville of Robert Eisenberg, deputy director of the State Department's office of Congolese affairs.

Eisenberg, who has toured the Congo for the past 10 days, was only trying to "familiarize himself with the Congo," the embassy spokesman said.

CHURCH WINDFALL

PORTRAIT TROUBLE

The Soviet Embassy hoisted the 55-foot portrait at the scene of a Soviet trade fair to open Aug. 15. A special committee of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's party says it must go.

The committee claimed it become a target for disturbances. The Foreign Ministry — already turned down by the Soviets on a request to have the portrait removed—said it would study the matter.

Assure Win With Early 6-Run Attack

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates scored six runs in the first two innings with Bob Skinner driving in three and romped to a 11-7 victory Saturday over the National League leading Cincinnati Reds.

The Pirates shelled starter Kn Hunt (9-9) out of the box with four runs in the opening inning and then continued to hammer at relievers Jay Hook and Sherm Jones. It was the rookie Hunt's fifth straight defeat.

v gnter spotting the Pirates those six runs, the Rds pulled into contention at 6-4 after three innings. But the Pirates locked it up with a three-run outburst int he fifth.

Those came on a single by Roberto Clemente, a walk, two outfield flies and then a two-run homer by Pirate reliever Al McBean. McBean had taken ovr for starter Tom Sturdivant after three injor league hit.

Clemente, the league's leading hitter, and Skinner each got three hits for the Bucs. Gordon Coleman had three doubles for the Reds.

Gives Support To Four-Hit Job By Coats

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle's eighth inning triple backed up Jim Coates' four - hit pitching Saturday for a 2-1 New York Yankee victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Minnesota scored in the first inning when Zorro Versalles walked moved to third on Harmon Killebrew's single and scored on Bob Allison's single past third base.

The Yanks tied it in the second. With one out, Elston Howard beat out a slow bounder behind second when Bill Tuttle threw out Bob base for a single and took second Cerv. Bill Skowron's looping double to short left, which fell between Jim Lemon and Versalles, drove in Howard.

New York had men on first and second with one out in the fourth before Cerv rapped into a doubleplay. With Yanks on second and third and one out in the fifth, Tuttle made a diving catch of Bobby Richardson's line drive and doubled Skowron off third. Again in the sixth a single by Mantle and Howard's third straight single put men on first and third with two out but Cerv flied out.

The Twins didn't have a hit after their two singles in the first until Versalles bounced a hit through the middle and legged it into a double with one out in the eighth. Although Versalles took third on Lenny Green's fly ball, Killebrew popped up for the third out.

With two out in the ninth, pinch hitter Joe Altobell tripled and Ted Lepcio walked before Tuttle popped out.

STARTER RELIEVES

Tigers Slip By Cleveland; Stay 1.5 Games Behind NY

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Manager Bob Scheffing, soured on his bull pen corps, used starting ace Jim Bunning in a relief role Saturday for the first time this season and Bunning preserved a 7-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

After the Tigers blew a 7-1 lead and let the Indians come within one run of tying the score, Scheffing brought in Bunning to pitch the last two innings. The lanky right-hander, who has a 12-8 record in 25 starts, came through with two hitless innings that helped the Tigers stay within 1½ games of the league-leading New York Yankees.

Phil Regan, the Tigers' starter, was belted out in the seventh inning when the Indians scored four times. Gerry Staley, the 40-year-old reliever just acquired from Kansas City, made his Detroit debut and allowed two runs to cross in the seventh on a double and an infield out.

Before Scheffing brought in Bunning, he could see by the scoreboard that the Yankees were beating Minnesota 2-1.

The Indians cracked three home runs. Johnny Temple hit one in the third, Bubba Phillips connected in the sixth and Woodie Held hit his in the seventh. Each came with the bases empty. It was No. 2 for Temple, the 17th for Phillips and the 14th for Held.

Jake Wood hit his ninth for Detroit.

The Tigers collected five hits as Cleveland Manager Jimmie Dykes paraded five pitchers into the fracas. Starter Gary Bell absorbed the defeat, his 11th against seven victories.

He gave up the tying run in the third when Billy Bruton was safe on an error, stole second and scored on Rocky Colavito's single. A walk, Wood's home run and hits by Al Kaline and Colavito gave Detroit three more runs and drove Bell to the showers in the fifth.

Phillips clouted his home run in the sixth, but the Tigers swarmed back against Bob Allen for three runs in their half of the inning. Three singles, a walk to Wood and Kaline's double produced the runs.

Regan faltered in the seventh. After Held led off with his home run, Regan walked Temple, gave up singles to Don Dillard and Tito Francona.

Staley took over, yielded a run-producing double to Willie Kirkland and another run on an infield out before he got John Romano for the final out of the inning.

No Sour Grapes States Manager

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — "We're not complaining about the decision," said Co-Manager Angelo Dundee. "After all we're in Ogden, Utah."

This was the stated attitude Saturday night in the Florentino Fernandez dressing room after the husky Cuban narrowly lost his bid to win the National Boxing Association middleweight title from Gene Fullmer.

"No sour grapes, no complaints," Dundee repeated. But there was gloom, disappointment and head shaking all around among the Spanish-speaking handlers.

Eastern Open Tournament Tied With Three Leaders

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ken Venturi, Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer Jr. wound up all even Saturday after a see-saw battle in the third round of the $35,000 Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

The trio's score of 206 was 10 strokes under par going into Sunday's final 18 holes for a first prize of $5,300 at the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge course.

Venturi, the second-round leader, snagged birdies on two of the last three holes to tie for the top spot. Brewer tapped in two birdies on the 17th and 18th to also catch Sanders, who had enjoyed a two-stroke edge on his competitors with only three holes to play.

Gene Littler, the defending champion who also started the third round one stroke back of Venturi, could carve out not better than a 70 despite an eagle 3 on the 507-yard 12th hole. He dropped two strokes off the leaders in a tie with Bob McAllister and Joe Campbell.

Sanders played evenly with 14 pars and four birdies. Back-to-back birdies at the 11th and 12th provided him with a two-stroke advantage that lasted until Brewer and Venturi put on their late spurt.

The hottest among the 81 pros, who will be reduced to 60 for the finals, was Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn. He equaled the course record of 65 after he was even par in the first 36 holes, but it netted him no better than a tie for seventh place.

CUBAN ROUGH

Fullmer Survives In Title Defense

By BOB MYERS

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Champion Gene Fullmer survived a furious surprise counter-attack in the last two rounds and defeated Cuba's Florentino Fernandez in a 15-round split decision for the National Boxing Association middle-weight boxing crown Saturday night.

The decision was decided by Referee Ken Shulsen when he scored Fullmer 145 and Fernandez 142. Judge Norman Jorgenson had it 148 for Fullmer to 140 for the Cuban while Judge Del Markham called it 145 for Fernandez and 143 for Fullmer.

Fullmer forged into a good lead in the third and fourth rounds, his two biggest of the evening. His incessant, brutal body blows hurt Fernandez and had him hanging on and at one stage in bad shape as Fullmer shifted the attack to the head.

Fullmer's awkward style, often leading with his right, apparently puzzled the more stylish Cuban. But Florentino's vaunted left hook, which had accounted for most of the damage in the 24 knockouts he has scored in 30 winning fights, was never able to seriously damage Fullmer—until the final two rounds.

Time and again, Gene took the Cubn's best and dug right back with his well-known short, clubbing blows to the mid-section, and short overhand rights.

Fernandez was virtually unmarked although the left side of his cheek might have been a little swollen. In the third round, Fullmer went in with both hands swinging and Fernandez slipped to one knee. It was not called a knockdown.

This was Fullmer's 60th fight and his 54th victory.

It was Fullmer's sixth successful defense of the NBA portion of the world title which he won from Carmen Basilio in 1959.

As usual, the bruising, brawling Fullmer took charge at the opening bell and as usual Fullmer quit the ring looking like the beaten man. His left eyebrow had been bashed open and he bled from the nose, the mouth and from two small cuts on the side of the mouth.

The popular Utah titleholder seemed well on to a hard-fought but comfortable victory when suddenly Fernandez came out at the opening of the 14th round and let loose with lefts and rights from his abruptly adopted southpaw attack.

Fullmer obviously was confused and retreated around the ring seemingly hurt in the middle part of the round as Fernandez again and again landed long, looping lefts and rights to the head.

At one point, Gene was half hit and half flipped, and his head and shoulders went through the middle ropes. Fullmer stemmed the Fernandez burst with an overhand right flush on the mouth, but at the end of the round Fernandez was again stalking Fullmer about the ring.

Later, Fullmer said he hurt his right hand in the 14th round.

It appeared however that both the champion and his corner, as well as the partisan Fullmer backers in the crowd, were glad when the round ended and the fight was over.

Texans Shellack New York Titans 39-28 In Opener

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Cotton Davidson and the Dallas Texans smashed the high-scoring New York Titans 39-28 Saturday night in the first American Football League exhibition game this season.

Davidson, the veteran Baylor product, heaved three touchdown passes of 4, 10 and 23 yards in the second quarter alone to put the Texans ahead for good. His catchers were Chris Burford for the short ones and Curley Johnson for the 23-yard effort.

In that explosive second quarter, Al Dorow, the prime offensive threat of the New York team, kept the Titans in the game with touchdown tosses of 13 and 18 yards to Art Powell and Mike Hagler.

But his supoort didn't have the skill or steadiness to let the ex-Michigan State star keep pace with Davidson.

Other Titan scoring came on a 48-yard pass play from Dorow to Powell in the third quarter and a 71-yard pass play from Dick Jamieson to Leon Burton with one second remaining in the game.

Dallas tallied first with a 16-yard field goal by Jack Spikes and wound up its scoring with a nine-yard touchdown run by Bo Dickinson and Johnny Robinson's two-yarder.

Wright Almost Cinches Crown

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP)—Mickey Wright all but wrapped up the women's Waterloo Open Golf Championship as she took an eight-stroke lead Saturday.

The 26-year-old Dallas, Tex., professional turned in her third straight sub-par round with a 2 under-par 70 to finish 54 holes with 209.

Miss Wright pulled well ahead of Kathy Whitworth of Jal, M., who blew up with a 77 and was forced to share second place with Marilynn Smith of French Lick, Ind., who has a 72-218.

Miss Wright, leading money-winner in the women's pro circuit this season, can add $1,313 top money from the $7,500 Waterloo Open purse, which will be shared by 18 players Sunday.

IN 7-0 WIN

Simmons, White Star For Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Curt Simmons pitched an eight-hit shutout - all singles - and Bill White smashed two homers in leading a 13-hit St. Louis Cardinal attack for a 7-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

Simmons, who never has lost to his former teammates, also joined White as a run-producer. White drove in three runs with his 12th and 13th home runs and Simmons, who had two hits in three trips, batted in two with a double.

The veteran southpaw, now 6-7, picked up his fourth straight triumph. His career record against the Phils, who dropped their seventh in a row, is 6-0.

Simmons' shutout was threatened in the eighth inning when Ken Boyer erred on a ground ball with two out to load the bases. But the lefty bore down, striking out dangerous Tony Gonzalez to close out the inning.

The Cards crowded all their scoring in two innings, the first and fifth. White's solo homer gave them the first inning run.

Here's how the six-run fifth went: Bob Lillis sinugled and scored ahead of White on his second homer. Boyer tripled to deep center and Ken Lehman relieved Paul Brown, who took his first defeat in his first start. Charley James' sacrifice fly scored Boyer. Joe Cunningham fanned but Carl Sawatski and Curt Flood singled. They scored on Simmons' double and the pitcher came home on Julian Javier's third single.

Cowboys Wreck Viking Debut With 38-19 Win

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (AP)—The Dallsa Cowboys capitalized on three Minnesota fumbles Saturday night and went on to spoil the National Football League debut of the league's newest team with a 38-13 exhibition victory.

Veteran fullback Mel Triplett lost the ball on the first Viking play from scimmage and the Cowboys had their first touchdown two plays later. Fullback L. G. Dupre got the score on his second smash up the middle.

After Dallas, which was unable to win a game in its maiden season last year, went 81 yards for its second tally on the first play of the second stanza, the Vikings finally hit the scoring column.

Quarterback George Shaw fired a 14-yard bullseye to halfback Hugh McElhenny for the touchdown. Big gainer in the drive was a 36-yard Shaw to halfback Paul Winslow aerial.

Jefferson Wins State Crown On 6-0 Whitewash

Jefferson Parish, winning its fourth straight game, captured the Louisiana Little Boys State Championship by defeating Alexandria 6-0 in the finals. Jefferson Parish scored all six of its runs in the fifth inning.

The winning pitcher was Danny Drumm who pitched a strong one-hitter. Drumm had a no-hitter going until there two out in the sixth inning when Spinks got Alexandria's only hit. In the four games Jefferson Parish played they were unscored on and there were only two hits gotten off of them. Thomas and Drumm, the Jefferson Parish pitchers both had no-hitters and one-hitters to their credit.

Jefferson Parish will compete in the Dixie World Series in the Dixie World Series in Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, on August, 14.

Monroe Meets New Orleans Monday Night

The Monroe Legion nine, champions of North Louisianans, will meet the Lakeside Ramblers of New Orleans there Monday night in the first of a three-game series to decide the state champion.

Game time is expected to be at 7:45 p.m.

The second game will be here Wednesday night at 7:45 p.m., according to Brown-Rivers-Scogin manager A. R. Red Sims, with the third, if necessary to be played in Baton Rouge.

New Orleans, which is made up of De La Salle high school players, defeated Houma Friday night to cop the Southern championship.

Middle Weight Champion To Fight Pender

BOSTON (AP) — England's Terry Downes will defend his newly won version of the middleweight boxing championship against Paul Pender Sept. 23, promoter Sam Silverman announced Sunday night.

The third title encounter between the Cockney belter and the former Brookline, Mass., fireman is set for Boston Garden on a Saturday night as part of the weekly nationally televised boxing series.

Silverman said the rematch, fulfillment of a 90-day return clause, will be scaled at $15 tops.

The promoter said he will fly to London shortly to complete arrangements for Downes' arrival in the United states.

That controversial bout evened the count at one victory apiece. Pender successfully defended against Downes on Jan. 14 in a seventh round technical knockout. Downes' oft-stitched nose was cut open on that occasion.

Downes is expected to train in Boston starting about Sept. 1. Pender plans to go into training immediately.

Details of the contracts were not announced, but Silverman said all parties called the terms "extremely satisfactory."

"Personally, I'd fight Downes for nothing," Pender said. "This guy is a black mark on my record. I want to wipe it clean."

Reasons for Pender's "retirement" in London after he had won the ninth round have ranged from worry over the birth of a child back home, a strength-sapping virus infection and orders from trainer Al Lacey who didn't want Pender hurt.

At any rate, Pender received no loud acclaim upon his return home. He went on vacation with his family and said he would dedicate himself to winning back the crown.

Downes claims he outpunched a healthy Pender to gain the championship and will do so in all future meetings.

ARRESTED BY FBI

Cultist Is Free After Jail Stay

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Cultist John R. Harrell, who claims he receives instructions from the Lord, and his young son went free on $9,500 bond Saturday after spending a night in the city jail.

They left for their Louisville, Ill., estate where some of the womenfolk among Harrell's 100-member religious colony are fasting "until our leader returns."

Still occupying cells in the jail are 15 of Harrell's followers and Pvt. Dion Gaylord Davis, 18, the Marine Corps deserter. All are charged with harboring on Harrell's wooded retreat.

They were arrested during an FBI-led, 100-men raid on the colony early Friday after FBI agents tried without success for two days to coax Davis to leave. Some of Harrell's band were armed, but no shots were fired.

U. S. Commissioner Elvira Fellner granted bond during a brief hearing in her office at East St. Louis, Ill. There to greet Harrell, 38, and his son, Tod, 13, were his mother, Natalia Harrell, 62, and his auburn-haired wife, Betty, 39.

Harrell's mother made the bond with a money order.

The silvery - haired Harrell, founder of a sect he calls the Christian Conservative Church, said he would not be able to arrange bond totaling $43,000 for his followers until Monday.

Asked if he considered himself and his followers as having been in a state of armed insurrection against the government, the former Air Force officer replied: "Not even remotely."

The FBI contends Harrell told one agent before the commando-style raid he realized he was defying the government by granting asylum to young Davis and, in effect, was in a state of ramed insurrection.

Harrell then was asked by a newsman if, in fact, he had refused to turn over Davis. Before he could reply, his attorney, Carl Rice, raised his hand and said: "I don't think I would answer that one at this stage."

Harrell, 38, said he took in Davis because the lad told him of what he called debauchery, immorality and atheism at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The maximum penalty for harboring a deserter is three years imprisonment, a $2,000 fine or both.

The cult leader said he and his son, a 200-pounder whose long curly hair hangs to his shoulders, were nicely treated in jail. Harrell's hair folds over his collar.

He said he didn't know whether he would order his followers to end their fast.

"There will be instructions," he said. "They'll know themselves. They're close enough to the Lord to know."

His mother said she's taken only a few glasses of milk the last three days. Harrel's wife of 16 years explained she is expecting their fifth child and did not take part in the fast.

A maid at the Harrell home in Louisville, 90 miles east of here, said some of his woman followers "may continue to fast until all our men are returned if the Lord orders it."

Still jailed are two youths under 19 and 13 men ranging in age from 23 to 58. All work for Harrell, who operates a construction firm and a sporting goods store, in addition to the colony and an anti-Communist school.

Harrell's mother tried to get the group freed Friday. When she couldn't produce deeds, title papers and tax receipts for property her son says is worth $225,000, Commissioner Fellner sent them all to jail.

The young Marine, who sports extra long sideburns and a pencil mustache, was declared a deserter from Camp Lejeune May 29. He is to be returned there to face military proceedings.

Some of Harrell's followers were armed and a large cache of rifles, side arms and ammunition was seized.

Harrell, master of the estate, the centerpiece of which is a replica of George Washington's storied Mount Vernon home, attended Springfeild, Ill., junior college and the University of Arkansas for 3½ years. During World War II he served as a stateside pilot instructor.

He claims the Lord cured him of cancer one night in a motel near the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

"The Lord came in my room that night for six hours," he said. "He treated me rather roughly. He ranged fire over my body. Then he explained why he had healed me."

Crowds Battle Off 'Invasion' Of 50 Whales

CORNWALL, England (UPI) — Crowds of holidaymakers and residents fought off an invasion by a school of nearly 50 whales Saturday at Gillan Coye, a tiny beach resort on Britain's southwest coast.

The whales—between 15 and 30 feet in length — moved into the cove with the morning tide. Villagers went out in boats in an effort to beat them back—fearing that the whales would be caught and die on the beach when the tide went out.

About 20 whales were caught on the rocks but groups of men and boys rolled them back into the surf with wooden paddles.

Magic?

LET'S SEE!

Would it make sense to you to sell a bushel of peaches which cost you 2.00, for 2.25 and then offer as a bonus to the buyer a 50c peach slicer? Without some sort of voodoo at your command, you've lost a quarter for being in business . . . AND I DON'T THINK YOU'LL STAY LONG.

Whether it be peaches, or houses, the formula is the same . . . selling price . . . less cost . . . equals profit.

If I offer you a fantastic "free deal" in addition to my product as advertised at the advertised price . . . you can be sure of this. My price is padded . . . I'm covering up the free offer in additional time charges . . .OR . . . I'm operating at a loss, which as we all know is out of the question.

AT BAYOU DESIARD CLUB

13th Cotton States Meet Is Sept. 1-4

The 13th annual Cotton States Invitational will be held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club here September 1-4, it was announced yesterday by tourney chairman Lester High.

Regarded along with the Southern Amateur and the Colonial at Memphis as one of the top three golf tournaments in the South, the Cotton States attracts some of the finest golfing talent from all over the United States.

Former champions include Don January, runner-up in last week's PGA, and Jackie Cupit, winner of the Canadian Open and a sure-fire bet for "rookie of the year" honors on the pro circuit.

In last year's record field were such outstanding links performers as Don Cherry, a member of the U. S. Walker Cup team; Bert Burdick, the present Louisiana State Amateur Champion; Homero Blancos, a member of the All-American golf team and number one man on the University of Houston NCAA champions in 1960; and two-time Cotton States winner Gene Dahlbender.

Cupit, Dahlbender, Blancos and Cherry were the four semi-finalists last year. Cupit defeated Blancos, and Dahlbender dropped Cherry to move into the finals where Cupit scored an extra-hole victory for the tournament championship.

The Cotton States is an invitation only affair, but not just for par and better shooters. Entrants will be paired according to qualifying scores in 16 man flights, and will play 18 hole matches.

Thirty-two will qualify for the championship, the losers in the first round forming the first flight. Play in all flights will be match play.

Entry fee is $15 and includes a dance, buffet supper and use of club facilities during the tournament.

The field will be limited to the first 160 persons accepted by the tournament committee.

The tournament schedule:

Friday, August 25, through Thursday, August 31 — qualifying for all flights except championship.

Friday, Sept. 1—championship qualifying, starting times 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Buffet supper and announcement of pairings, 6 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 2—Match play, all flights 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Dance —9 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 3—match play, all flights — championship and first flights play two matches with all others playing one match.

Monday, Sept. 4 — Semi-finals and finals 0 Awarding of prizes, 6 p.m.

Retains Title

ST. VINCENT, Italy (AP)—Duilio Loi of Italy retained his European welterweight crown Saturday night outpointing Christian Christiensen of Denmark in a 15-round title bout.

The Italian weighed 144¾ pounds, his opponent 144¼.

CROZIER SIXTH

Stretch Run Wins For Beau Prince

CHICAGO (AP) —Beau Prince, Calumet Farm's hard - trying bay colt, made a torrid stretch run and captured the $118,900 American Derby at Arlington Park Saturday.

Beau Prince, ridden by Steve Brooks, charged to a 2½-length victory over the early pacesetter, Editorialist, to bring Calumet the winner's purse of $71,400. Third in the 1⅛-mile test for 3-year-olds over a muddy track was Flutterby, a length behind Editorialist.

Just as he did in the Arlington Classic on July 8, Editorialist, ridden by Johnny Heckmann, threatened to run away with the American Derby. He jumped ahead at the start and led all the way into the head of the home stretch.

There, Beau Prince responded sharply to the urging of Brooks and charged into the lead.

Beau Prince went off a 3-1 pick and returned $8.40, $5 and $4.60 to his backers in a crowd of 27,451. Editorialist paid $10.20 and $7.20 while Flutterby, ridden by Johnny Longdon, returned $6.60.

Beau Prince, carrying 112 pounds, was the second American Derby winner ridden by Brooks. He piloted Ponder home to the 1949 American Derby triumph.

Bass Clef finished fourth, a length and a half ahead of Crozier, who went off a 7-5 favorite. Aeroflint was sixth and Endsville seventh and last after making a strong and early bid.

This was the fourth victory this year for Beau Prince, who previously won the Fountain of Youth Purse at Gulfstream where he defeated Crozier and Carry Back, the Kentucky Derby winner.

Editorialist was six lengths ahead half way in the race, chased by Aeroflint and Endsville. He still had a five-length lead entering the final turn bat Beau Prince, lagging at one time by five lengths, moved swiftly into contention.

As they straightened out in the home stretch, Beau Prince was full of run while Editorialist lacked the power to keep his pace.

Brooks said, "Beau Prince really wanted to run but he had a tendency to loaf a little coming into the stretch. I just shook my stick at him.'

Heckmann said his horse, Editorialist, was "looking for a gas station around the sixteenth pole. He really needed the fuel. That Calumet horse was just too much for him.'

Beau Prince's $71,400 earnings almost matched his entire previous money-winnings of $74,398. The time was 1:51 3-5.

Top Prospect For 62 Derby Wins By Two

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Sir Gaylord, the East's top 2-year-old and leading prospect in this section for the 1962 Kentucky Derby, drew off easily in the final eighth of a mile at Monmouth Park Saturday and won the $123,410 Sapling Stakes by 2¾ lengths.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela had the Meadow Stable colt well in hand as the favorite crossed the wire ahead of the Cain Hoy Stables Battle Joined, second choice in the wagering.

It was five more lengths back to Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Green Ticket, who got third pace by 3½ lengths over Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County in the field of 11.

This was the fifth consecutive victory for Sir Gaylord, a dark brown son of Turn-To—Something Royal, by Prince Quillo. The rangy colt skipped the 6 furlongs in 1:10 3-5 on a track still drying out from recent rain.

The time was just a fifth slower than the Sapling record on a fast track set last year by Hail To Reason, himself a son of Turn-To. And, oddly enough Turn-To was a 2-year-old champion owned by Christopher T. Chenery, who is Battle Joineds owner.

The winner returned $3.60, $2.40 and $2.20. Battle Joined, ridden by Manuel Ycaza and sent off at 2-1, paid $3 and $2.80. Green Ticket, with Eric Guerin up, was $3 to show.

Green Ticket, on the rail, barged into the lead soon after the start. Sir Gaylord broke out second, but Valenzuela quickly hauled him off the pace, while I'm For More spurted into third place.

Going to the far turn with less than a half mile to go, Green Ticket had opened up three lengths over Im For More. But only heads separated the runner-up, Osage Road and Sir Gaylord in that order. Battle Joined was fifth.

Around the turn, Green Ticket began to tire, along with I'm For More, and Sir Gaylord was flying outside. Sir Gaylord nailed Green Ticket with a bit more than an eighth to travel, and Valenzuela was just sitting still with whip erect.

"He broke (started) better than he ever did," said Valenzuela of the winner, who previously took the Tyro Stakes here, the National Stallion at Belmont and the Great American at Aqueduct. "I took him back the first part of it and then when I wanted him to run, he really had it."

Bears Take Win From Montreal By 34-16 Score

MONTREAL (AP)—The Chicago Bears of the National Football League, stymied in the first half by the mixture of Canadian and U.S. rules under which the game was played, began to click in the second half and went on to defeat the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Big Four 34-16 in an exhibition Saturday night.

The Bears led at the half 13-9. The game was enlivened by a near free-for-all in the second quarter which resulted in three players from each team being ejected.

The Bears offense accounted for 516 yards, including 401 by passing and 115 rushing. Montreal was held to a total of 206 yards.

Quarterbacks Ed Brown and Billy Wade tossed two touchdown passes each for the Chicago team, hitting ends John Farrington, Harlon Hill and Angelo Coia and fullback Rick Casares. Casares plunged three yards for the other score.

Features of Canadian football, including 12-man teams, the larger field and more free restrictions on backfields in motion were in effect throughout the game. Aside from these provisions, Canadian regulations were used in the first half and U.S. rules in the second.

HIT TWO TRIPLES

Aaron Leads Braves Past SF For 2nd Straight Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Slugging Hank Aaron tore San Francisco pitching apart again Saturday, slamming two triples in a 9-3 Milwaukee victory that boosted the Braves into a tie with the Giants for third place in the National League.

Aaron, who beat the Giants 2-1 with a pair of home runs Friday night, knocked in Milwaukee's first run in this one and scored three others.

Both his triples came off Giant starter and loser Sam Jones (7-7) and made a winner of Bob Buhl (9-8).

Buhl overcame early difficulties and pitched all the way, allowing eight hits. Jones was tagged for 7 hits, 4 walks and 4 runs in four innings.

The Braves collected 14 hits in beating the Giants for the fifth straight time and seventh in 13 meetings. They left 14 on base.

Mack Jones' leadoff single, Aaron's first triple and a wild pitch gave the Braves two runs in the first inning. They made it 4-0 in the third on Aaron's second three-bagger and singles by Joe Adcock, Joe Torre and Roy McMillan.

The 19,878 fans saw the Giants score their first run in the fourth on singles by Ed Bailey and Jim Davenport wrapped around a walk and a wild pitch. Davenport doubled, scoring the Giants' last two runs in the ninth. Aaron threw out Ed Bressoud when he tried to score from second on Davenports single.

Frank Thomas' 18th home run made it 5-1 in the fifth and the Braves tallied in the sixth on walks to Jones and Aaron and Adcocks two-out single. Milwaukee got its last three runs in the eighth when they batted around, collecting three singles and three walks.

EDGES THOMAS

Kilmer Gets MVP In All-Star Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Quarterback Bill Kilmer of UCLA edged out Oregon State end Aaron Thomas for "most valuable player" honors in Friday night's football game between the College All-Stars and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Results of the balloting by sports writers following Philadelphia's 28-14 victory before a crowd of 65,000 in Soldier Field were announced Saturday.

No vote tally was reported, but the pollsters said Kilmer edged Thomas by a "very few votes."

All this should make the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League happy since both Kilmer and Thomas are headed for the 49ers.

Quarterback Norm Snead of Wake Forest and halfback Ernie Casey of Bowling Green also drew strong support in the voting.

Others receiving votes were center Emil Holub of Texas Tech; center Fred Hageman, Kansas; end Marvin La Rose, Missouri; fullback Bill Brown, Illinois; end Marlin McKeever, Southern Cal; end John Brewer, Mississippi; tackle Billy Shaw, Georgia Tech; tackle Joe Rutgens, Illinois, and end El Kimbrough, Northwestern.

Kilmer engineered the All-Stars first touchdown late in the fourth quarter and capped the drive with an 18-yard scoring pass to Glynn Gregory of Southern Methodist.

In all, Kilmer completed 11 of 20 pass attempts for a total of 173 yards and while Eagle starter Sonny Jurgensen had 10 completions in 19 attempts for 161 yards.

Thomas was the game's top pass receiver in yardage although Philadelphia's Tommy McDonald grabbed three touchdown tosses. Thomas caught five passes for 123 yards while McDonald caught five for 82 yards.

All-Star officials also announced that Ohio State halfback Tom Matte had X-rays taken of a wrist injury and the examination revealed no broken bones.

Red Soxs Win Over KC 10-4; Wertz Stars

BOSTON (AP)—Boston slugger Vic Wertz drove across four runs with a triple, double and single Saturday as the Red Sox defeated Kansas City 10-4.

Don Buddin, hitting his fourth homer with a mate aboard, and rookie Carl Yastrzemski contributed a pair RBI apiece. The victory was the seventh in the last nine games for the revived Sox.

Towering Boston right - hander Gene Conley was credited with his fifth triumph against 10 losses though he couldn't handle Athletics' rookie Dick Howser. Howser lined his second homer into the left field screen in the seventh inning. His sacrifice fly brought in the A's second run in the fifth after he had singled his first two trips.

Handcuffed by rookie Dick Bass' four-hit shutout Friday night, Boston teed off on loser Jerry Walker and Maury McDermott until Bill Kunkel tightened the reins in the fourth.

Wertz crashed a two-run triple off the wall in left center highlighting a four-run third inning. Vic singled for one run in fourth and doubled for another in the sixth.

Angels Beat Baltimore On Miscues, 4-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels turned two Baltimore mistakes into a two-run winning rally Saturday night as they scored a 4-2 victory over the Orioles.

George Thomas and Ed Sadowski started the eighth inning rally with singles. A passed ball by catcher Gus Triandos on one of reliever Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckleballs brought in one run, and a throwing error by second baseman Jerry Adair allowed the other for a 3-1 Los Angeles lead.

Each team scored once in the ninth, but Angel reliever Tom Morgan put out the Oriole rally to end the game.

Ronnie Kline (3-6) came within two outs of pitching his first complete game for the Angels. He had allowed only five hits and one walk until the ninth when a double by Jackie Brandt and a single by Jim Gentile scored a run and brought in Morgan.

Gentile knocked in both Oriole runs, scoring the first on a 420-foot homer to center field in the second inning. Sadowski tied it with a sixth inning homer off starter Milt Pappas.

Gentile's homer was his 30th and his two runs batted in boosted his RBI mark to 99. His homer mark ties a club record set by Triandos in 1958 and his RBI production tops the club record he set last year.

Assure Win With Early 6-Run Attack

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates scored six runs in the first two innings with Bob Skinner driving in three and romped to a 11-7 victory Saturday over the National League leading Cincinnati Reds.

The Pirates shelled starter Kn Hunt (9-9) out of the box with four runs in the opening inning and then continued to hammer at relievers Jay Hook and Sherm Jones. It was the rookie Hunt's fifth straight defeat.

v gnter spotting the Pirates those six runs, the Rds pulled into contention at 6-4 after three innings. But the Pirates locked it up with a three-run outburst int he fifth.

Those came on a single by Roberto Clemente, a walk, two outfield flies and then a two-run homer by Pirate reliever Al McBean. McBean had taken ovr for starter Tom Sturdivant after three injor league hit.

Clemente, the league's leading hitter, and Skinner each got three hits for the Bucs. Gordon Coleman had three doubles for the Reds.

No Sour Grapes States Manager

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — "We're not complaining about the decision," said Co-Manager Angelo Dundee. "After all we're in Ogden, Utah."

This was the stated attitude Saturday night in the Florentino Fernandez dressing room after the husky Cuban narrowly lost his bid to win the National Boxing Association middleweight title from Gene Fullmer.

"No sour grapes, no complaints," Dundee repeated. But there was gloom, disappointment and head shaking all around among the Spanish-speaking handlers.

Gives Support To Four-Hit Job By Coats

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle's eighth inning triple backed up Jim Coates' four - hit pitching Saturday for a 2-1 New York Yankee victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Minnesota scored in the first inning when Zorro Versalles walked moved to third on Harmon Killebrew's single and scored on Bob Allison's single past third base.

The Yanks tied it in the second. With one out, Elston Howard beat out a slow bounder behind second when Bill Tuttle threw out Bob base for a single and took second. Cerv. Bill Skowron's looping double to short left, which fell between Jim Lemon and Versalles, drove in Howard.

New York had men on first and second with one out in the fourth before Cerv rapped into a doubleplay. With Yanks on second and third and one out in the fifth, Tuttle made a diving catch of Bobby Richardson's line drive and doubled Skowron off third. Again in the sixth a single by Mantle and Howard's third straight single put men on first and third with two out but Cerv flied out.

The Twins didn't have a hit after their two singles in the first until Versalles bounced a hit through the middle and legged it into a double with one out in the eighth. Although Versalles took third on Lenny Green's fly ball, Killebrew popped up for the third out.

With two out in the ninth, pinch hitter Joe Altobelli tripled and Ted Lepcio walked before Tuttle popped out.

Tigers Slip By Cleveland; Stay 1.5 Games Behind NY

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Manager Bob Scheffing, soured on his bull pen corps, used starting ace Jim Bunning in a relief role Saturday for the first time this season and Bunning preserved a 7-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

After the Tigers blew a 7-1 lead and let the Indians come within one run of tying the score, Scheffing brought in Bunning to pitch the last two innings. The lanky right-hander, who has a 12-8 record in 25 starts, came through with two hitless innings that helped the Tigers stay within 1½ games of the league-leading New York Yankees.

Phil Regan, the Tigers' starter, was belted out in the seventh inning when the Indians scored four times. Gerry Staley, the 40-year-old reliever just acquired from Kansas City, made his Detroit debut and allowed two runs to cross in the seventh on a double and an infield out.

Before Scheffing brought in Bunning, he could see by the scoreboard that the Yankees were beating Minnesota 2-1.

The Indians cracked three home runs. Johnny Temple hit one in the third, Bubba Phillips connected in the sixth and Woodie Held hit his in the seventh. Each came with the bases empty. It was No. 2 for Temple, the 17th for Phillips and the 14th for Held.

Jake Wood hit his ninth for Detroit.

The Tigers collected five hits as Cleveland Manager Jimmie Dykes paraded five pitchers into the fracas. Starter Gary Bell absorbed the defeat, his 11th against seven victories.

He gave up the tying run in the third when Billy Bruton was safe on an error, stole second and scored on Rocky Colavito's single. A walk, Wood's home run and hits by Al Kaline and Colavito gave Detroit three more runs and drove Bell to the showers in the fifth.

Phillips clouted his home run in the sixth, but the Tigers swarmed back against Bob Allen for three runs in their half of the inning. Three singles, a walk to Wood and Kaline's double produced the runs.

Regan faltered in the seventh. After Held led off with his home run, Regan walked Temple, gave up singles to Don Dillard and Tito Francona.

Staley took over, yielded a run-producing double to Willie Kirkland and another run on an infield out before he got John Romano for the final out of the inning.

IN 7-0 WIN

Simmons, White Star For Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Curt Simmons pitched an eight-hit shutout - all singles - and Bill White smashed two homers in leading a 13-hit St. Louis Cardinal attack for a 7-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

Simmons, who never has lost to his former teammates, also joined White as a run-producer. White drove in three runs with his 12th and 13th home runs and Simmons, who had two hits in three trips, batted in two with a double.

The veteran southpaw, now 6-7, picked up his fourth straight triumph. His career record against the Phils, who dropped their seventh in a row, is 6-0.

Simmons' shutout was threatened in the eighth inning when Ken Boyer erred on a ground ball with two out to load the bases. But the lefty bore down, striking out dangerous Tony Gonzalez to close out the inning.

The Cards crowded all their scoring in two innings, the first and fifth. White's solo homer gave them the first inning run.

Here's how the six-run fifth went: Bob Lillis singled and scored ahead of White on his second homer. Boyer tripled to deep center and Ken Lehman relieved Paul Brown, who took his first defeat in his first start. Charley James' sacrifice fly scored Boyer. Joe Cunningham fanned but Carl Sawatski and Curt Flood singled. They scored on Simmons' double and the pitcher came home on Julian Javier's third single.

Wright Almost Cinches Crown

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP)—Mickey Wright all but wrapped up the women's Waterloo Open Golf Championship as she took an eight-stroke lead Saturday.

The 26-year-old Dallas, Tex., professional turned in her third straight sub-par round with a 2 under-par 70 to finish 54 holes with 209.

Miss Wright pulled well ahead of Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., who blew up with a 77 and was forced to share second place with Marilynn Smith of French Lick, Ind., who has a 72-218.

Miss Wright, leading money-winner in the women's pro circuit this season, can add $1,313 top money from the $7,500 Waterloo Open purse, which will be shared by 18 players Sunday.

Cowboys Wreck Viking Debut With 38-19 Win

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys capitalized on three Minnesota fumbles Saturday night and went on to spoil the National Football League debut of the league's newest team with a 38-13 exhibition victory.

Veteran fullback Mel Triplett lost the ball on the first Viking play from scrimmage and the Cowboys had their first touchdown two plays later. Fullback L. G. Dupre got the score on his second smash up the middle.

After Dallas, which was unable to win a game in its maiden season last year, went 81 yards for its second tally on the first play of the second stanza, the Vikings finally hit the scoring column.

Quarterback George Shaw fired a 14-yard bullseye to halfback Hugh McElhenny for the touchdown. Big gainer in the drive was a 36-yard Shaw to halfback Paul Winslow aerial.

Jefferson Wins State Crown On 6-0 Whitewash

Jefferson Parish, winning its fourth straight game, captured the Louisiana Little Boys State Championship by defeating Alexandria 6-0 in the finals. Jefferson Parish scored all six of its runs in the fifth inning.

The winning pitcher was Danny Drumm who pitched a strong one-hitter. Drumm had a no-hitter going until there two out in the sixth inning when Spinks got Alexandria's only hit. In the four games Jefferson Parish played they were unscored on and there were only two hits gotten off of them. Thomas and Drumm, the Jefferson Parish pitchers both had no-hitters and one-hitters to their credit.

Jefferson Parish will compete in the Dixie World Series in the Dixie World Series in Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, on August, 14.

Eastern Open Tournament Tied With Three Leaders

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ken Venturi, Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer Jr. wound up all even Saturday after a see-saw battle in the third round of the $35,000 Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

The trio's score of 206 was 10 strokes under par going into Sunday's final 18 holes for a first prize of $5,300 at the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge course.

Venturi, the second-round leader, snagged birdies on two of the last three holes to tie for the top spot. Brewer tapped in two birdies on the 17th and 18th to also catch Sanders, who had enjoyed a two-stroke edge on his competitors with only three holes to play.

Gene Littler, the defending champion who also started the third round one stroke back of Venturi, could carve out not better than a 70 despite an eagle 3 on the 507-yard 12th hole. He dropped two strokes off the leaders in a tie with Bob McAllister and Joe Campbell.

Sanders played evenly with 14 pars and four birdies. Back-to-back birdies at the 11th and 12th provided him with a two-stroke advantage that lasted until Brewer and Venturi put on their late spurt.

The hottest among the 81 pros, who will be reduced to 60 for the finals, was Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn. He equaled the course record of 65 after he was even par in the first 36 holes, but it netted him no better than a tie for seventh place.

CUBAN ROUGH

Fullmer Survives In Title Defense

By BOB MYERS

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Champion Gene Fullmer survived a furious surprise counter-attack in the last two rounds and defeated Cuba's Florentino Fernandez in a 15-round split decision for the National Boxing Association middle-weight boxing crown Saturday night.

The decision was decided by Referee Ken Shulsen when he scored Fullmer 145 and Fernandez 142. Judge Norman Jorgenson had it 148 for Fullmer to 140 for the Cuban while Judge Del Markham called it 145 for Fernandez and 143 for Fullmer.

Fullmer forged into a good lead in the third and fourth rounds, his two biggest of the evening. His incessant, brutal body blows hurt Fernandez and had him hanging on and at one stage in bad shape as Fullmer shifted the attack to the head.

Fullmer's awkward style, often leading with his right, apparently puzzled the more stylish Cuban. But Florentino's vaunted left hook, which had accounted for most of the damage in the 24 knockouts he has scored in 30 winning fights, was never able to seriously damage Fullmer—until the final two rounds.

Time and again, Gene took the Cuban's best and dug right back with his well-known short, clubbing blows to the mid-section, and short overhand rights.

Fernandez was virtually unmarked although the left side of his cheek might have been a little swollen. In the third round, Fullmer went in with both hands swinging and Fernandez slipped to one knee. It was not called a knockdown.

This was Fullmer's 60th fight and his 54th victory.

It was Fullmer's sixth successful defense of the NBA portion of the world title which he won from Carmen Basilio in 1959.

As usual, the bruising, brawling Fullmer took charge at the opening bell and as usual Fullmer quit the ring looking like the beaten man. His left eyebrow had been bashed open and he bled from the nose, the mouth and from two small cuts on the side of the mouth.

The popular Utah titleholder seemed well on to a hard-fought but comfortable victory when suddenly Fernandez came out at the opening of the 14th round and let loose with lefts and rights from his abruptly adopted southpaw attack.

Fullmer obviously was confused and retreated around the ring seemingly hurt in the middle part of the round as Fernandez again and again landed long, looping lefts and rights to the head.

At one point, Gene was half hit and half flipped, and his head and shoulders went through the middle ropes. Fullmer stemmed the Fernandez burst with an overhand right flush on the mouth, but at the end of the round Fernandez was again stalking Fullmer about the ring.

Later, Fullmer said he hurt his right hand in the 14th round.

It appeared however that both the champion and his corner, as well as the partisan Fullmer backers in the crowd, were glad when the round ended and the fight was over.

Texans Shellack New York Titans 39-28 In Opener

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Cotton Davidson and the Dallas Texans smashed the high-scoring New York Titans 39-28 Saturday night in the first American Football League exhibition game this season.

Davidson, the veteran Baylor product, heaved three touchdown passes of 4, 10 and 23 yards in the second quarter alone to put the Texans ahead for good. His catchers were Chris Burford for the short ones and Curley Johnson for the 23-yard effort.

In that explosive second quarter, Al Dorow, the prime offensive threat of the New York team, kept the Titans in the game with touchdown tosses of 13 and 18 yards to Art Powell and Mike Hagler.

But his support didn't have the skill or steadiness to let the ex-Michigan State star keep pace with Davidson.

Other Titan scoring came on a 48-yard pass play from Dorow to Powell in the third quarter and a 71-yard pass play from Dick Jamieson to Leon Burton with one second remaining in the game.

Dallas tallied first with a 16-yard field goal by Jack Spikes and wound up its scoring with a nine-yard touchdown run by Bo Dickinson and Johnny Robinson's two-yarder.

Monroe Meets New Orleans Monday Night

The Monroe Legion nine, champions of North Louisianians, will meet the Lakeside Ramblers of New Orleans there Monday night in the first of a three-game series to decide the state champion.

Game time is expected to be at 7:45 p.m.

The second game will be here Wednesday night at 7:45 p.m., according to Brown-Rivers-Scogin manager A. R. Red Sims, with the third, if necessary to be played in Baton Rouge.

New Orleans, which is made up of De La Salle high school players, defeated Houma Friday night to cop the Southern championship.

Middle Weight Champion To Fight Pender

BOSTON (AP) — England's Terry Downes will defend his newly won version of the middleweight boxing championship against Paul Pender Sept. 23, promoter Sam Silverman announced Sunday night.

The third title encounter between the Cockney belter and the former Brookline, Mass., fireman is set for Boston Garden on a Saturday night as part of the weekly nationally televised boxing series.

Silverman said the rematch, fulfillment of a 90-day return clause, will be scaled at $15 tops.

The promoter said he will fly to London shortly to complete arrangements for Downes' arrival in the United states.

That controversial bout evened the count at one victory apiece. Pender successfully defended against Downes on Jan. 14 in a seventh round technical knockout. Downes' oft-stitched nose was cut open on that occasion.

Downes is expected to train in Boston starting about Sept. 1. Pender plans to go into training immediately.

Details of the contracts were not announced, but Silverman said all parties called the terms "extremely satisfactory."

"Personally, I'd fight Downes for nothing," Pender said. "This guy is a black mark on my record. I want to wipe it clean."

Reasons for Pender's "retirement" in London after he had won the ninth round have ranged from worry over the birth of a child back home, a strength-sapping virus infection and orders from trainer Al Lacey who didn't want Pender hurt.

At any rate, Pender received no loud acclaim upon his return home. He went on vacation with his family and said he would dedicate himself to winning back the crown.

Downes claims he outpunched a healthy Pender to gain the championship and will do so in all future meetings.

Major League Averages

Maris' three-run smash lifted his pace-setting runs batted in total to 101, four more than Baltimore's Jim Gentile.

Norm Cash of Detroit had one hit in three tries and remained in the top position in the batting competition with a .365 average. Elston Howard of the Yanks is next with .349.

In the National League, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati continues to set the pace in homers with 33 and RBI, 97. The slugging outfielder had two hits Friday night and lifted his average to .343. He is in the runner-up spot behind Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, who went hitless. Clemente's average dipped to .363.

FACE REBUILDING

Grads Headache To Southwestern

By STEVE HENRY
World Sports Writer

Russ Faulkinberry, the former Vanderbilt grid great who took over the Southwestern head coaching reins last January, moves into the first phase of his proposed three-year rebuilding program for the Bulldogs this September, facing a rugged 10-game schedule with a squad heavily handicapped by lack of depth and experience.

Twenty-four lettermen are gone from last year's Bulldog edition which managed a 6-4 overall record and a third place tie in the Gulf States Conference.

In all, 15 of the top 22 players from 1960 have graduated, leaving Faulkinberry a depressing hole to fill, both talent-wise and experience-wise.

13 RETURN

He'll be working with 13 returning lettermen, and of these only three held down starting positions on last year's team.

But Faulkinberry, by his own words, is "not conceding anything to anybody. We intend to be as ready as possible for every game."

And they'll have to be ready.

Southwestern opens its season against four of the country's top small college elevens — Southeastern, Arlington State, Mississippi Southern, and Louisiana Tech.

"We could easily finish 2-8, maybe 3-7," he says.

When Faulkinberry came to USL and saw his personnel problem, he established a three-year rebuilding program which is supposed to shape up the Bulldog football program by 1963.

But this is 1961, and whether he wants to or not, Faulkinberry is going to have to play out the season.

Whats he going to do?

To start with, he's introduced Southwestern to the new Double Wing-T, an offense designed primarily to allow a more wide-open attack.

He prefers complete unit substitution, but lack of experience and depth on his squad will force him to use single substitutions.

STANDOUTS

To make his new attack go, he'll depend heavily on two experienced veterans and one lineman whose best showing so far came in last year's inter-squad game.

At fullback, Faulkinberry will have 198-pound Carlton Falgout, a two-year letterman from Raceland. After two years as a halfback, Falgout made the switch to fullback without difficulty.

The strongest runner on the team, Falgout gained 127 yards in 22 carries during the intra-squad. He could be a Little All-American candidate this year, and will have to be for Southwestern's backfield to click.

In Bob Verlander, a second team All-GSC selection last fall, Faulkinberry has one of the best terminals in the conference.

Verlander, the team's top scorer in 1960, caught four touchdown passes. His two-point conversion gave USL a last-second 8-7 victory over Northeast State. Overall, he snagged 17 passes for 263 yards.

The biggest question mark, and one that will have to pan out in the line, is 185 sophomore guard, Winston Ledet.

The younger brother of four-year USL letterman Tony Ledet, Winston showed tremendous improvement in spring training and moved up to the starting lineup with his performance.

Line coach A. C. "Red" Phillips calls Ledet the best blocker on the team and a sharp tackler. He could be one of the best in the GSC, and like Falgout and Verlander, he will have to be at his best this year.

Other lettermen back are Fletcher Songe, a converted guard switched over to end; Hugh Verlander, a tackle; L. J. Poinboeuf and Irwin Sibille, both tackles; Center George Ballard; Quarterbacks Y. J. Mula and David Adkins; Halfbacks Lynn Hernandez, Dave Cavalier and Vernon Lott.

CHOICES

Faulkinberry, who admittedly sees no chance for his charges to be a Gulf States contender this year, expects Southeastern and Louisiana Tech to be right up there in the race for the conference title.

They shared the crown last year.

He calls McNeese State "a strong contender," and rates Northeast and Northwestern dark-horses.

As for Southwestern:

Well, maybe in '63.

Pro Grid Briefs

Morrall Signs

DETROIT (AP)—Earl Morrall, veteran quarterback who is the Detroit Lions' No. 1 signal-caller, signed his contract Saturday for the 1961 National Football League season.

Doesn't Miss

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)—Veteran quarterback Tom Flores completed 11 consecutive passes during an hour's scrimmage by the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League Saturday.

The scrimmage was the last for the Raiders, who open their exhibition series at Honolulu against Houston next Friday.

Choice Out

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—The new Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League learned Saturday that three of their probable starters—high draft choices—will miss action for up to nine weeks.

Team physician Don Lannin gave this report:

Rip Hawkins, linebacker from North Carolina who was No. 2 draft choice: A torn ligament in the right knee that will keep him out three weeks.

Tom Mason, Tulane halfback and No. 1 draft choice: A pinched neck nerve that will prevent his participating in any contact work until mid-month.

Watkins Sharp

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Halfback Tom Watkins, a rookie from Iowa State, kept up his sharp running game Saturday and topped it off by scampering 35 yards to a touchdown after catching a pass in the Cleveland Browns' final scrimmage at their National Football League training camp.

Milt Plum hit Watkins with a 20-yard pass and rookie Charlie Ferguson of Tennessee State threw a key block that sprang Watkins for the score.

Irishman Runs

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (AP)—Former Notre Dame halfback William (Red) Mack sparkled in a Pittsburgh Steeler scrimmage Saturday, catching two passes for 80-yard touchdowns.

The speedy rookie of the National Football League club got behind the defense, took a long heave from veteran quarterback Rudy Buckich and went untouched into the end zone.

On the second touchdown, he took the ball out of the hands of rookie halfback Overton Curtis on a leaping catch and slipped over the goal line.

Giants Robbed

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Someone stole several thousand dollars in cash and valuables belonging to players on the New York Giants National Football League team Saturday while the squad was at practice.

The loot was taken from a wooden trunk in the gymnasium of Fairfield University. The players had dropped their wallets, watches and rings in it before going out for their workout. The thief broke into it and helped himself.

The exact amount of the loss has not yet been determined.

Defensive star Jim Patton appeared to have suffered the biggest loss, including a diamond ring valued at $1,000.

Oilers Play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers play their first exhibition game before San Diego fans Sunday when they meet the American Football League champion Houston Oilers in Balboa Stadium.

The Chargers, who played out of Los Angeles last year, were beaten 24-16 by the Oilers for the championship in a New Year's game at Houston.

Cardinal Injured

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League learned Saturday that injured offensive tackle Ken Panfil may be back in action within two weeks.

Panfil suffered a dislocated kneecap—but no fracture—in the game against the Toronto Argonauts Wednesday, club officials were told after the big lineman was examined.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy announced waivers had been asked on Marshall Starks of Illinois, the club's eighth draft choice.

AT BAYOU DESIARD CLUB

13th Cotton States Meet Is Sept. 1-4

The 13th annual Cotton States Invitational will be held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club here September 1-4, it was announced yesterday by tourney chairman Lester High.

Regarded along with the Southern Amateur and the Colonial at Memphis as one of the top three golf tournaments in the South, the Cotton States attracts some of the finest golfing talent from all over the United States.

Former champions include Don January, runner-up in last week's PGA, and Jackie Cupit, winner of the Canadian Open and a sure-fire bet for "rookie of the year" honors on the pro circuit.

In last year's record field were such outstanding links performers as Don Cherry, a member of the U. S. Walker Cup team; Bert Burdick, the present Louisiana State Amateur Champion; Homero Blancos, a member of the All-American golf team and number one man on the University of Houston NCAA champions in 1960; and two-time Cotton States winner Gene Dahlbender.

Cupit, Dahlbender, Blancos and Cherry were the four semi-finalists last year. Cupit defeated Blancos, and Dahlbender dropped Cherry to move into the finals where Cupit scored an extra-hole victory for the tournament championship.

The Cotton States is an invitation only affair, but not just for par and better shooters. Entrants will be paired according to qualifying scores in 16 man flights, and will play 18 hole matches.

Thirty-two will qualify for the championship, the losers in the first round forming the first flight. Play in all flights will be match play.

Entry fee is $15 and includes a dance, buffet supper and use of club facilities during the tournament.

The field will be limited to the first 160 persons accepted by the tournament committee.

The tournament schedule:

Friday, August 25, through Thursday, August 31 — qualifying for all flights except championship.

Friday, Sept. 1—championship qualifying, starting times 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Buffet supper and announcement of pairings, 6 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 2—Match play, all flights 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Dance —9 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 3—match play, all flights — championship and first flights play two matches with all others playing one match.

Monday, Sept. 4 — Semi-finals and finals 0 Awarding of prizes, 6 p.m.

Little League

The Monroe Lions won the championship of the Minor "B" League by swamping the Dew Music team 27-5. In the all-important championship game the winning battery was Williams and Knighten. Danna and Johnson were the losing battery. Knighten was also the big gun at the plate for the winners with a 5-6 performance, and Sheppard had 4-5. Moore had 2-2 for the losers.

In Inter-City Little League last night, Gay's of the Northside shutout Palace of the Southside 18-0 on the three-hit hurling of Watson. Faucett was his catcher. Don Smith led the hitting with three hits, including a homer. Morris and Hancock were the losing battery.

Texico of the Northside downed the North Monroe Lions 8-1. Keith and LaGrange were the winners. Allen and Keith led the attack with two hits apiece. Stewart and Ballew took the loss, while McCarthy led the hitting with two for three.

Southsides Twin-City Printing whalloped Van Trow 13-0 with Youngblood and Smith getting the win. Peters collected four for four to pace the winners. Riley and Peat were the losers. Lauzza got two of the four Van Trow hits.

Retains Title

ST. VINCENT, Italy (AP)—Duilio Loi of Italy retained his European welterweight crown Saturday night outpointing Christian Christiensen of Denmark in a 15-round title bout.

The Italian weighed 144¾ pounds, his opponent 144¼.

CROZIER SIXTH

Stretch Run Wins For Beau Prince

CHICAGO (AP) —Beau Prince, Calumet Farm's hard-trying bay colt, made a torrid stretch run and captured the $118,900 American Derby at Arlington Park Saturday.

Beau Prince, ridden by Steve Brooks, charged to a 2½-length victory over the early pacesetter, Editorialist, to bring Calumet the winner's purse of $71,400. Third in the 1¼-mile test for 3-year-olds over a muddy track was Flutterby, a length behind Editorialist.

Just as he did in the Arlington Classic on July 8, Editorialist, ridden by Johnny Heckmann, threatened to run away with the American Derby. He jumped ahead at the start and led all the way into the head of the home stretch.

There, Beau Prince responded sharply to the urging of Brooks and charged into the lead.

Beau Prince went off a 3-1 pick and returned $8.40, $5 and $4.60 to his backers in a crowd of 27,451. Editorialist paid $10.20 and $7.20 while Flutterby, ridden by Johnny Longdon, returned $6.60.

Beau Prince, carrying 112 pounds, was the second American Derby winner ridden by Brooks. He piloted Ponder home to the 1949 American Derby triumph.

Bass Clef finished fourth, a length and a half ahead of Crozier, who went off a 7-5 favorite. Aeroflint was sixth and Endsville seventh and last after making a strong and early bid.

This was the fourth victory this year for Beau Prince, who previously won the Fountain of Youth Purse at Gulfstream where he defeated Crozier and Carry Back, the Kentucky Derby winner.

Editorialist was six lengths ahead half way in the race, chased by Aeroflint and Endsville. He still had a five-length lead entering the final turn bat Beau Prince, lagging at one time by five lengths, moved swiftly into contention.

As they straightened out in the home stretch, Beau Prince was full of run while Editorialist lacked the power to keep his pace.

Brooks said, "Beau Prince really wanted to run but he had a tendency to loaf a little coming into the stretch. I just shook my stick at him.'

Heckmann said his horse, Editorialist, was "looking for a gas station around the sixteenth pole. He really needed the fuel. That Calumet horse was just too much for him.'

Beau Prince's $71,400 earnings almost matched his entire previous money-winnings of $74,398. The time was 1:51 3-5.

Top Prospect For 62 Derby Wins By Two

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Sir Gaylord, the East's top 2-year-old and leading prospect in this section for the 1962 Kentucky Derby, drew off easily in the final eighth of a mile at Monmouth Park Saturday and won the $123,410 Sapling Stakes by 2¾ lengths.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela had the Meadow Stable colt well in hand as the favorite crossed the wire ahead of the Cain Hoy Stables Battle Joined, second choice in the wagering.

It was five more lengths back to Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Green Ticket, who got third pace by 3½ lengths over Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County in the field of 11.

This was the fifth consecutive victory for Sir Gaylord, a dark brown son of Turn-To—Something Royal, by Prince Quillo. The rangy colt skipped the 6 furlongs in 1:10 3-5 on a track still drying out from recent rain.

The time was just a fifth slower than the Sapling record on a fast track set last year by Hail To Reason, himself a son of Turn-To. And, oddly enough Turn-To was a 2-year-old champion owned by Christopher T. Chenery, who is Battle Joineds owner.

The winner returned $3.60, $2.40 and $2.20. Battle Joined, ridden by Manuel Ycaza and sent off at 2-1, paid $3 and $2.80. Green Ticket, with Eric Guerin up, was $3 to show.

Green Ticket, on the rail, barged into the lead soon after the start. Sir Gaylord broke out second, but Valenzuela quickly hauled him off the pace, while I'm For More spurted into third place.

Going to the far turn with less than a half mile to go, Green Ticket had opened up three lengths over Im For More. But only heads separated the runner-up, Osage Road and Sir Gaylord in that order. Battle Joined was fifth.

Around the turn, Green Ticket began to tire, along with I'm For More, and Sir Gaylord was flying outside. Sir Gaylord nailed Green Ticket with a bit more than an eighth to travel, and Valenzuela was just sitting still with whip erect.

"He broke (started) better than he ever did," said Valenzuela of the winner, who previously took the Tyro Stakes here, the National Stallion at Belmont and the Great American at Aqueduct. "I took him back the first part of it and then when I wanted him to run, he really had it."

Bears Take Win From Montreal By 34-16 Score

MONTREAL (AP)—The Chicago Bears of the National Football League, stymied in the first half by the mixture of Canadian and U.S. rules under which the game was played, began to click in the second half and went on to defeat the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Big Four 34-16 in an exhibition Saturday night.

The game was enlivened by a near free-for-all in the second quarter which resulted in three players from each team being ejected.

The Bears offense accounted for 516 yards, including 401 by passing and 115 rushing. Montreal was held to a total of 206 yards.

Quarterbacks Ed Brown and Billy Wade tossed two touchdown passes each for the Chicago team, hitting ends John Farrington, Harlon Hill and Angelo Cola and fullback Rick Casares. Casares plunged three yards for the other score.

Features of Canadian football, including 12-man teams, the larger field and more free restrictions on backfields in motion were in effect throughout the game. Aside from these provisions, Canadian regulations were used in the first half and U.S. rules in the second.

Aaron Leads Braves Past SF For 2nd Straight Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Slugging Hank Aaron tore San Francisco pitching apart again Saturday, slamming two triples in a 9-3 Milwaukee victory that boosted the Braves into a tie with the Giants for third place in the National League.

Aaron, who beat the Giants 2-1 with a pair of home runs Friday night, knocked in Milwaukee's first run in this one and scored three others.

Both his triples came off Giant starter and loser Sam Jones (7-7) and made a winner of Bob Buhl (9-8).

Buhl overcame early difficulties and pitched all the way, allowing eight hits. Jones was tagged for 7 hits, 4 walks and 4 runs in four innings.

The Braves collected 14 hits in beating the Giants for the fifth straight time and seventh in 13 meetings. They left 14 on base.

Mack Jones' leadoff single, Aaron's first triple and a wild pitch gave the Braves two runs in the first inning. They made it 4-0 in the third on Aaron's second three-bagger and singles by Joe Adcock, Joe Torre and Roy McMillan.

The 19,878 fans saw the Giants score their first run in the fourth on singles by Ed Bailey and Jim Davenport wrapped around a walk and a wild pitch. Davenport doubled, scoring the Giants' last two runs in the ninth. Aaron threw out Ed Bressoud when he tried to score from second on Davenports single.

Frank Thomas' 18th home run made it 5-1 in the fifth and the Braves tallied in the sixth on walks to Jones and Aaron and Adcocks two-out single. Milwaukee got its last three runs in the eighth when they batted around, collecting three singles and three walks.

EDGES THOMAS

Kilmer Gets MVP In All-Star Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Quarterback Bill Kilmer of UCLA edged out Oregon State end Aaron Thomas for "most valuable player" honors in Friday night's football game between the College All-Stars and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Results of the balloting by sports writers following Philadelphia's 28-14 victory before a crowd of 65,000 in Soldier Field were announced Saturday.

No vote tally was reported, but the pollsters said Kilmer edged Thomas by a "very few votes."

All this should make the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League happy since both Kilmer and Thomas are headed for the 49ers.

Quarterback Norm Snead of Wake Forest and halfback Ernie Casey of Bowling Green also drew strong support in the voting.

Others receiving votes were center Emil Holub of Texas Tech; center Fred Hageman, Kansas; end Marvin La Rose, Missouri; fullback Bill Brown, Illinois; end Marlin McKeever, Southern Cal; end John Brewer, Mississippi; tackle Billy Shaw, Georgia Tech; tackle Joe Rutgens, Illinois, and end El Kimbrough, Northwestern.

Kilmer engineered the All-Stars first touchdown late in the fourth quarter and capped the drive with an 18-yard scoring pass to Glynn Gregory of Southern Methodist.

In all, Kilmer completed 11 of 20 pass attempts for a total of 173 yards and while Eagle starter Sonny Jurgensen had 10 completions in 19 attempts for 161 yards.

Thomas was the game's top pass receiver in yardage although Philadelphia's Tommy McDonald grabbed three touchdown tosses. Thomas caught five passes for 123 yards while McDonald caught five for 82 yards.

All-Star officials also announced that Ohio State halfback Tom Matte had X-rays taken of a wrist injury and the examination revealed no broken bones.

Red Soxs Win Over KC 10-4; Wertz Stars

BOSTON (AP)—Boston slugger Vic Wertz drove across four runs with a triple, double and single Saturday as the Red Sox defeated Kansas City 10-4.

Don Buddin, hitting his fourth homer with a mate aboard, and rookie Carl Yastrzemski contributed a pair RBI apiece. The victory was the seventh in the last nine games for the revived Sox.

Towering Boston right-hander Gene Conley was credited with his fifth triumph against 10 losses though he couldn't handle Athletics' rookie Dick Howser. Howser lined his second homer into the left field screen in the seventh inning. His sacrifice fly brought in the A's second run in the fifth after he had singled his first two trips.

Handcuffed by rookie Dick Bass' four-hit shutout Friday night, Boston teed off on loser Jerry Walker and Maury McDermott until Bill Kunkel tightened the reins in the fourth.

Wertz crashed a two-run triple off the wall in left center highlighting a four-run third inning. Vic singled for one run in fourth and doubled for another in the sixth.

Angels Beat Baltimore On Miscues, 4-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels turned two Baltimore mistakes into a two-run winning rally Saturday night as they scored a 4-2 victory over the Orioles.

George Thomas and Ed Sadowski started the eighth inning rally with singles. A passed ball by catcher Gus Triandos on one of reliever Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckleballs brought in one run, and a throwing error by second baseman Jerry Adair allowed the other for a 3-1 Los Angeles lead.

Each team scored once in the ninth, but Angel reliever Tom Morgan put out the Oriole rally to end the game.

Ronnie Kline (3-6) came within two outs of pitching his first complete game for the Angels. He had allowed only five hits and one walk until the ninth when a double by Jackie Brandt and a single by Jim Gentile scored a run and brought in Morgan.

Gentile knocked in both Oriole runs, scoring the first on a 420-foot homer to center field in the second inning. Sadowski tied it with a sixth inning homer off starter Milt Pappas.

Gentile's homer was his 30th and his two runs batted in boosted his RBI mark to 99. His homer mark ties a club record set by Triandos in 1958 and his RBI production tops the club record he set last year.

Cooperation Is Stressed At Workshop

Teachers, parents and school boards must work together, Frank Breese, member of the Monroe City School Board, told the parent-Teacher Workshop sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State College.

The Parent-Teacher Association should be the most stimulating force in getting across the school message, he declared.

"In this age when education and training are so essential to America's needs, people should clamor to attend meetings which are deeply concerned with children," Breese said. He gave emphasis to the value of attending school board sessions for a better understanding of the school's needs to put into effect sound educational programs.

"Big Business'

The speaker declared "school business is big business" as he explained the procedure of the Monroe City School Board in planning its system of education. To facilitate the operation of the program, the city system, he said, provides two assistant superintendents, who are in charge of certain phases of work. One pertains to matters of business and the other to various aspects of education.

Pointing to the big business of schools, Breese showed that the number of educable children in the state as of January 1, 1961 shows 613,403 white children and 346,947 colored. Teachers at that time totaled 25,644.

The speaker referred to the "fine job" being done by visiting teachers in the Monroe city schools in decreasing absenteeism.

Children who are physically unable to attend school are provided homebound instruction, which parallels training received in the classroom, he said.

The school board's business also includes working with many committees, programs on education, bond issues, engineering specialists; city officials, law enforcement agencies, probation and welfare officers and other professional people whose occupations are related to the school program.

He emphasized the value of communications in accomplishing the board's job. Clubs, newspapers, radio and television, pamphlets and other media used to get the organization's message to the public are available, Breese pointed out. These can be extremely instrumental, he explained, in presenting the board's plans for education, which are designed to teach people how to learn and how to use man's accumlated knowledge to combat with present conditions of the world.

Major League Averages

Maris' three-run smash lifted his pace-setting runs batted in total to 101, four more than Baltimore's Jim Gentile.

Norm Cash of Detroit had one hit in three tries and remained in the top position in the batting competition with a .365 average. Elston Howard of the Yanks is next with .349.

In the National League, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati continues to set the pace in homers with 33 and RBI, 97. The slugging outfielder had two hits Friday night and lifted his average to .343. He is in the runner-up spot behind Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, who went hitless. Clemente's average dipped to .363.

FACE REBUILDING

Grads Headache To Southwestern

By STEVE HENRY
World Sports Writer

Russ Faulkinberry, the former Vanderbilt grid great who took over the Southwestern head coaching reins last January, moves into the first phase of his proposed three-year rebuilding program for the Bulldogs this September, facing a rugged 10-game schedule with a squad heavily handicapped by lack of depth and experience.

Twenty-four lettermen are gone from last year's Bulldog edition which managed a 6-4 overall record and a third place tie in the Gulf States Conference.

Departees include All-GSC performers Morris Elder, Richard Machen, and Dan Mastrean.

In all, 15 of the top 22 players from 1960 have graduated, leaving Faulkinberry a depressing hole to fill, both talent-wise and experience-wise.

13 RETURN

He'll be working with 13 returning lettermen, and of these only three held down starting positions on last year's team.

But Faulkinberry, by his own words, is "not conceding anything to anybody. We intend to be as ready as possible for every game."

And they'll have to be ready. Southwestern opens its season against four of the country's top small college elevens — Southeastern, Arlington State, Mississippi Southern, and Louisiana Tech.

"We could easily finish 2-8, maybe 3-7," he says.

When Faulkinberry came to USL and saw his personnel problem, he established a three-year rebuilding program which is supposed to shape up the Bulldog football program by 1963.

But this is 1961, and whether he wants to or not, Faulkinberry is going to have to play out the season.

Whats he going to do?

To start with, he's introduced Southwestern to the new Double Wing-T, an offense designed primarily to allow a more wide-open attack.

He prefers complete unit substitution, but lack of experience and depth on his squad will force him to use single substitutions.

STANDOUTS

To make his new attack go, he'll depend heavily on two experienced veterans and one lineman whose best showing so far came in last year's inter-squad game.

At fullback, Faulkinberry will have 196-pound Carlton Falgout, a two-year letterman from Raceland. After two years as a halfback, Falgout made the switch to fullback without difficulty.

The strongest runner on the team, Falgout gained 127 yards in 22 carries during the intra-squad. He could be a Little All-American candidate this year, and will have to be for Southwestern's backfield to click.

In Bob Verlander, a second team All-GSC selection last fall, Faulkinberry has one of the best terminals in the conference.

Verlander, the team's top scorer in 1960, caught four touchdown passes. His two-point conversion gave USL a last-second 8-7 victory over Northeast State. Overall, he snagged 17 passes for 263 yards.

The biggest question mark, and one that will have to pan out in the line, is 185 sophomore guard, Winston Ledet.

The younger brother of four-year USL letterman Tony Ledet, Winston showed tremendous improvement in spring training and moved up to the starting lineup with his performance.

Line coach A. C. "Red" Phillips calls Ledet the best blocker on the team and a sharp tackler. He could be one of the best in the GSC, and like Falgout and Verlander, he will have to be at his best this year.

Other lettermen back are Fletcher Songe, a converted guard switched over to end; Hugh Verlander, a tackle; L. J. Poinboeuf and Irwin Sibille, both tackles; Center George Ballard; Quarterbacks Y. J. Mula and David Adkins; Halfbacks Lynn Hernandez, Dave Cavalier and Vernon Lott.

CHOICES

Faulkinberry, who admittedly sees no chance for his charges to be a Gulf States contender this year, expects Southeastern and Louisiana Tech to be right up there in the race for the conference title.

They shared the crown last year.

He calls McNeese State "a strong contender," and rates Northeast and Northwestern dark-horses.

As for Southwestern:

Well, maybe in '63.

HERSCHEL VINYARD, Louisiana Tech senior tackle from Olla who has twice been an all-Gulf States conference performer, will anchor the Bulldog line this fall. The 6-3, 225-pounder is one of the best pass rushers in the business.

ONE OF THE BEST quarterbacks in this section of the country last fall, Louisiana Tech's Mickey Slaughter of Alexandria will return for his junior season. Slaughter completed 64 of 114 passes in 1960 for 834 yards and six TD's. His last minute passing heroics in several games resulted in come-from-behind Tech victories.

Key Positions, Slate Give Tech Challenge

Loss Of Linemen, Backs May Hurt

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Reports out of Ruston this summer depict a somber note at the headquarters of veteran coach Joe Aillet. For the first time in several seasons his Bulldogs are not sole favorites in the tough Gulf States Conference, but are ranked behind or, at best, alongside Southeastern and McNeese.

Gone are the hardnosed corps of backs that struck with rapier swiftness and locomotive power whenever the blocking was halfway right, and added in a suicide schedule, including Southeastern, McNeese, newcomers Arlington State and Tennessee Tech, plus Mississippi Southern.

In all 10 lettermen have departed the Ruston campus and most of them were three and four year standouts. Nothing reflects how much the group will be missed better than the statistics during the four year period.

During that time, Tech won or tied for the GSC title each year and won 30 of 40 games played. They were ranked high in the national small college polls each of the last three seasons.

In the past four seasons, Tech teams gained 8,116 yards rushing and departed backs — Paul Hynes, David Williamson, Max Rudd and Jack Howard — picked up 3,902 of those yards or nearly half of the total amount.

Graduated ends Tom Causey and Jerry Hudson were on the receiving end of almost half the aerial yardage accumulated these four years.

No ones knows how many key blocks and tackles Little All-American guard Joe Hinton and center Jim Campell made during their four year careers.

HEADS UNBOWED

All is not gloom in the Bulldog camp, however. Twenty-one lettermen are back from the championship team that tied with Southeastern for GSC honors and posted an 8-2 mark last year.

Top strength in the backfield should be at quarterback with lack of speed and depth hurting at halfback. There is no experienced reserve strength at fullback.

In the line Hinton and Causey cannot be replaced, but otherwise the strength should be comparable to last year.

Tech's main problem in spring training appeared to be its ground offense. Despite the loss of Causey and Hudson the aerial attack is expected to be good again.

Lettermen terminals back include Jerry Griffin, a 190-pound junior who had a brilliant first year but was hobbled by injuries in 1960, and Charlie Bourgeios, 203-pound letterman who saw a lot of action as a frosh in the last campaign. A flock of newcomers

MONROE MORNING WORLD

August 6

In a ceremony solemnized yesterday afternoon at First Presbyterian church, Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster became the bride of John Thomas Richardson III. The bride's parents are Dr. and Mrs. William Harrell Webster of Monroe, and the groom is the son of John Thomas Richardson, Jr., of Ruston and the late Mrs. Louise Guess Richardson.

At left: Brigadier General and Mrs. Louie C. Reinberg of Baton Rouge have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Mae, to Charles Edward Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Newman of Monroe. The marriage is planned for five-thirty on the evening of September 1 in Christ the King Chapel on the Louisiana State University campus.

Below: Miss Connie Estelle Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Ware of West Monroe, is engaged to be married to Hoy Wayne Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Rogers of Idabel, Oklahoma. A home wedding is planned on Friday, September 8.

Mrs. Gus Block, whose marriage to Mr. Block was solemnized at Temple Beth Israel in Houston, July 22, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Shelnker of Houston and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Block of Houston are parents of the groom.

Above: Mr. and Mrs. Elzie A. Turner of Gilbert today announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Judith Diane McBride, to James David Bruno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gasper Bruno of St. Joseph. The wedding is planned for September 2 at 10:30 in the morning with the Rev. Arby W. Coody officiating in the Gilbert Methodist church.

At right: Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Jennifer Anne Chavis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vergus Lee Chavis of West Monroe and Edgar Leon Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francis Fox, Sr., also of West Monroe. The Rev. John O. Stewart will officiate at the wedding ceremony on September 2 at seven in the evening at the First Baptist church in West Monroe.

Liberty Baptist church was the scene last evening of the marriage of Miss Lorena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White of Calhoun, and Robert Joe Carter of Altus, Oklahoma. The groom is the son of Mrs. Cecile Carter of Oak Grove and Sidney Carter of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Cooperation Is Stressed At Workshop

Teachers, parents and school boards must work together, Frank Breese, member of the Monroe City School Board, told the parent-Teacher Workshop sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State College.

The Parent-Teacher Association should be the most stimulating force in getting across the school message, he declared.

"In this age when education and training are so essential to America's needs, people should clamor to attend meetings which are deeply concerned with children," Breese said. He gave emphasis to the value of attending school board sessions for a better understanding of the school's needs to put into effect sound educational programs.

"Big Business"

The speaker declared "school business is big business" as he explained the procedure of the Monroe City School Board in planning its system of education. To facilitate the operation of the program, the city system, he said, provides two assistant superintendents, who are in charge of certain phases of work. One pertains to matters of business and the other to various aspects of education.

Pointing to the big business of schools, Breese showed that the number of educable children in the state as of January 1, 1961 shows 612,468 white children and 346,947 colored. Teachers at that time totaled 25,644.

The speaker referred to the "fine job" being done by visiting teachers in the Monroe city schools in decreasing absenteeism.

Children who are physically unable to attend school are provided homebound instruction, which parallels training received in the classroom, he said.

The school board's business also includes working with many committees, programs on education, bond issues, engineering specialists; city officials, law enforcement agencies, probation and welfare officers and other professional people whose occupations are related to the school program.

He emphasized the value of communications in accomplishing the board's job. Clubs, newspapers, radio and television, pamphlets and other media used to get the organization's message to the public are available, Breese pointed out. These can be extremely instrumental, he explained, in presenting the board's plans for education, which are designed to teach people how to learn and how to use man's accumulated knowledge to combat with present conditions of the world.

Institute Will Attract Abegg

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. Roland Abegg, head of the zoology department at Louisiana Tech, is one of 22 college teachers who will participate in a four - week institute in biology at Brevard College in North Carolina.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster, J. T. Richardson, III, Pledge Vows

In an impressive ceremony solemnized Saturday, August 5, at First Presbyterian church, Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster became the bride of John Thomas Richardson, III. Dr. Wave McFadden officiated at the double ring ceremony at four in the afternoon. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. William Harrell Webster of Monroe, and J. T. Richardon, Jr., of Ruston and the late Mrs. Louise Guess Richardson.

Bouquets of white gladioli and containers of greenery decorated the church for the exchange of vows. Mrs. B. D. Allbritton at the organ presented a pre-nuptial concert including "Poem," Fibich; "Traumerci," Schumann; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach; "Romance," Wieniaski; and "Andante in D Major," Tschaikowsky. She also accompanied the soloist Davis Bingham, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending the bride were Miss Sarah Helen High of Whiteville, North Carolina, maid of honor; and Miss Mary Jo Davenport, Miss Sally Hinkle, Miss Martha Riser, and Miss Bobbie Ruth Richardson, cousin of the groom, of Baton Rouge, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of imported georgette in Oriental royal blue, styled with full pleated skirts and draped, molded bodices. Necklines, high in front, dipped to sof tbows at low V-backs. Their headdresses were matching cabbage roses with circlet veils of illusion. They carried cascades of white pom-pom chrysanthemums.

BRIDE

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Webster, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of permanently pleated tulle over taffeta featured a scooped neckline and tiny sleeves trimmed with heavy imported lace. Lace outlined deep points on the full skirt, which ended in a chapel train. A delicate cap of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls held her finger tip veil of tiered silk illusion. She carried white roses, stephanotis, and a shower of lilies of the valley.

Bruce Richardson of Ruston was his brother's best man. Groomsmen-ushers included John Holstead and Bob Hinton of Ruston; Raymond Gaillard and Gary Leuders of Alexandria; Ralph Richardson, brother of the groom of Ruston; Nolan Moore of Winnsboro; and Steve Cummings, cousin of the bride of Fayetteville, Arkansas.

RECEPTION

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of the reception immediately following the ceremony.

A round table covered with an imported lace cloth held the tiered bride's cake which was decorated with a replica of the bride's bouquet. Mrs. Alvin Bell of Prairie Grove, Ark., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. R. B. Richardson of Baton Rouge, aunt of the groom, served the cake.

On two long tables, silver punch bowls at one end were balanced with white cupid candelabra fronted with low flower arrangements at the other. Miss Betsy Chandler of Shreveport, Miss Melinda Waller of Ringgold, and Miss Linda Hill of Bastrop presided at the punch bowls.

Rice bags were distributed among the guests by little misses Sarah Stuart McSherry, Deborah Schonlau, Kathy Sue Clay, Peggy Lou Clay, Sharon and Shawn Woods. Mrs. B. G. Tucker, Miss Mary Helen Barksdale of Ruston, Emilie Bell of Prairie Grove, Ark., Vee Marshall, Elizabeth, Clare and Martha Shonlau, and Kathy McSherry served sandwiches.

Members of the house party included Mrs. D. L. Anderson, Mrs. H. W. McSherry, Mrs. Robert Clay, Mrs. John Clay, Mrs. Henry Hinkle, Mrs. Tom Davenport, Mrs. George Riser, all of Minden; Mrs. J. B. Holstead and Miss Carol Holstead of Ruston, Mrs. Ethel Farber, Mrs. James Schonlau, Mrs. Bligh Sondgrass, and Mrs. Carroll Summer.

Miss Margaret Magee of Franklinton presided at the bride's book.

The couple will make their home at Pease Air Force Base, Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Other out of town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Richardson of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bell of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, Judge and Mrs. Maupin Cummings of Fayetteville, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Braly of Shreveport.

Gourmet Dish

For gourmets only: next time you saute mushrooms in butter to be served on toast, use a little Madeira to rinse the skillet in which the mushrooms were cooked and use as the sauce.

MONROE MORNING WORLD

August 6

In a ceremony solemnized yesterday afternoon at First Presbyterian church, Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster became the bride of John Thomas Richardson III. The bride's parents are Dr. and Mrs. William Harrell Webster of Monroe, and the groom is the son of John Thomas Richardson, Jr., of Ruston and the late Mrs. Louise Guess Richardson.

At left: Brigadier General and Mrs. Louie C. Reinberg of Baton Rouge have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Mae, to Charles Edward Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Newman of Monroe. The marriage is planned for five-thirty on the evening of September 1 in Christ the King Chapel on the Louisiana State University campus.

Below: Miss Connie Estelle Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Ware of West Monroe, is engaged to be married to Hoy Wayne Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Rogers of Idabel, Oklahoma. A home wedding is planned on Friday, September 8.

Mrs. Gus Block, whose marriage to Mr. Block was solemnized at Temple Beth Israel in Houston, July 22, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Shelnker of Houston and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Block of Houston are parents of the groom.

Above: Mr. and Mrs. Elzie A. Turner of Gilbert today announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Judith Diane McBride, to James David Bruno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gasper Bruno of St. Joseph. The wedding is planned for September 2 at 10:30 in the morning with the Rev. Arby W. Coody officiating in the Gilbert Methodist church.

At right: Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Jennifer Anne Chavis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vergus Lee Chavis of West Monroe and Edgar Leon Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francis Fox, Sr., also of West Monroe. The Rev. John O. Stewart will officiate at the wedding ceremony on September 2 at seven in the evening at the First Baptist church in West Monroe.

Liberty Baptist church was the scene last evening of the marriage of Miss Lorena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White of Calhoun, and Robert Joe Carter of Altus, Oklahoma. The groom is the son of Mrs. Cecile Carter of Oak Grove and Sidney Carter of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Miss Lorena White, Mr. Carter Wed Saturday

Tapers in seven branched candelabra wreathed with ivy decorated Liberty Baptist church for the marriage of Miss Lorena White and Robert Joe Carter, Saturday August 5. The Rev. S. W. Tullos officiated at the ceremony at seven-thirty in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White of Calhoun are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. Cecile Carter of Oak Grove and Sidney Carter of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

A pre - nuptial concert was presented by Mrs. Fred Staples at the organ. Mrs. Johnnie Hale, soloist, sang "the Wedding Prayer" and "Always".

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk satin-faced organza was styled with a rounded neckline encircled with Alencon lace roses embellished with tiny pearls. The full skirt, caught up in back with large folds in which nestled two oversized roses, swirled into a cathedral train. Her viel of Italian illusion fell from a queen's crown of lace outlined with twists of open work pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and garlands of stephanotis. Her only jewlery was a diamond - centered locked, gift of the groom.

Bridal attendants were Miss Sandra Staples, maid of honor; Miss Sue Hardee; and Mrs. Maurice Brownell, sister of the bride. They wore identical dresses of lilac silk organza with cowl necklines and garlands of roses buds encircling the skirts. Matching mitts came to points over the hands. Their organza picture hats and silk shoes were magenta in color. They carried orchids enbedded in tulle with streamers of orchid and magenta ribbons.

Howell Lane Cheatham was best man, with Maruice Brownell and Claude Butler, ushers. Ringbearer was James Claude Butler.

The dining table was covered with an orchid cloth overlaid with lace. Punch was served from a crystal service at each end of the table. The central arrangement of orchid chrysanthemums was flanked with white tapers in crystal candelabra. Miss Gloria Butler and Miss Mary Elizabeth Richardson served punch.

The tiered wedding cake, topped with bride and groom, centered a table covered with white net and taffeta. The full floor length skirt was caught at the edges of the table with small wedding bells and white satin streamers. Mrs. John M. Drouet, aunt of the bride, cut the cake, assisted by Mrs. James A. Chennival.

Tea girls were Mrs. Claude Butler, Mrs. Charles Staples, Miss Becky Adair, Miss Pat Almond, Miss Carolyn Futrell, Miss Beverly Futrell, Miss Sandra Grant, Miss Barbara Brownlee, Miss Kay Finley, and Miss Jenny Gilliland.

Mrs. Ira Phillips, Jr., sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book. Others who assisted were Mrs. Aubrey Roach, Mrs. Oral Sims, Mrs. Clifford Foster, Mrs. Pat Camp and Mrs. Colbert

When the couple left on a short honeymoon, the bride was wearing a two - tone grey wool suit and grey shoes with magenta hat and gloves and the red - throated orchid from her wedding bouquet. The couple will make their home in Altus, Oklahoma.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster, J. T. Richardson, III, Pledge Vows

In an impressive ceremony solemnized Saturday, August 5, at First Presbyterian church, Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster became the bride of John Thomas Richardson, III. Dr. Wave McFadden officiated at the double ring ceremony at four in the afternoon. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. William Harrell Webster of Monroe, and J. T. Richardon, Jr., of Ruston and the late Mrs. Louise Guess Richardson.

Bouquets of white gladioli and containers of greenery decorated the church for the exchange of vows. Mrs. B. D. Allbritton at the organ presented a pre-nuptial concert including "Poem," Fibich; "Traumerci," Schumann; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach; "Romance," Wieniaski; and "Andante in D Major," Tschaikowsky. She also accompanied the soloist Davis Bingham, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending the bride were Miss Sarah Helen High of Whiteville, North Carolina, maid of honor; and Miss Mary Jo Davenport, Miss Sally Hinkle, Miss Martha Riser, and Miss Bobbie Ruth Richardson, cousin of the groom, of Baton Rouge, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of imported georgette in Oriental royal blue, styled with full pleated skirts and draped, molded bodices. Necklines, high in front, dipped to sof tbows at low V-backs. Their headdresses were matching cabbage roses with circlet veils of illusion. They carried cascades of white pom-pom chrysanthemums.

BRIDE

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Webster, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of permanently pleated tulle over taffeta featured a scooped neckline and tiny sleeves trimmed with heavy imported lace. Lace outlined deep points on the full skirt, which ended in a chapel train. A delicate cap of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls held her finger tip veil of tiered silk illusion. She carried white roses, stephanotis, and a shower of lilies of the valley.

Bruce Richardson of Ruston was his brother's best man. Groomsmen-ushers included John Holstead and Bob Hinton of Ruston; Raymond Gaillard and Gary Leuders of Alexandria; Ralph Richardson, brother of the groom of Ruston; Nolan Moore of Winnsboro; and Steve Cummings, cousin of the bride of Fayetteville, Arkansas.

RECEPTION

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of the reception immediately following the ceremony.

A round table covered with an imported lace cloth held the tiered bride's cake which was decorated with a replica of the bride's bouquet. Mrs. Alvin Bell of Prairie Grove, Ark., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. R. B. Richardson of Baton Rouge, aunt of the groom, served the cake.

On two long tables, silver punch bowls at one end were balanced with white cupid candelabra fronted with low flower arrangements at the other. Miss Betsy Chandler of Shreveport, Miss Melinda Waller of Ringgold, and Miss Linda Hill of Bastrop presided at the punch bowls.

Rice bags were distributed among the guests by little misses Sarah Stuart McSherry, Deborah Schonlau, Kathy Sue Clay, Peggy Lou Clay, Sharon and Shawn Woods, Mrs. B. G. Church Ceremony Unites Miss Burns, E. J. Upshaw, Jr., Saturday Morning

In an impressive ceremony at the First Presbyterian church, Miss Martha Jane Burns became the bride of Elton Jefferson Upshaw, Jr., Saturday, August 5. Dr. Wave H. McFadden officiated at the exchange of vows at ten in the morning.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. James Robert Burns and the late Mr. Burns, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, all of Monroe.

Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra burned at each side of the altar in the narthex of the church. Mass arrangements of white gladioli, white stock, white chrysanthemums, and tube roses in brass epergnes stood before background trees of fern. A single rose from the bride's bouquet was placed across the open Bible on the altar.

Mrs. William McElwaine at the organ presented a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Carol Ann McKay of Baton Rouge, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Thomas Matthew Keller, wore a Priscilla of Boston gown of delustered antique ivory silk satin. The empire waistline featured narrow scallops of antique Rosepoint lace beneath a tiny fold of satin ending in small flat looped streamers at the buttoned back. Miniature hand made satin roses centered the bodice front from the scooped neckline to the midriff. Fullness of the bell-shaped skirt concentrated in back, giving a bustle effect to the chapel train. A brimmed cap of antique ivory Rosepoint lace held the finger-tip veil of illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of regal ivory roses, tuberoses, carnations and ivy.

MRS. ELTON JEFFERSON UPSHAW, JR

Miss Jackie Masur, maid of honor, and Miss Julia Brown, bridesmaid, wore identical street-length gowns of ice pink Rosepoint lace and silk organza. The dresses, styled similarly to the bride's, featured scooped necklines and brief sleeves above empire waistlines banded in satin. They wore pink satin shoes and white kid gloves. Headdresses were brims of the dress material with circular veils. They carried bouquets of pink aristocrat roses, carnations, and tuberoses.

Marion Lewis was Mr. Upshaw's best man. John Stuckey of Shreveport was groomsmen, and ushers were Jimmy Woods and Bill Morris.

Mrs. Burns, mother of the bride, wore a dress of rose Chantilly lace over parchment taffeta with a tier of lace gathered at one side. Her accessories included a brim of matching rose colored net, elbow length white kid gloves, and rose colored shoes. Mrs. Upshaw's dress was of rich ivory peau de soie, jeweled with pearls and bugle beads. She wore a veil of ivory net, with matching shoes and gloves. Both wore corsages of pink aristocrat roses.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matthew Keller were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club, which was decorated throughout with trees of fern.

In the entrance hall, a mass arrangement of white stock, carnations, tube roses and chrysanthemums was placed before the mirror. Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., received in the hall.

A silver epergne holding roses, tuberoses, stock and chrysanthemums and flanked with silver candelabra centered the bride's table. The tiered cake, topped with wedding bells and roses, was served by Mrs. Jack Masur and Mrs. J. P. McDonald, alternating with Mrs. Otto Ferguson and Mrs. Travis Harris, aunts of the groom. Pouring punch were Mrs. Ed W. Stinson, Jr., and Mrs. George Vaughan. Mrs. Harold Woods and Mrs. Marcus Mapp alternated at the coffee service.

Others who assisted with the courtesies were Mrs. A. C. Breckinridge, Mrs. Jack Knowles, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. E. E. Cobb, Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. Herschel Abbott, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, and Mrs. Gilbert Marx. Miss Linda Keller, Miss Jenny Williams, and Mrs. Marion Lewis presided at the guest book.

Miss Lorena White, Mr. Carter Wed Saturday

Tapers in seven branched candelabra wreathed with ivy decorated Liberty Baptist church for the marriage of Miss Lorena White and Robert Joe Carter, Saturday August 5. The Rev. S. W. Tullos officiated at the ceremony at seven-thirty in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White of Calhoun are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. Cecile Carter of Oak Grove and Sidney Carter of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

A pre - nuptial concert was presented by Mrs. Fred Staples at the organ. Mrs. Johnnie Hale, soloist, sang "the Wedding Prayer" and "Always".

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk satin-faced organza was styled with a rounded neckline encircled with Alencon lace roses embellished with tiny pearls. The full skirt, caught up in back with large folds in which nestled two oversized roses, swirled into a cathedral train. Her viel of Italian illusion fell from a queen's crown of lace outlined with twists of open work pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and garlands of stephanotis. Her only jewlery was a diamond - centered locked, gift of the groom.

Bridal attendants were Miss Sandra Staples, maid of honor; Miss Sue Hardee; and Mrs. Maurice Brownell, sister of the bride. They wore identical dresses of lilac silk organza with cowl necklines and garlands of roses buds encircling the skirts. Matching mitts came to points over the hands. Their organza picture hats and silk shoes were magenta in color. They carried orchids enbedded in tulle with streamers of orchid and magenta ribbons.

Howell Lane Cheatham was best man, with Maruice Brownell and Claude Butler, ushers. Ringbearer was James Claude Butler.

Mrs. White chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of orchid cotton satin with full tunic of orchid silk organza. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Carter, mother of the groom, wore sage green silk organza and lace, with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The dining table was covered with an orchid cloth overlaid with lace. Punch was served from a crystal service at each end of the table. The central arrangement of orchid chrysanthemums was flanked with white tapers in crystal candelabra. Miss Gloria Butler and Miss Mary Elizabeth Richardson served punch.

The tiered wedding cake, topped with bride and groom, centered a table covered with white net and taffeta. The full floor length skirt was caught at the edges of the table with small wedding bells and white satin streamers. Mrs. John M. Drouet, aunt of the bride, cut the cake, assisted by Mrs. James A. Chennival.

Tea girls were Mrs. Claude Butler, Mrs. Charles Staples, Miss Becky Adair, Miss Pat Almond, Miss Carolyn Futrell, Miss Beverly Futrell, Miss Sandra Grant, Miss Barbara Brownlee, Miss Kay Finley, and Miss Jenny Gilliland.

Mrs. Ira Phillips, Jr., sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book. Others who assisted were Mrs. Aubrey Roach, Mrs. Oral Sims, Mrs. Clifford Foster, Mrs. Pat Camp and Mrs. Colbert

When the couple left on a short honeymoon, the bride was wearing a two - tone grey wool suit and grey shoes with magenta hat and gloves and the red - throated orchid from her wedding bouquet. The couple will make their home in Altus, Oklahoma.

Miss Geddes, Mr. Holland Wed In Church

Against a background of white bridal blooms and greenery, the wedding of Miss Mary Winston Geddes, and Robert Wilson Holland was solemnized on Saturday, the fifteenth of July, in the Trinity Episcopal Church. The Rev. Louis O'Vander Thomas, rector, officiated at the double ring ceremony at six o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nevitt Geddes, of Natchez and Mr. Holland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesley Holland, of Memphis, Tenn.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Helen Coleman, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were: Miss Ann Geddes and Miss Emily Geddes, sisters of the bride; and Miss Kathleen Holland, sister of the bridegroom.

Dan Newton of Memphis, attended the bridegroom as best man, and groomsmen were: John Shute, William Prest, Memphis, Tenn., Donald Marion, Rayburn Wright and Jeny Dorminy, of Birmingham, Alabama, and Earl A. Eidt, Jr., of Natchez.

Following the ceremony, the brides parents entertained with a reception in the pavillion at Stanton Hall.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Holland will make their home in Memphis, Tenn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Holland attend the University of Alabama, in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Church Rites Unite Couple In Bernice

Evergreen Baptist Church, Bernice, was the scene of the double-ring ceremony solemnized Tuesday, July 18 which united in marriage Miss Imogene Compton of Farmerville and James Clifford Simpson of Bernice. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milward Elward Compton Jr. of Farmerville and Mr. Simpson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey C. Simpson of Bernice.

Vows were exchanged at 7:30 in the evening before an altar adorned with emerald and jade foliage and banked with fan shaped arrangements of white stock. Myriads of candles in wrought iron candelabra of graduated sizes, formed a background for the ceremony. White satin bows marked the pews. The Reverend E. Gray Nolan of Farmerville was the officiating clergyman.

Appropriate music was presented by Miss Helen Wells, cousin of the bride. She also accompanied Mrs. Reginald N. Bryan as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white, floor length gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice, with scalloped neckline and long sleeves, flowed into a bell shaped bouffant hoop skirt. Her short full veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Patsy Hanson of Farmerville, the bride's only attendant, wore a ballerina length gown of pink silk organza over summer taffeta, styled with scooped neckline and capped sleeves. She wore a halo of matching flowers and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink carnations.

Ken Fredericks of Chicago, Illinois served as best man and ushers were Jerry Hollis and Mickey Denton, both of Farmerville.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reeves of Bernice. The reception suite was banked with fan shaped arrangements of pink and orchid dahlias.

The table, covered in white heirloom lace, was centred with the bride's bouquet, designed around crystal candelabra holding spiral pearlized burning tapers. The tiered cake, embellished with pink roses and topped with the conventional miniature bride and groom, was served by Miss Betty Jo Simpson, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Richard Bass, Farmerville, aunt of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl.

A memory candle graced the guest book table which was presided over by Miss Ruth Baker. Mrs. Ken Frederick of Chicago, assisted Mrs. Reeves in extending courtesies of the evening.

Church Ceremony Unites Miss Burns, E. J. Upshaw, Jr., Saturday Morning

In an impressive ceremony at the First Presbyterian church, Miss Martha Jane Burns became the bride of Elton Jefferson Upshaw, Jr., Saturday, August 5. Dr. Wave H. McFadden officiated at the exchange of vows at ten in the morning.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. James Robert Burns and the late Mr. Burns, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, all of Monroe.

Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra burned at each side of the altar in the narthex of the church. Mass arrangements of white gladioli, white stock, white chrysanthemums, and tube roses in brass epergnes stood before background trees of fern. A single rose from the bride's bouquet was placed across the open Bible on the altar.

Mrs. William McElwaine at the organ presented a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Carol Ann McKay of Baton Rouge, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Thomas Matthew Keller, wore a Priscilla of Boston gown of delustered antique ivory silk satin. The empire waistline featured narrow scallops of antique Rosepoint lace beneath a tiny fold of satin ending in small flat looped streamers at the buttoned back. Miniature hand made satin roses centered the bodice front from the scooped neckline to the midriff. Fullness of the bell-shaped skirt concentrated in back, giving a bustle effect to the chapel train. A brimmed cap of antique ivory Rosepoint lace held the finger-tip veil of illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of regal ivory roses, tuberoses, carnations and ivy.

MRS. ELTON JEFFERSON UPSHAW, JR

Miss Jackie Masur, maid of honor, and Miss Julia Brown, bridesmaid, wore identical street-length gowns of ice pink Rosepoint lace and silk organza. The dresses, styled similarly to the bride's, featured scooped necklines and brief sleeves above empire waistlines banded in satin. They wore pink satin shoes and white kid gloves. Headdresses were brims of the dress material with circular veils. They carried bouquets of pink aristocrat roses, carnations, and tuberoses.

Flower girl was little Miss Janet Vaughan of Monroe, whose frock of blue silk organza featured a billowing skirt with hand made pink silk organza rose at the side. She carried a sterling silver basket of rice bags at the reception.

Marion Lewis was Mr. Upshaw's best man. John Stuckey of Shreveport was groomsmen, and ushers were Jimmy Woods and Bill Morris.

Mrs. Burns, mother of the bride, wore a dress of rose Chantilly lace over parchment taffeta with a tier of lace gathered at one side. Her accessories included a brim of matching rose colored net, elbow length white kid gloves, and rose colored shoes. Mrs. Upshaw's dress was of rich ivory peau de soie, jeweled with pearls and bugle beads. She wore a veil of ivory net, with matching shoes and gloves. Both wore corsages of pink aristocrat roses.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matthew Keller were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club, which was decorated throughout with trees of fern.

In the entrance hall, a mass arrangement of white stock, carnations, tube roses and chrysanthemums was placed before the mirror. Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., received in the hall.

A silver epergne holding roses, tuberoses, stock and chrysanthemums and flanked with silver candelabra centered the bride's table. The tiered cake, topped with wedding bells and roses, was served by Mrs. Jack Masur and Mrs. J. P. McDonald, alternating with Mrs. Otto Ferguson and Mrs. Travis Harris, aunts of the groom. Pouring punch were Mrs. Ed W. Stinson, Jr., and Mrs. George Vaughan. Mrs. Harold Woods and Mrs. Marcus Mapp alternated at the coffee service.

Others who assisted with the courtesies were Mrs. A. C. Breckinridge, Mrs. Jack Knowles, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. E. E. Cobb, Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. Herschel Abbott, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, and Mrs. Gilbert Marx. Miss Linda Keller, Miss Jenny Williams, and Mrs. Marion Lewis presided at the guest book.

Included in the house party were Miss Rosemary Upshaw, Miss Toni Whittington of Natchitoches, Miss Nanny Peabody of Baton Rouge, Miss Marilyn Clements of Vivian, Miss Betty Ann Hall of Mansfield, Mrs. Jack Rivers, Miss Anne McDonald, Miss King Trousdale, Miss Sally Ryan, Miss Gay Demmary, Mrs. Richard Crowe, Miss Malise Mapp, Miss Frances Jones, Miss Mary Lou McClendon, Miss Ann Landry, Miss Linda Lee Woods, Miss Susan Ferguson, Miss Dottie Sawson, Miss Trudy Baugh, and Miss Brenda Cobb.

When the newly married couple left on a brief wedding trip, the bride was wearing an Adele Simpson suit of lime green imported Italian cotton with tapestry shoes and purse and beige velvet coil. She wore elbow length beige kid gloves and a corsage of ivory roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Upshaw will be at home at 800 McGuire avenue, Monroe.

Visitors from Baton Rouge were LAURIE STATEN and MARY CRAIN PENNIMAN, daughters of MARY VIRGINIA and ALLEN PENNIMAN, JR. They were guests of VYVIAN ALLYNE MARSHALL in her parents home on Island Drive from Saturday through Wednesday of this week.

Monday evening Vyvian invited a group of little friends to meet Laurie and Mary Crain at a supper party in the yard. After an hour of playtime, they gathered at the white-covered table in the patio garden. A wooden bowl filled with fruit, red hibiscus, and calladium leaves decorated the table. The girls enjoyed a sugar baby melon filled with fruit and melon balls as a first course, followed by assorted sandwiches with cupcakes and doughnuts for dessert.

On Tuesday at noon, CHRISTINE MOORE was hostess at a home luncheon for Vee and her guests. Fried chicken dinner was served to ten little girls, with Bingo games on the program after the meal.

Also honoring Mary Crain and Laurie, LOU LEMERT entertained at a tea party late Tuesday afternoon. Eight guests came in playclothes for fun in the yard. Fans were given as favors (and real favors, with the temperature in the nineties.) Refreshments were lemonade, cookies, and ice cream.

Members of the junior high set have enjoyed several informal parties this week for MISSY MITCHELL, visitor from Opelousas in the LARRY FOX home. On Monday CYNTHIA TERZIA was hostess for lunch and the movies. MARY ELIZABETH TAYLOR invited a party of six for swimming and lunch at Bayou DeSiard country club Saturday.

Last Friday evening Jibby and Larry honored their visitor at a picnic supper party in the garden of their home. Volleyball, badminton, and other outdoor games were on the program. Bottled drinks were served from buckets of ice and hamburgers cooked in the yard for eleven girls who attended.

Missy's grandmother MRS. J. N. LANGFORD, mother NAN MITCHELL, and sister MARY came in Thursday afternoon for a brief stay before taking Missy home yesterday . . . . . Friday morning Jibby invited a group of friends for a visit with her mother and sister. Guests gathered at the home of IRENE FOX on Riverside Drive for coffee and lady-talk.

A family style houseparty was that at the DICK TOUCHSTONE'S last weekend, when Georgie's sister and her family, BILLIE and HARRY BARTON, DANA SARA, and HARRY were here from Baton Rouge. Friday night the hosts had the rest of the family for a barbecue supper at home: HORTENSE TOUCHSTONE; the KURT TOUCHSTONES, HELEN, JAN, and KURT; JESSIE LEE LAMB, J. LEE, and TOUCH, from Cookeville, Tenn. . . . . Jan entertained all the girls in the group for swimming and lunch at Bayou DeSiard country club on Saturday.

The CORBIN TURPINS and the BOBBY OLIVERS invited Touchstones and Bartons, grown - ups and children together, for Sunday brunch at the Turpin home on Point Drive. From eleven a.m. on, buffet was set up on the dining room table, with guests serving themselves when ready. On the menu were ham, roast beef, assorted cheeses, baked beans, green salad, assorted relishes.

A charming party this week was a surprise for MRS. E. F. HAYWARD on her seventy-fifth birthday Tuesday. Daughters ANN STONE and ANNELIES HAYWARD were hostesses at the Stone home. An all-green arrangement decorated the entrance hall for the occasion, while a pink and white centerpiece of snapdragons and gardenias was placed on the dining table . . . . . The tea table was set up in the family room, where about twenty-five guests, close friends of the honoree, gathered. The punch bowl which centered the table was encircled with tapers nesting in low white nosegays. Sandwiches and cookies were served with the punch.

Another birthday party of the week was that given by the JOE GOYNES, JR., for his mother, MRS. JOE GOYNE, SR., Sunday afternoon. Guests ranged in age from the early teens up to ninety - three years of age. The honoree's cousin, NELL PERCY, was up from Winnsboro for this affair. MINTA GOYNE and LAURIE BREARD assisted Betty in serving ice cream and cake.

Auld acquaintance got together Thursday morning when DOT MAXWELL entertained at a coffee party honoring newcomers CAROL CUDD, CLAIRE BROWN, and MARIAN COLVIN. Hostess, honorees, and twenty-five guests who attended have all moved to Monroe from Rayville and Delhi in the past few years. Yellow carnations were used in the centerpiece in the dining room, and on a side table, LULA GUY poured coffee, which was served with cookies and tiny sandwiches.

Visitors in the home of the ED LOHANS have been the JOHN LOHANS and MARY COLLINS of Opelousas, and the RAY WILLIAMS and son TOMMY of Portage, Ohio.

After a week in New Orleans and on the coast at Waveland, Mississippi, MAIDYE JEAN STRICKLAND brought home her hostess there, MISSY VILLERE, for a week here. They arrived Sunday and were joined Thursday night by WILLIAM HELIS DROULIA and LEON OLIVERA of New Orleans. Maidye Jean was hostess at an informal party for her visitors Friday night. Five couples attended the affair at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Members of Bayou DeSiard country club are anticipating this coming Saturday night's Las Vegas party. The evening's tariff of four dollars per couple will buy several hundred dollars in chips to play roulette, black jack, poker, and craps; as well as buffet supper. Prizes will be awarded for the best costume (Las Vegas style), as well as to winners in the games. The Dukes will play for dancing in the main ballroom.

Today's poem is by Kay Daub:

If sorrow never happened
And trouble never came,
The only thing you'd know about
Your neighbor is his name.
If all your days were bright and fair
And certain was your place,
You'd only know a fellow
By the features of his face.
Acquaintances upon this earth
Are all you'd ever own,
If cares had always passed you by
And grief you'd never known.

Time was I used to nod at one
Who lived across the way;
I knew his face and he knew mine
We passed the time of day.
But nothing did he mean to me.
And nothing I to him,
Until one day sorrow came
And all the world was grim.
I saw his face, I felt his hand,
And knew he'd come to lend
The strength I needed, and right then
I found I had a friend.

'Tis not in sunshine friends are made,
But when the skies are gray;
The splendid souls that men possess
Are never on display.
We cannot tell what lies behind
The hasty nod or smile,
We only know that when we face
The cares that life must send,
Or what of worth will come of it
In just a little while.
We realize the passer-by
Was changed into a friend."

Church Rites Unite Couple In Bernice

Evergreen Baptist Church, Bernice, was the scene of the double-ring ceremony solemnized Tuesday, July 18 which united in marriage Miss Imogene Compton of Farmerville and James Clifford Simpson of Bernice. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milward Elward Compton Jr. of Farmerville and Mr. Simpson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey C. Simpson of Bernice.

Vows were exchanged at 7:30 in the evening before an altar adorned with emerald and jade foliage and banked with fan shaped arrangements of white stock. Myriads of candles in wrought iron candelabra of graduated sizes, formed a background for the ceremony. White satin bows marked the pews. The Reverend E. Gray Nolan of Farmerville was the officiating clergyman.

Appropriate music was presented by Miss Helen Wells, cousin of the bride. She also accompanied Mrs. Reginald N. Bryan as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white, floor length gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice, with scalloped neckline and long sleeves, flowed into a bell shaped bouffant hoop skirt. Her short full veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Patsy Hanson of Farmerville, the bride's only attendant, wore a ballerina length gown of pink silk organza over summer taffeta, styled with scooped neckline and capped sleeves. She wore a halo of matching flowers and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink carnations.

Ken Fredericks of Chicago, Illinois served as best man and ushers were Jerry Hollis and Mickey Denton, both of Farmerville.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reeves of Bernice. The reception suite was banked with fan shaped arrangements of pink and orchid dahlias.

The table, covered in white heirloom lace, was centred with the bride's bouquet, designed around crystal candelabra holding spiral pearlized burning tapers. The tiered cake, embellished with pink roses and topped with the conventional miniature bride and groom, was served by Miss Betty Jo Simpson, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Richard Bass, Farmerville, aunt of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl.

A memory candle graced the guest book table which was presided over by Miss Ruth Baker, Mrs. Ken Fredericks of Chicago, assisted Mrs. Reeves in extending courtesies of the evening.

Out - of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ken Fredericks and daughters, Jo Ann and Chrissy, of Chicago; Mrs. W. J. Gulledge, Mrs. Charlie Manning and daughters, Carol and Carmen, Crossett, Ark.; Mrs. W. B. Wells, Mrs. T. P. Wells and daughter, Miss Helena, Mrs. H. L. Pittman, Mrs. O. H. Miss Judy Aline Sanford Weds Bobby Ray Halley

Miss Judy Aline Sanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Harley of Rayville, was married July 25 to Bobby Ray Halley, son of Mrs. Reese Halley and the late Mr. Halley of Delhi.

The Rev. Fred Keyes, pastor of Eastside Baptist church in Rayville, and the Rev. Fred Feazell of West Monroe officiated at the double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Rayville at seven-thirty in the evening.

Myriads of gleaming cathdral tapers in wrought iron candelabra formed a background for a large pedestal urn overflowing with white galdioli, and standards of specimen philodendron.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Mary Ann Cumpton of Rayville provided a concert of nuptial music. She accompanied Mrs. Fred Keyes, who sang "O Promise Me" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white satin appliqued with panels of lace on the full skirt which fell into a chapel train. The bodice of white lace over satin featured a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. A tiara of seed pearls held the veil of nylon tulle. The bridal bouquet was a triangular arrangement of tube roses and white satin leaves centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Bridesmaids were Miss DeeDee Owens of Rayville, and Miss Linda Halley, sister of the groom. Miss Linda Harley, the bride's sister, and Miss Ann Nowlin of Rayville were junior bridesmaids. Their dresses of lavender organza were styled like that of the maid of honor, and they carried yellow crescent-shaped bouquets.

Jean Stell and Rhonda Richardson, flower girls, wore pale pink organza frocks and carried lavender petals in white straw baskets.

Charles Clark of Delhi, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Bobby Charrier and Francis Thompson of Delhi, and Lynn and Glenn Copeland of Rayville.

Mrs. Harley selected for her daughter's wedding a two piece dress of ice blue lace with matching accessories, and a corsage of blue cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Halley, the groom's mother, chose a two piece dress of lime green lace with matching accessories and a green orchid corsage.

Mrs. Carol Gustin presided at the registry of wedding guests at the church.

Yellow chrysanthemums and white dwarf zinnias filled the silver bowl which centered the lace-covered bride's table. Four white candles were interspersed among the flowers. Mrs. Jewel Kelly, aunt of the bride, served punch.

Yellow roses encircled the tiered wedding cake, iced in white and yellow roses, and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Rebecca Nowlin served cake. Tea girls were Misses Sue Graves, Eddie Sue Sorey, and Odwina Fusilier.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Gladys Freeland of Bastrop; Mrs. John B. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Copeland, and Miss Olita Bennett of Start; Mrs. Stanley G. Futch, the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Feazell, Mrs. Rube Halley, Vera Emerel and Ruby Lee Robertson and Mrs. Lelia Whitten of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Larry O'Brien, Mary Catherine Woodard, Cheryl Strain, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Charrier, Johnny Hopper, Mrs. M. E. Gay, Nancy Jo Snider, Marilyn Bryant, Sammy Charriet, Bobby McKay, Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Gayle Wren, Mrs. Kathryn Hopper, Louise Harkey, Helen Stell, and the Rev. and Mrs. W. V. Simon of Delhi.

Revelers Party Has Summer Cruise Theme

A Nautical theme prevailed in the Paragon Ballroom on Saturday night, July 29, when the Revelers' entertained at their mid-summer informal dance. Invitations had been sent to the members inviting them "to a summer cruise on the S.S. Reveler, dancing to the music of Jerry Lane and his orchestra."

At the entrance was placed a large travel poster to set the theme. Guests registered at a table covered with baggage tags and luggage stickers. In the ballroom gaily colored flags were suspended from the ceiling. Larger yellow flags encircled the bandstand. Behind the orchestra bright eye-catching tavel posters were attached to the wall. Further carrying out the nautical theme, white life preservers were noted at various points throughout the room. Members and their guests were seated at individual tables centered with gaily colored candles and travel brochures.

At intermission hors d'oeuvre were served in the Fireside Room. The buffet table was placed flat against the wall with a picturesque Japanese screen serving as the focal point.

The executive committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr.

Members attending the dance were: Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bagwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Seymour, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Salley, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Girl Scout News

Families of almost all of the 154 second session Pine Wood day campers were present for the camp closing activities. For some visitors it was their first trip; for many more it was the fifth, sixth, or even seventh that their daughters had been enrolled. Groups ate picnic suppers on the grounds. At 6:30 campers lined up for the final lowering of the flag. In a big horseshoe around the flagpole, campers sang "O Beautiful Banner" and repeated the Girl Scout Promise. Looking very smart in their camp uniforms and wearing red sashes to set them apart for the honor, a color guard and bearer of Campcraft Hill unit lowered the flag and folded it.

Campers then filed into the campfire circle while visitors sat around on the grass. Presiding over the campfire program was Diane Haley, Senior Scout. Gay Gannaway and Kathy Coon of Campcraft Hill, winners of a unit fire building contest, lighted the campfire while the campers sang "Rise Up, O Flame". Barbara Kurtz and Jennifer Davis chosen in try - outs open to Intermediate units, welcomed guests and introduced the council president and board members.

Leaders presented cards showing badge work accomplished as follows: Pioneer and Wild Plant, Century Oak campers, Mrs. J. L. Davidson; Campcraft, Outdoor Cook and Mammal, Campcraft Hill, Mrs. John M. Edwards, leader; Wild Plant and Rambler to the Foot Traveler Unit, Tree Badge to Trail's End and Whispering Pines unit, Mrs. Carter Ackel and Mrs. J. C. Coon, leaders.

The Senior units out - of - camp primitive experience was so special that we're saving the details for a later column. Becky Middleton told visitors and campers their three - day camp. In addition to the five Intermediate and one Senior unit, the three Brownie units were introduced. Singing of favorite folk songs and a good-night song concluded the campfire program at dusk.

Century Oak campers set up tents for two nights in a far corner of camp, with Mrs. J. L. Davidson and Mrs. Woodrow Downs as leaders. A hard rain Thursday afternoon found their tents properly ditched and securely fastened, so that campers were able to sleep in them, after all.

For the first time, two units chose activities from the Foot Traveler badge. Of course, they knew they couldn't walk one hundred miles (a starred requirement) during camp, but will enjoy doing that later. One girl has enlisted her mother's interest and they are enjoying a walk of a mile or more each evening. The two units combined for an all day hike to the river by way of the gravel pits and back to camp across country.

From all accounts, the camp lived up to its objective of progressively adventurous experiences in the out - of - doors.

Visitors from Baton Rouge were LAURIE STATEN and MARY CRAIN PENNIMAN, daughters of MARY VIRGINIA and ALLEN PENNIMAN, JR. They were guests of VYVIAN ALLYNE MARSHALL in her parents home on Island Drive from Saturday through Wednesday of this week.

Monday evening Vyvian invited a group of little friends to meet Laurie and Mary Crain at a supper party in the yard. After an hour of playtime, they gathered at the white-covered table in the patio garden. A wooden bowl filled with fruit, red hibiscus, and calladium leaves decorated the table. The girls enjoyed a sugar baby melon filled with fruit and melon balls as a first course, followed by assorted sandwiches with cupcakes and doughnuts for dessert.

On Tuesday at noon, CHRISTINE MOORE was hostess at a home luncheon for Vee and her guests. Fried chicken dinner was served to ten little girls, with Bingo games on the program after the meal.

Also honoring Mary Crain and Laurie, LOU LEMERT entertained at a tea party late Tuesday afternoon. Eight guests came in playclothes for fun in the yard. Fans were given as favors (and real favors, with the temperature in the nineties.) Refreshments were lemonade, cookies, and ice cream.

Members of the junior high set have enjoyed several informal parties this week for MISSY MITCHELL, visitor from Opelousas in the LARRY FOX home. On Monday CYNTHIA TERZIA was hostess for lunch and the movies. MARY ELIZABETH TAYLOR invited a party of six for swimming and lunch at Bayou DeSiard country club Saturday.

Last Friday evening Jibby and Larry honored their visitor at a picnic supper party in the garden of their home. Volleyball, badminton, and other outdoor games were on the program. Bottled drinks were served from buckets of ice and hamburgers cooked in the yard for eleven girls who attended.

Missy's grandmother MRS. J. N. LANGFORD, mother NAN MITCHELL, and sister MARY carne in Thursday afternoon for a brief stay before taking Missy home yesterday . . . . . Friday morning Jibby invited a group of friends for a visit with her mother and sister. Guests gathered at the home of IRENE FOX on Riverside Drive for coffee and lady-talk.

A family style houseparty was that at the DICK TOUCHSTONE'S last weekend, when Georgie's sister and her family, BILLIE and HARRY BARTON, DANA SARA, and HARRY were here from Baton Rouge. Friday night the hosts had the rest of the family for a barbecue supper at home: HORTENSE TOUCHSTONE; the KURT TOUCHSTONES, HELEN, JAN, and KURT; JESSIE LEE LAMB, J. LEE, and TOUCH, from Cookeville, Tenn. . . . . Jan entertained all the girls in the group for swimming and lunch at Bayou DeSiard country club on Saturday.

The CORBIN TURPINS and the BOBBY OLIVERS invited Touchstones and Bartons, grown - ups and children together, for Sunday brunch at the Turpin home on Point Drive. From eleven a.m. on, buffet was set up on the dining room table, with guests serving themselves when ready. On the menu were ham, roast beef, assorted cheeses, baked beans, green salad, assorted relishes.

A charming party this week was a surprise for MRS. E. F. HAYWARD on her seventy-fifth birthday Tuesday. Daughters ANN STONE and ANNELIES HAYWARD were hostesses at the Stone home. An all-green arrangement decorated the entrance hall for the occasion, while a pink and white centerpiece of snapdragons and gardenias was placed on the dining table . . . . . The tea table was set up in the family room, where about twenty-five guests, close friends of the honoree, gathered. The punch bowl which centered the table was encircled with tapers nesting in low white nosegays. Sandwiches and cookies were served with the punch.

Another birthday party of the week was that given by the JOE GOYNES, JR., for his mother, MRS. JOE GOYNE, SR., Sunday afternoon. Guests ranged in age from the early teens up to ninety - three years of age. The honoree's cousin, NELL PERCY, was up from Winnsboro for this affair. MINTA GOYNE and LAURIE BREARD assisted Betty in serving ice cream and cake.

Auld acquaintance got together Thursday morning when DOT MAXWELL entertained at a coffee party honoring newcomers CAROL CUDD, CLAIRE BROWN, and MARIAN COLVIN. Hostess, honorees, and twenty-five guests who attended have all moved to Monroe from Rayville and Delhi in the past few years. Yellow carnations were used in the centerpiece in the dining room, and on a side table, LULA GUY poured coffee, which was served with cookies and tiny sandwiches.

Visitors in the home of the ED LOHANS have been the JOHN LOHANS and MARY COLLINS of Opelousas, and the RAY WILLIAMS and son TOMMY of Portage, Ohio.

After a week in New Orleans and on the coast at Waveland, Mississippi, MAIDYE JEAN STRICKLAND brought home her hostess there, MISSY VILLERE, for a week here. They arrived Sunday and were joined Thursday night by WILLIAM HELIS DROULIA and LEON OLIVERA of New Orleans. Maidye Jean was hostess at an informal party for her visitors Friday night. Five couples attended the affair at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Members of Bayou DeSiard country club are anticipating this coming Saturday night's Las Vegas party. The evening's tariff of four dollars per couple will buy several hundred dollars in chips to play roulette, black jack, poker, and craps; as well as buffet supper. Prizes will be awarded for the best costume (Las Vegas style), as well as to winners in the games. The Dukes will play for dancing in the main ballroom.

Today's poem is by Kay Daub:

If sorrow never happened
And trouble never came.
The only thing you'd know about
Your neighbor is his name.
If all your days were bright and fair
And certain was your place.
You'd only know a fellow
By the features of his face.
Acquaintances upon this earth
Are all you'd ever own.
If cares had always passed you by
And grief you'd never known.

Time was I used to nod at one
Who lived across the way:
I knew his face and he knew mine
We passed the time of day.
But nothing did he mean to me.
And nothing I to him.
Until one day sorrow came
And all the world was grim.
I saw his face, I felt his hand,
And knew he'd come to lend
The strength I needed, and right then
I found I had a friend.

'Tis not in sunshine friends are made,
But when the skies are gray;
The splendid souls that men possess
Are never on display.
We cannot tell what lies behind
The hasty nod or smile.
We only know that when we face
The cares that life must send.
Or what of worth will come of it
In just a little while.
We realize the passer-by
Was changed into a friend."

Miss Whitlock, Mr. Brame Pledge Vows

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Friday, July 21, in Riverside Bible church of Fort Worth, Texas, Miss Beverly Jean Whitlock became the bride of George Steven Brame. The Rev. Lee Miles officiated at the exchange of vows at eight in the evening.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Lorene Flemings of Fort Worth and W. T. Whitlock of 1110 Jackson street, Monroe. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. C. A. Keeman and George H. Brame of Fort Worth.

The ceremony was performed in a setting of greenery and baskets of gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Juanita Scott, organist, and Miss Ola Miles, soloist, who sang, "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length gown of white lace and chiffon over taffeta. The cowl neckline of chiffon extended into floating panels at the back. She carried an orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. J. L. Erwin, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink taffeta with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of feathered carnations with streamers of net and ribbon. Miss Sandra Kay Elliott, bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue taffeta with matching headdress and carried feathered carnations.

J. L. Erwin served as best man and Tommy Baker was groomsman. Joe Dale Flemings, the bride's brother, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table, covered with taffeta overlaid with cream lace, was centered with a basket of white gladioli.

Mrs. D. L. McCullough, aunt of the bride, served the cake, and Mrs. D. D. Jernigan, cousin of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Barbara Huffman had charge of the guest book.

After a short trip, the couple will reside in Fort Worth.

MISS GERALDINE WALTERS

Craig-Walters Vows Planned August 18

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Walters of Crowville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to MacKenzie W. Craig, son of Mrs. Cynthia Craig of Jacksonville, Florida.

The wedding will be an event of August 18 at the Crowville Baptist Church. The Rev. William O. Busby, Jr. will perform the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The couple will make their home in Monroe, where they are both attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Teenage Styles Range From Pixie To Conservative

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contemporary teenage girls fall into one of nine fashion categories.

The experts who say so are Eleanor Lambert and Isabel Brady, New York fashion authorities. They wrote a new fashion for young America, "your Dream Wardrobe."

The guide is one of a series of fashion primers issued as a consumer service by the union label program of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Following are the fashion prescriptions for the various types:

Girl-Next-Door: Simple, classic styles, perhaps boy-coats or shirtwaist dresses, with the air of the ingenue about them. Examples: sweet, pretty ginghams, small checks, dainty prints, blouses and skirts in fresh colors: a well-scrubbed look, with hair, makeup and accessories that compliment this look.

Pixie: Clothes that are fun, with touches of whimsy in coiffure, and accessories, like the pixie haircut and fun-hats, amusing printed blouses and "mad" sweaters; costume jewelry that is gay.

Dreamy, Romantic: Lovely, soft colors and fabrics are this girl's special cup of tea—deep, rich reds and purples or pale lilacs, deep pinks silks and satins and richly printed cottons or patternel wools. Hooded coats or jackets, stoles and exotic scarves suit her even in sports clothes or on the beach she will look her type in soft colors.

Outdoor Girl: Casual, easy styles are this girl's fashion or linen — paired with interesting tops and a big pin on a pocket, lots of gold bracelets.

Sophisticated: This is the city girl at heart who believes in fashion perfection and the very newest styles. Sleek, slim silhouettes, the little nothing dress, very sophisticated hits and perhaps a bright red coat suit her.

Individualist: This girl has a lot of the pixie in her but she's careful not to look beatnik or sloppy. Mainly she achieves her individual look by combining the basic elements of her wardrobe in unusual ways. She makes her own fashion.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple In Natchez

A nuptial Mass in St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral on Saturday, July the twenty-ninth united in marriage Miss Audley Lucia Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Joseph Stone, of Natchez, and Jerome Stephen Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Diamond Shine Young of Lafayette. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Thomas Fullam, pastor of St. Mary's Cathedral, officiated at the double ring ceremony at five-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, was given in marriage by him. Miss Margaret McClure Waits of Shreveport, was the maid of honor, and matrons of honor were Mrs. Walter Galloway Green, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Charles Ralston Byrnes, Jr., both sisters of the bride. Bridesmaids were: Mrs. Hewlett Willard, and Miss Peggy Kenda, both of Natchez, and Miss Lucille Prejean, cousin of the bridegroom, of Lafayette.

Edwina Britton Green, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and serving as ring bearer was Joseph Westrich Green, the bride's nephew.

Mr. Young attended his son as best man, and groomsmen were August Joseph Stone, Jr., brother of the bride; Woodrow Prejean, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, of Lafayette; Clint Pierson, Jr., Baton Rouge; Jerry Stovall, West Monroe; and James Ingram, Jr., Lafayette. Serving as ushers were: Walter Galloway Green, Jr., Atlanta; Thomas Rodgers, Lafayette; and Charles Ralston Byrnes, Jr. Natchez.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Carriage House at Stanton Hall. After the reception the young couple left on a wedding trip to Nassau and points in Flordia. Upon their return they will make their home in Baton Rouge, where the bridegroom attends Louisiana State University.

Miss Judy Aline Sanford Weds Bobby Ray Halley

Miss Judy Aline Sanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Harley of Rayville, was married July 25 to Bobby Ray Halley, son of Mrs. Reese Halley and the late Mr. Halley of Delhi.

The Rev. Fred Keyes, pastor of Eastside Baptist church in Rayville, and the Rev. Fred Feazell of West Monroe officiated at the double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Rayville at seven-thirty in the evening.

Myriads of gleaming cathdral candlabra in wrought iron candelabra formed a background for a large pedestal urn overflowing with white galdioli, and standards of specimen philodendron.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Mary Ann Cumpton of Rayville provided a concert of nuptial music. She accompanied Mrs. Fred Keyes, who sang "O Promise Me" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white satin appliqued with panels of lace on the full skirt which fell into a chapel train. The bodice of white lace over satin featured a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. A tiara of seed pearls held the veil of nylon tulle. The bridal bouquet was a triangular arrangement of tube roses and white satin leaves centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Bridesmaids were Miss DeeDee Owens of Rayville, and Miss Linda Halley, sister of the groom. Miss Linda Harley, the bride's sister, and Miss Ann Nowlin of Rayville were junior bridesmaids. Their dresses of lavender organza were styled like that of the maid of honor, and they carried yellow crescent-shaped bouquets.

Jean Stell and Rhonda Richardson, flower girls, wore pale pink organza frocks and carried lavender petals in white straw baskets.

Charles Clark of Delhi, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Bobby Charrier and Francis Thompson of Delhi, and Lynn and Glenn Copeland of Rayville.

Mrs. Harley selected for her daughter's wedding a two piece dress of ice blue lace with matching accessories, and a corsage of blue cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Halley, the groom's mother, chose a two piece dress of lime green lace with matching accessories and a green orchid corsage.

Mrs. Carol Gustin presided at the registry of wedding guests at the church.

Yellow chrysanthemums and white dwarf zinnias filled the silver bowl which centered the lace-covered bride's table. Four white candles were interspersed among the flowers. Mrs. Jewel Kelly, aunt of the bride, served punch.

Yellow roses encircled the tiered wedding cake, iced in white and yellow roses, and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Rebecca Nowlin served cake. Tea girls were Misses Sue Graves, Eddie Sue Sorey, and Odwina Fusilier.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Gladys Freeland of Bastrop; Mrs. John B. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Copeland, and Miss Olita Bennett of Start; Mrs. Stanley G. Futch, the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Feazell, Mrs. Rube Halley, Vera Emerel and Ruby Lee Robertson and Mrs. Lelia Whitten of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Larry O'Brien, Mary Catherine Woodard, Cheryl Strain, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Charrier, Johnny Hopper, Mrs. M. E. Gay, Nancy Jo Snider, Marilyn Bryant, Sammy Charriet, Bobby McKay, Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Gayle Wren, Mrs. Kathryn Hopper, Louise Harkey, Helen Stell, and the Rev. and Mrs. W. V. Simon of Delhi.

Revelers Party Has Summer Cruise Theme

A Nautical theme prevailed in the Paragon Ballroom on Saturday night, July 29, when the Revelers' entertained at their mid-summer informal dance. Invitations had been sent to the members inviting them "to a summer cruise on the S.S. Reveler, dancing to the music of Jerry Lane and his orchestra."

At the entrance was placed a large travel poster to set the theme. Guests registered at a table covered with baggage tags and luggage stickers. In the ballroom gaily colored flags were suspended from the ceiling. Larger yellow flags encircled the bandstand. Behind the orchestra bright eye-catching travel posters were attached to the wall. Further carrying out the nautical theme, white life preservers were noted at various points throughout the room. Members and their guests were seated at individual tables centered with gaily colored candles and travel brochures.

At intermission hors d'oeuvre were served in the Fireside Room. The buffet table was placed flat against the wall with a picturesque Japanese screen serving as the focal point.

The executive committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr.

Members attending the dance were: Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bagwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Seymour, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Salley, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Girl Scout News

Families of almost all of the 154 second session Pine Wood day campers were present for the camp-closing activities. For some visitors it was their first trip; for many more it was the fifth, sixth, or even seventh that their daughters had been enrolled. Groups ate picnic suppers on the grounds. At 6:30 campers lined up for the final lowering of the flag. In a big horseshoe around the flagpole, campers sang "O Beautiful Banner" and repeated the Girl Scout Promise. Looking very smart in their camp uniforms and wearing red sashes to set them apart for the honor, a color guard and bearer of Campcraft Hill unit lowered the flag and folded it.

Campers then filed into the campfire circle while visitors sat around on the grass. Presiding over the campfire program was Diane Haley, Senior Scout. Gay Gannaway and Kathy Coon of Campcraft Hill, winners of a unit fire building contest, lighted the campfire while the campers sang "Rise Up, O Flame". Barbara Kurtz and Jennifer Davis chosen in try - outs open to Intermediate units, welcomed guests and introduced the council president and board members.

Leaders presented cards showing badge work accomplished as follows: Pioneer and Wild Plant, Century Oak campers, Mrs. J. L. Davidson; Campcraft, Outdoor Cook and Mammal, Campcraft Hill, Mrs. John M. Edwards, leader; Wild Plant and Rambler to the Foot Traveler Unit, Tree Badge to Trail's End and Whispering Pines unit, Mrs. Carter Ackel and Mrs. J. C. Coon, leaders.

The Senior units out - of - camp primitive experience was so special that we're saving the details for a later column. Becky Middleton told visitors and campers their three - day camp. In addition to the five Intermediate and one Senior unit, the three Brownie units were introduced. Singing of favorite folk songs and a good-night song concluded the campfire program at dusk.

Century Oak campers set up tents for two nights in a far corner of camp, with Mrs. J. L. Davidson and Mrs. Woodrow Downs as leaders. A hard rain Thursday afternoon found their tents properly ditched and securely fastened, so that campers were able to sleep in them, after al.

For the first time, two units chose activities from the Foot Traveler badge. Of course, they knew they couldn't walk one hundred miles (a starred requirement) during camp, but will enjoy doing that later. One girl has enlisted her mother's interest and they are enjoying a walk of a mile or more each evening. The two units combined for an all day hike to the river by way of the gravel pits and back to camp across country.

From all accounts, the camp lived up to its objective of progressively adventurous experiences in the out - of - doors.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES EDWARD MERCER

Vows Pledged By Miss Riley Mr. Mercer

Wedding vows of Miss Darlene Riley and Charles Edward Mercer were exchanged on Friday, July 28, at 8 o'clock in the evening in Temple Baptist Church in Winnsboro. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Riley of Winnsboro and Mr. Mercer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Mercer of Baskin.

The Rev. Hershel Clanton officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Tall white flocked salal trees and floor standards of white gladioli and silver leaves formed the background for the wedding. Seven branch candelabra covered with white leaves and pink satin bows held the tall cathedral tapers which illuminated the altar and background. On the memorial table a large white pedestal bowl of pale pink gladioli and silver leather leaf fern was the focal point. At the base of the arrangement was an open Bible, backed by two seven branch candelabra holding pale pink tapers. The aisles were marked with aisle candlebras holdink pink candles, white flocked leaves and pink bows.

Miss Frances Stokes presented pre - nuptial music and accompanied for E. T. McClung who sang "Because", "The Sweetest Story Ever told" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original bridal gown of traditional white styled of imported chantilly lace over bridal satin, embroidered pearls and rhinestones. The full skirt and the chapel train had inserts of lace. Her veil was held in place by tiara of pearls and crystal teardrops. She carried a heart shaped pearl covered frame of white cymbidiums with pearl roping.

Miss Linda Milby, maid of honor, wore a pink nylon tulle styled with a pink satin cumberbund. Her headpiece was of pink flowers and matching tulle, and her shoes were dyed to match. She carried a cascade bouquet of orchids with pearl heart and pink satin ribbon.

Miss Martha Thomas wearing an orchid dress similar in style to the maid of honor, served as bridesmaid. Misses Jean Thomas and Janice Thomas, junior bridesmaids, wore identical dresses. They carried pink carnations with white berries and orchid satin ribbon in a cascade bouquet.

J. W. Mercer was best man and Wayne Searcy was ring bearer. James Searcy, Russell Faulk, Ralph Thomas and George Noble were ushers.

The reception was held in the recreation rooms of the church following the service. Guests registered at a table adorned with a large white memory candle and an arrangement of pink carnations and silver leaves.

The bridal table was in a L-shape and was overlaid with a white lace cloth over pink. At one end was the crystal punch service and on the opposite end was the tiered wedding cake. The centerpiece for the table was a wrought iron candelabra covered with clusters of white grapes and holding pink tapers. The bridesmaid bouquets were used at the base of the candelabra.

Out - of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Vernice Crockett and Miss Penny Crockett of Crossett Ark., Mrs. Eunice Huhn, Patsy and Carolyn, Orange, Texas; Mrs. Patrick McCaffry, Vicksburg, Miss; Howard L. Russell, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith, Linda Sue and Miss Sylvia Smith of Harrisonburg; Vera Deville Ville Platte; Mr. and Mrs. N. Hawthorne, W. Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Mercer, Jr., and Sharrel of Vicksburg, Miss.; J. W. Mercer, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Westerburg and children of Melboure, Fla. Miss Adelea Percy and Jimmy Davis of Afon Villa, Bains; Mrs. Jesse Weston, Judy and Carolyn, Mrs. Ruth Guilbert and Ann, Mrs. Wilburn Thomas, Mangham; Mrs. A. C. Bowden and Carole Noble of Oak Grove; Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Gilliam and daughter of Mangham; Mrs. Grace West and Mrs. Gladys Oxley of Lake Providence.

Garnish

Small pickled onions in the house? They taste good when they are used as a garnish for deviled eggs.

You can thaw frozen meat either in the refrigerator or at room temperature, but don't try to refreeze it.

Wedding In Houston Claims Interest Here

Claiming interest in this area is the wedding in Houston, Texas, of Miss Gay Shlenker and Gus Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Block of Houston. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Shlenker of Houston and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of Monroe. The marriage was solemnized by Rabbi Hyman Judah Schachtel at Temple Beth Israel on Saturday evening, July 22.

Mr. Shlenker gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory silk taffeta, overlaid with tulle and Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. The tulle bodice featured a scoop neckline and cumberbund of satin accenting the waistline. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a coif of illusion petals and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

For something old, the bride wore a diamond bowknot pin worn by her grandmother on her wedding day. The pin was Mr. Masur's gift to his bride fifty years ago.

Mrs. Sidney Shlenker was her sister - in - law's honor attendant. Bridesmaids included Misses Harriet Gordon, Gadsden, Ala., Barbara Frost, Brenda Frucht, Stephanie Gordon, Louise Landesman, Alice Werlin and Carole Sue Kaliski (of Houston) and Mrs. Wm. Mimeles, New Orleans. They wore floor length gowns of misty green tulle and matching bandeaus of flowers and nose tip veils. They carried French nosegay bouquets in flowers shading from pink, mauve to violet.

Mr. Block was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Michael Abrahm, the groom's cousin, Sidney Shlenker, the bride's brother, Simon Shlenker, III, the bride's cousin of New Orleans, Julius Desenberg, Kenneth Margolis Jerry Feld, Larry Joseph, Galveston, Freddie Harkavey, and Harvey Lewis, all of Houston.

A reception followed at the Westwood Country Club.

The couple went to Acapulco and Mexico City on their honeymoon. They will make their home in Houston after the groom has finished his six-months' service in the Army.

The bride attended Newcomb College where she was affiliated with Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority. The groom is a graduate of the University of Texas and the University's Law School. His fraternities are Phi Sigma Delta and Phi Delta Phi. He is a member of the Order of Coif and was Grand Chancellor of the Law School.

Add Spinach

Miss Whitlock, Mr. Brame Pledge Vows

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Friday, July 21, in Riverside Bible church of Fort Worth, Texas, Miss Beverly Jean Whitlock became the bride of George Steven Brame. The Rev. Lee Miles officiated at the exchange of vows at eight in the evening.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Lorene Flemings of Fort Worth and W. T. Whitlock of 1110 Jackson street, Monroe. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. C. A. Keeman and George H. Brame of Fort Worth.

The ceremony was performed in a setting of greenery and baskets of gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Juanita Scott, organist, and Miss Ola Miles, soloist, who sang, "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length gown of white lace and chiffon over taffeta. The cowl neckline of chiffon extended into floating panels at the back. She carried an orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. J. L. Erwin, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink taffeta with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of feathered carnations with streamers of net and ribbon. Miss Sandra Kay Elliott, bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue taffeta with matching headdress and carried feathered carnations.

J. L. Erwin served as best man and Tommy Baker was groomsman. Joe Dale Flemings, the bride's brother, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table, covered with taffeta overlaid with cream lace, was centered with a basket of white gladioli.

Mrs. D. L. McCullough, aunt of the bride, served the cake, and Mrs. D. D. Jernigan, cousin of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Barbara Huffman had charge of the guest book.

After a short trip, the couple will reside in Fort Worth.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple In Natchez

A nuptial Mass in St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral on Saturday, July the twenty-ninth united in marriage Miss Audley Lucia Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Joseph Stone, of Natchez, and Jerome Stephen Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Diamond Shine Young of Lafayette. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Thomas Fullam, pastor of St. Mary's Cathedral, officiated at the double ring ceremony at five-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, was given in marriage by him. Miss Margaret McClure Waits of Shreveport, was the maid of honor, and matrons of honor were Mrs. Walter Galloway Green, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Charles Ralston Byrnes, Jr., both sisters of the bride. Bridesmaids were: Mrs. Hewlett Willard, and Miss Peggy Kenda, both of Natchez, and Miss Lucille Prejean, cousin of the bridegroom, of Lafayette.

Edwina Britton Green, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and serving as ring bearer was Joseph Westrich Green, the bride's nephew.

Mr. Young attended his son as best man, and groomsmen were August Joseph Stone, Jr., brother of the bride; Woodrow Prejean, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, of Lafayette; Clint Pierson, Jr., Baton Rouge; Jerry Stovall, West Monroe; and James Ingram, Jr., Lafayette. Serving as ushers were: Walter Galloway Green, Jr., Atlanta; Thomas Rodgers, Lafayette; and Charles Ralston Byrnes, Jr. Natchez.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Carriage House at Stanton Hall. After the reception the young couple left on a wedding trip to Nassau and points in Flordia. Upon their return they will make their home in Baton Rouge, where the bridegroom attends Louisiana State University.

Craig-Walters Vows Planned August 18

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Walters of Crowville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Mac Kenzie W. Craig, son of Mrs. Cynthia Craig of Jacksonville, Florida.

The wedding will be an event of August 18 at the Crossville Baptist Church. The Rev. William O. Busby, Jr. will perform the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The couple will make their home in Monroe, where they are both attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Teenage Styles Range From Pixie To Conservative

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contemporary teenage girls fall into one of nine fashion categories.

The experts who say so are Eleanor Lambert and Isabel Brady, New York fashion authorities. They wrote a new fashion for young America, "Your Dream Wardrobe."

The guide is one of a series of fashion primers issued as a consumer service by the union label program of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Following are the fashion prescriptions for the various types:

Girl-Next-Door: Simple, classic styles, perhaps boy-coats or shirtwaist dresses, with the air of the ingenue about them. Examples: sweet, pretty ginghams, small checks, dainty prints. Blouses and skirts in fresh colors, a well-scrubbed look, with hair, makeup and accessories that compliment this look.

Pixie: Clothes that are fun with touches of whimsy in coiffure and accessories, like the pixie haircut and fun-hats, amusing printed blouses and "mad" sweaters, costume jewelry that is gay.

Dreamy, Romantic: Lovely, soft colors and fabrics are this girl's special cup of tea—deep, rich reds and purples or pale lilacs, deep pinks silks and satins and richly printed cottons or patternel wools. Hooded coats or jackets, stoles and exotic scarves suit her even in sports clothes or on the beach she will look her type in soft colors.

Outdoor Girl: Casual, easy styles are this girl's fashion or linen — paired with interesting tops and a big pin on a jacket, lots of gold bracelets.

Sophisticated: This is the city girl at heart who believes in fashion perfection and the very newest styles. Sleek, slim silhouettes, the little nothing dress, very sophisticated hits and perhaps a bright red coat suit her.

Individualist: This girl has a lot of the pixie in her but she's careful not to look beatnik or sloppy. Mainly she achieves her individual look by combining the basic elements of her wardrobe in unusual ways. She makes her own fashion.

MRS. CLIVE POSEY, JR.

Mr. Posey Claims Bride In Denham Springs Ceremony

In a ceremony on Friday morning, July 21st; Miss Ouida Lee Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tullie Brady Milton of Walker, became the bride of Clive Cecil Posey Jr., son of the senior Poseys of Morris, Alabama. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony, held in the First Methodist Church of Denham Springs, was the Reverend J. M. Wilkes, brother-in-law of the bride.

On each side of the altar were placed tall baskets of pink gladioli and white stock, while on the communion center the flowers were repeated in a horizontal arrangement, flanked by tall tapers. Mrs. James DeLaune, cousin of the bride, presented a nuptial concert of Bach chorales during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of white silk organza, featuring a scoop neckline and demi-sleeves. The waist was accented with an embroidered cummerbund and the embroidery was repeated on the bouffant skirt. Her head dress was a cornw of pearls and sequins, with a half-veil of white tulle. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink sweetheart roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. J. M. Wilkes served as her sister's attendant and chose for the occasion a pale pink linen sheath, featuring cutwork on the bodice. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

Gene Cobb of Baton Rouge was Mr. Posey's best man, and serving as ushers were Jack Allen Watson and Lester K. Brannon, brother of the bride.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents in Walker followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with pink net over a white linen cloth, was centered with a vertical arrangement of pink gladioli and white stock with white candles on either side. Serving the wedding cake was Mrs. Lester K. Brannon, sister-in-law of the bride, and presiding at the coffee service was Miss Connie Milton, the bride's aunt.

For her wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the newly-married Mrs. Posey changed to a costume suit of turquoise ratine, with a black velvet pillbox hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Posey is a graduate of Southeastern Louisiana College and holds the Master of Music degree from L.S.U. She is a former resident of Newellton where she was a member of the high school faculty for several years.

Mr. Posey attended the University of Alabama and served with the Marine Air Force in Korea as a pilot. He formerly resided in Monroe, where he was in business before his transfer to Baton Rouge.

Tin Antiquity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Early American tinware, widely collected by antique lovers, was first made in the United States in Berlin, Conn., in 1738.

Founders of the tinware industry, reports the New York Antiques Fair, were two brothers from County Tyrone in Ireland. Berlin soon became the center of the thriving tinware industry and remained so until 1850.

MISS CHARLENE CORRERO

Wedding Plans Told By Miss Correro, Mr. Slakter

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Correro of Monroe of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Charlene, and Daniel Olin Slakter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Carl Slakter, also of Monroe.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, August 19, at nine o'clock in the morning. The Rev. Father Michael Hannon will hear the vows in St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Miss Correro has chosen Miss Betty Rose Haddad as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Douglas Haynes, Miss Joellen Thompson, and Miss Carol Slakter.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Correro, all of Monroe. She is a graduate of St. Matthews High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college.

J. C. Clark is to be Mr. Slakter's best man. Ushers will be Floyd Chaney, Carmel Miller, and Richard Artry.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES EDWARD MERCER

Vows Pledged By Miss Riley Mr. Mercer

Wedding vows of Miss Darlene Riley and Charles Edward Mercer were exchanged on Friday, July 28, at 8 o'clock in the evening in Temple Baptist Church in Winnsboro. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Riley of Winnsboro and Mr. Mercer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Mercer of Baskin.

The Rev. Hershel Clanton officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Tall white flocked salal trees and floor standards of white gladioli and silver leaves formed the background for the wedding. Seven branch candelabra covered with white leaves and pink satin bows held the tall cathedral tapers which illuminated the altar and background. On the memorial table a large white pedestal bowl of pale pink gladioli and silver leather leaf fern was the focal point. At the base of the arrangement was an open Bible, backed by two seven branch candelabra holding pale pink tapers. The aisles were marked with aisle candlebras, holdink pink candles, white flocked leaves and pink bows.

Miss Frances Stokes presented pre - nuptial music and accompanied for E. T. McClung who sang "Because", "The Sweetest Story Ever told" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original bridal gown of traditional white styled of imported chantilly lace over bridal satin, embroidered pearls and rhinestones. The full skirt and the chapel train had inserts of lace. Her veil was held in place by tiara of pearls and crystal teardrops. She carried a heart shaped pearl covered frame of white cymbidiums with pearl roping.

Miss Linda Milby, maid of honor, wore a pink nylon tulle styled with a pink satin cummerbund. Her headpiece was of pink flowers and matching tulle, and her shoes were dyed to match. She carried a cascade bouquet of orchids with pearl heart and pink satin ribbon.

Miss Martha Thomas wearing an orchid dress simular in style to the maid of honor, served as bridesmaid. Misses Jean Thomas and Janice Thomas, junior bridesmaids, wore identical dresses. They carried pink carnations with white berries and orchid satin ribbon in a cascade bouquet.

J. W. Mercer was best man and Wayne Searcy was ring bearer. James Searcy, Russell Faulk, Ralph Thomas and George Noble were ushers.

The reception was held in the recreation rooms of the church following the service. Guests registered at a table adorned with a large white memory candle and an arrangement of pink carnations and silver leaves.

The bridal table was in a L-shape and was overlaid with a white lace cloth over pink. At one end was the crystal punch service and on the opposite end was the tiered wedding cake. The centerpiece for the table was a wrought iron candelabra covered with clusters of white grapes and holding pink tapers. The bridesmaid bouquets were used at the base of the candelabra.

Out - of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Vernice Crockett and Miss Penny Crockett of Crossett Ark., Mrs. Eunice Huhn, Patsy and Carolyn, Orange, Texas; Mrs. Patrick McCaffry, Vicksburg, Miss; Howard L. Russell, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith, Linda Sue and Miss Sylvia Smith of Harrisonburg; Vera Deville Ville Platte; Mr. and Mrs. N. Hawthorne, W. Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Mercer, Jr., and Sharrel of Vicksburg, Miss.; J. W. Mercer, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Westerburg and children of Melboure, Fla. Miss Adeica Percy and Jimmy Davis of Afon Villa, Bains; Mrs. Jesse Weston, Judy and Carolyn, Mrs. Ruth Guilbert and Ann, Mrs. Wilburn Thomas, Mangham; Mrs. A. C. Bowden and Carole Noble of Oak Grove, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Gilliam and daughter of Mangham; Mrs. Grace West and Mrs. Gladys Oxley of Lake Providence.

Garnish

Small pickled onions in the house? They taste good when they are used as a garnish for deviled eggs.

You can thaw frozen meat either in the refrigerator or at room temperature, but don't try to refreeze it.

Wedding In Houston Claims Interest Here

Claiming interest in this area is the wedding in Houston, Texas, of Miss Gay Shlenker and Gus Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Block of Houston. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Shlenker of Houston and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of Monroe. The marriage was solemnized by Rabbi Hyman Judah Schachtel at Temple Beth Israel on Saturday evening, July 22.

Mr. Shlenker gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory silk taffeta, overlaid with tulle and Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. The tulle bodice featured a scoop neckline and cumberbund of satin accenting the waistline. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a coif of illusion petals and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

For something old, the bride wore a diamond bowknot pin worn by her grandmother on her wedding day. The pin was Mr. Masur's gift to his bride fifty years ago.

Mrs. Sidney Shlenker was her sister - in - law's honor attendant. Bridesmaids included Misses Harriet Gordon, Gadsden, Ala., Barbara Frost, Brenda Frucht, Stephanie Gordon, Louise Landesman, Alice Werlin and Carole Sue Kaliski (of Houston) and Mrs. Wm. Mimeles, New Orleans. They wore floor length gowns of misty green tulle and matching bandeaus of flowers and nose tip veils. They carried French nosegay bouquets in flowers shading from pink, mauve to violet.

Mr. Block was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Michael Abrahm, the groom's cousin, Sidney Shlenker, the bride's brother, Simon Shlenker, III, the bride's cousin of New Orleans, Julius Desenberg, Kenneth Margolis Jerry Feld, Larry Joseph, Galveston, Freddie Harkavey, and Harvey Lewis, all of Houston.

A reception followed at the Westwood Country Club.

The couple went to Acapulco and Mexico City on their honeymoon. They will make their home in Houston after the groom has finished his six-months' service in the Army.

The bride attended Newcomb College where she was affiliated with Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority. The groom is a graduate of the University of Texas and the University's Law School. His fraternities are Phi Sigma Delta and Phi Delta Phi. He is a member of the Order of Coif and was Grand Chancellor of the Law School.

Add Spinach

Miss Watson, Mr. Prince Pledge Vows

St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Ferriday was the setting Saturday afternoon, the twenty-ninth of July for the wedding of Miss Betty Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Anding, of Ferriday, and Edward H. Prince, son of Mrs. Inez Prince, of Natchez, and the late Captain Edward H. Prince. The Rev. John Gayer, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring rites at two-thirty o'clock p.m.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Anding, of Ferriday. The matron of honor was Mrs. Warren McDaniel of Natchez, Miss.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his brother, George B. Prince of Natchez and ushers were Robert Easley and Vernon Ray Stevens, of Natchez.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at Brocato's Dining Room.

MR. AND MRS. REGNAL E WALLACE

Couple Plan Home In West Monroe

At the First Baptist church in Tallulah on Sunday July 23 at four o'clock Miss Carolyn Jean Godfrey and Regnal Edward Wallace of West Monroe were united in marriage. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Godfrey of Tallulah and Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Wallace of Crowville. The Rev. Jimmy Shepherd of Basking officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Tall baskets of white gladioli, mums, and magnolia foliage with a background of floor candelabra holding white cathedral candles decorated the marriage scene. David Godfrey, brother of the bride and James McClure served as candle lighters.

The nuptial music was played by Mrs. J. E. Courtney. She accompanied William C. Windham who sang "Because" and as a benediction at the conclusion of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride had as her only attendant, Miss Virginia Earle, who wore a teal blue chiffon waltz length dress, white headdress and white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length dress of lace and net over taffeta fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, with fitted bodice, the waist line designed with a point in front, long sleeves ending in petal points. The full skirt had a pleated insert of net in front and was finished with wide streamers of self fabric at the waist line in the back. Around her neck was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her short veil fell from a scalloped band of lace and pearls and she carried a bouquet of carnations and rosebuds centered with a white orchid.

ford Wallace served his brother as best man and the ushers were Bilbo Wilson and Mike Mitchell both of Tallulah.

Mrs. Godfrey, for her daughter's wedding, chose a blue lace sheath complemented with a corsage of white glamellias. Mrs. Wallace, the groom's mother was also attired in blue and she had a similar corsage.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church which was decorated with white flowers and greenery. The refreshment table, presided over by Miss Patricia Dykes who served punch and Miss Jane Gunn, who served the wedding cake, was centered with the bridesmaid's bouquet.

When the couple left for a trip to Biloxi, Miss., Mrs. Wallace was wearing a blue sheath of polished cotton, white accessories and an orchid from her bridal bouquet. On their return they will reside in West Monroe.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Tallulah High School and Mr. Wallace graduated at Crowville High School and Louisiana College.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alexander, Lance and Layne Alexander of Oil City, La., Mrs. Bessie Jenkins and Mrs. M. A. Godfrey of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford of Crowville, Miss Carolyn Gwin of Winnsboro and Mr. and rs. A. D. Godfrey of Brookhaven, Miss.

Ex-Instructor In Air Force Here As Pastor

Carl B. Robinson will be returning to familiar scenes when he comes to Monroe this week, but his mission will be of a different nature.

During World War II, Robinson was stationed at Selman Field as an instructor in the Air Force school of navigation. Meredith Johnson, minister for the College Town Church of Christ and long time friend of Robinson, said that in a way, Robinson is still teaching "celestial navigation". He is simply using a different "text book."

At the present time he is minister for the Green St. Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn., where he resides with his wife, Frankie and two children.

Robinson will be the featured speaker in a series of Bible lectures each evening at 7:30 in the auditorium of the College Town Church of Christ, 3605 DeSiard Street, today through Friday.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Split-level homes have much to recommend them.

But they have their drawbacks. Here are the chief pros and cons.

—Split-levels have more usable and accessible space than two-story houses with the same total area.

—Living, sleeping and recreation-utility areas in the split-level are definite and separate compared with those in a ranch house.

—Good interior circulation patterns eliminate most cross-traffic in a split-level.

MRS. CLIVE POSEY, JR.

Mr. Posey Claims Bride In Denham Springs Ceremony

In a ceremony on Friday morning, July 21st, Miss Ouida Lee Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tullie Brady Milton of Walker, became the bride of Clive Cecil Posey Jr., son of the senior Poseys of Morris, Alabama. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony, held in the First Methodist Church of Denham Springs, was the Reverend J. M.. Wilkes, brother-in-law of the bride.

On each side of the altar were placed tall baskets of pink gladioli and white stock, while on the communion center the flowers were repeated in a horizontal arrangement, flanked by tall tapers. Mrs. James DeLaune, cousin of the bride, presented a nuptial concert of Bach chorales during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of white silk organza, featuring a scoop neckline and demi-sleeves. The waist was accented with an embroidered cummerbund and the embroidery was repeated on the bouffant skirt. Her head dress was a cornw of pearls and sequins, with a half-veil of white tulle. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink sweetheart roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. J. M. Wilkes served as her sister's attendant and chose for the occasion a pale pink linen sheath, featuring cutwork on the bodice. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

Gene Cobb of Baton Rouge was Mr. Posey's best man, and serving as ushers were Jack Allen Watson and Lester K. Brannon, brother of the bride.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents in Walker followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with pink net over a white linen cloth, was centered with a vertical arrangement of pink gladioli and white stock with white candles on either side. Serving the wedding cake was Mrs. Lester K. Brannon, sister-in-law of the bride, and presiding at the coffee service was Miss Connie Milton, the bride's aunt.

For her wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the newly-married Mrs. Posey changed to a costume suit of turquoise ratine, with a black velvet pillbox hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses.

Mrs Posey is a graduate of Southeastern Louisiana College and holds the Master of Music degree from L.S.U. She is a former resident of Newellton where she was a member of the high school faculty for several years.

Mr. Posey attended the University of Alabama and served with the Marine Air Force in Korea as a pilot. He formerly resided in Monroe, where he was in business before his transfer to Baton Rouge.

Tin Antiquity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Early American tinware, widely collected by antique lovers, was first made in the United States in Berlin, Conn., in 1738.

Founders of the tinware industry, reports the New York Antiques Fair, were two brothers from County Tyrone in Ireland. Berlin soon became the center of the thriving tinware industry and remained so until 1850.

MISS CHARLENE CORRERO

Wedding Plans Told By Miss Correro, Mr. Slakter

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Correro of Monroe of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Charlene, and Daniel Olin Slakter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Carl Slakter, also of Monroe.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, August 19, at nine o'clock in the morning. The Rev. Father Michael Hannon will hear the vows in St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Miss Correro has chosen Miss Betty Rose Haddad as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Douglas Haynes, Miss Joellen Thompson, and Miss Carol Slakter.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Correro, all of Monroe. She is a graduate of St. Matthews High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college.

J. C. Clark is to be Mr. Slakter's best man. Ushers will be Floyd Chaney, Carmel Miller, and Richard Artry.

Grandparents of the prospective groom are Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Evans of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DuBos of New Orleans. A graduate of Neville High school, he is presently serving in the U. S. Air Force.

The couple will live in Houma.

Mr. Gousset Claims Bride In Natchez

The chapel of the First Presbyterian Church was the setting on Thursday, the thirteenth of July, for the wedding of Miss Betty Louise Lord, daughter of Mrs. Ouida W. Lord and the late Ellis Lord, and Eugene Raymond Gousset, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Raymond Gousset, Sr., of Natchez.

The Rev. J. Whitner Kennedy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church performed the double ring ceremony at three o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, John Lewis Lord. Mrs. Walter Lee Watkins served as matron of honor. Mr. Gousset attended his son as best man, and ushers were Joe Gousset, brother of the bride groom and Ellis Lord, the bride's brother.

Serving as candlelighters were Robert Lord, brother of the bride and Clyde Gousset, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the cremony, the couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. Upon their return the bride will make her home with her mother during the time the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Marine Corps in Norfolk, Va.

MISS MARGARET MARIE SKINNER, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Lewis W. Wallace, Jr., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Skinner of Cooper Lake Road, Bastrop. The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Wallace, Sr., also of Bastrop. The Rev. Rayford Rector of Newton, Texas, will perform the double ring ceremony in Cherry Ridge Church of God, Friday, September 22, at six in the evening.

Vows Planned By Mr. Loftin, Miss Facundus

Miss Doris Mae Facundus is engaged to be married to Wayne Lynwood Lofton of Baton Rouge, according to an announcement made today by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Jones of Watson. The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L Lofton of Start.

The wedding is scheduled for Friday, August 18, at seven thirty in the evening at Calvary Christian church in Baton Rouge.

The bride elect was graduated from W. W. Sameull High school in Dallas, and is a senior at Minnesota Bible college in Minneapolis. Mrs. Lofton, a ministry student, graduated from Start High school and is a junior at Minnesota Bible college.

Bastrop Couple Are Wed In Texas Rites

Four altar vases of white carnations decorated Center Chapel, Fort Bliss, Texas, for the wedding of Miss Betty Lou Echols and Pvt. William E. Carroll on the evening of Saturday, July 22. Chaplain John Pedlar officiated at the double - ring ceremony at 7:30 in the evening.

Mrs. Betty S. Echols and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carroll, all of Bastrop, are parents of the young couple.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Carroll, wore a street length frock of white organza. A lace caplet held her veil of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Bastrop High school and attended Northeast Louisiana State college. They will make their home in El Paso, Texas.

Cobb-Smith Vows Heard In Harrisonburg

Tall baskets of white gladioli against a background of fernery banking the choir rail of the First Baptist church in Harrisonburg formed the background Sunday, July 6, when Miss Sena Mae Smith of Harrisonburg, became the bride of Sgt. Otha B. Cobb Jr., son of O. B. Cobb and the late Mrs. Cobb of Mexico, Mo.

Long white tapers burning in three tall candelabra completed the church decorations. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. James Mallard assisted by the Rev. Ray Walters.

Organist for the occasion was Mrs. Orville Crawford of Harrisonburg and soloist was Frank Haygood of Harrisonburg. Musical selections were "O Promise Me" and "Lord Bless This Day." "With This Ring I Thee Wed", was played softly by the organist as background music during the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a full length gown of imported silk Alencon lace over silk net and slipper satin, was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was styled with a fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline re-embroidered with seed pearls and Aurora Borealis crystals and long sleeves which came to a point at the back of the wrist. The back of the full skirt was fashioned with alternating tiers of lace and silk net. The headdress, an elbow length veil of imported silk illusion, was held in place by a tiny star-pointed crown of lace. The crown was outlined and re-embroidered with seed pearls and crystals matching the neckline of the dress. Her only jewelry was a double strand necklace of aurora borealis crystals. In keeping with the custom of "something old" the bride wore in her shoe, a 69 year old penny belonging to her mother.

Serving her sister as matron of honor, Mrs. George Gollmer of Belleville, Texas, wore a street length dress of pink silk. The bodice, overlaid with imported, re-embroidered silk chantly lace, had a scalloped neckline and short cap sleeves. The full pleated skirt was fashioned wtih a side drape. Her headdress, matching her dress in color, was a double bow of organza with a brief veil. She wore elbow length gloves, also matching the dress in color, and white shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations edged with white net.

Miss Sue Duck of Urania and Mrs. James Crawford of Arcadia were the bridesmaids, wearing dresses similar to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets and accessories were identical to that of the matron of honor.

Junior bridesmaid was Deborah Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, niece of the bride. She was attired in a street length dress of white organza over taffeta designed with a rounded neckline, short puffed sleeves, and full pleated skirt. She carried a bouquet of white carnations in pink net. Her headdress was a double bow of white organza wth a brief veil.

Guests were shown to their places by ushers Robert Gollmer of Belleville, Texas, George Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, both nephews of the bride and Bobby Cobb, of Mexico, Mo., brother of the groom.

RECEPTION

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was held in the reception hall of the church.

The new couple was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, Mr. Cobb, father of the groom and the bride's attendants.

Centerpiece on the bride's table was an arrangement of small white mums and pink carnations. Wedding cake and punch was served. The tiered cake, round in shape, was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving the cake was Mrs. Mike Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, sister of the bride. Mrs. Jackie McGuffee of Monroe, presided at the punch bowl.

Registering the guests in the bride's book was Mrs. Bryant Anderson of Harrisonburg and Miss Hazel Crawford of Harrisonburg registered the gifts.

WHITE MATERNITY TOP NOW SWIM ENSEMBLE

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Just thought your readers would like to know how I salvaged a maternity top of white pique.

"I made an embroidered cotton swimming suit of white polished cotton with blue flowers. With scraps left over, I made a collar and cuffs on my white maternity jacket.

"This coordinated the swim ensemble and it has been a real sensation. What a feeling of satisfaction, to make something out of nothing."

Mrs. Bonnie B.

EASE AND STRETCH BIAS BINDINGS

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have trouble with bias bindings on sleeveless and collarless dresses and blouses. They never seem to fit just right, what do I do wrong?"

Mrs. G. A.

Dear Mrs. G.A.:

In a few brief words, the most helpful hint I can give you is this:

When applying bias to an outer curve, you must east it on so it won't pull too tight.

When applying bias to an inner curve, you must stretch the bias so as to avoid excess.

WHY DOES IT PUCKER? ADJUST THE TENSION

"Dear Eunice,

"When I sew with long or stay stitching, what causes the material to pucker up?"

Mrs. A.L.G.

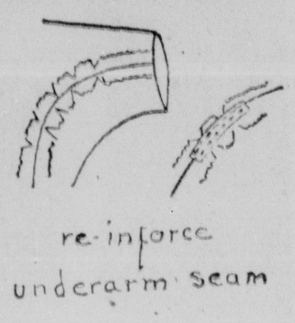
Dear Mrs. A.L.G.:

In the first place, stay-stitching should be done with the average length machine stitch, about 10 to 12 stitches per inch. It is natural that the fabric will pull up a little more when stitching on a single layer than a double layer. Perhaps you need the tension adjusted on your machine.

'MY SLEEVES TEAR OUT'

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have trouble with my dresses tearing across under the arms in both front and back where the little cap sleeves are cut in one with the waist. Do you have a solution for this? I enjoy your sewing helps so much, it's the first thing I look for in the paper."



Mrs. N.R.

Dear Mrs. N.R.:

This type of dress will usually tear out unless it is reinforced or has a gusset. If you take these extra precautions, you should have fairly good luck.

1. Stitch the seam-line at the underarm curve TWICE.

2. CLIP the curved area straight in to the stitching line. These clips should be about ½ - inch apart at the most.

3. Press this part of your seam open on the edge of your board. If clipped properly, this seam should lay flat.

4. Now baste a strip of hem tape over the clipped seam for about 3 inches at the curved area.

5. From the right side of your garment, machine stitch about ⅛-inch from each side of the seamline.

MR. AND MRS. REGNAL E WALLACE

Couple Plan Home In West Monroe

At the First Baptist church in Tallulah on Sunday July 23 at four o'clock Miss Carolyn Jean Godfrey and Regnal Edward Wallace of West Monroe were united in marriage. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Godfrey of Tallulah and Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Wallace of Crowville.

The Rev. Jimmy Shepherd of Basking officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Tall baskets of white gladioli, mums, and magnolia foliage with a background of floor candelabra holding white cathedral candles decorated the marriage scene. David Godfrey, brother of the bride and James McClure served as candle lighters.

The nuptial music was played by Mrs. J. E. Courtney. She accompanied William C. Windham who sang "Because" and as a benediction at the conclusion of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride had as her only attendant, Miss Virginia Earle, who wore a teal blue chiffon waltz length dress, white headdress and white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length dress of lace and net over taffeta fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, with fitted bodice, the waist line designed with a point in front, long sleeves ending in petal points. The full skirt had a pleated insert of net in front and was finished with wide streamers of self fabric at the waist line in the back. Around her neck was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her short veil fell from a scalloped band of lace and pearls and she carried a bouquet of carnations and rosebuds centered with a white orchid.

ford Wallace served his brother as best man and the ushers were Bilbo Wilson and Mike Mitchell both of Tallulah.

Mrs. Godfrey, for her daughter's wedding, chose a blue lace sheath complemented with a corsage of white glamellias. Mrs. Wallace, the groom's mother was also attired in blue and she had a similar corsage.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church which was decorated with white flowers and greenery. The refreshment table, presided over by Miss Patricia Dykes who served punch and Miss Jane Gunn, who served the wedding cake, was centered with the bridesmaid's bouquet.

When the couple left for a trip to Biloxi, Miss., Mrs. Wallace was wearing a blue sheath of polished cotton, white accessories and an orchid from her bridal bouquet. On their return they will reside in West Monroe.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Tallulah High School and Mr. Wallace graduated at Crowville High School and Louisiana College.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alexander, Lance and Layne Alexander of Oil City, La., Mrs. Bessie Jenkins and Mrs. M. A. Godfrey of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford of Crowville, Miss Carolyn Gwin of Winnsboro and Mr. and rs. A. D. Godfrey of Brookhaven, Miss.

Ex-Instructor In Air Force Here As Pastor

Carl B. Robinson will be returning to familiar scenes when he comes to Monroe this week, but his mission will be of a different nature.

During World War II, Robinson was stationed at Selman Field as an instructor in the Air Force school of navigation. Meredith Johnson, minister for the College Town Church of Christ and long time friend of Robinson, said that in a way, Robinson is still teaching "celestial navigation". He is simply using a different "text book."

At the present time he is minister for the Green St. Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn., where he resides with his wife, Frankie and two children.

Robinson will be the featured speaker in a series of Bible lectures each evening at 7:30 in the auditorium of the College Town Church of Christ, 3605 DeSiard Street, today through Friday.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Split-level homes have much to recommend them.

But they have their drawbacks. Here are the chief pros and cons.

—Split-levels have more usable and accessible space than two-story houses with the same total area.

—Living, sleeping and recreation-utility areas in the split-level are definite and separate compared with those in a ranch house.

—Good interior circulation patterns eliminate most cross-traffic in a split-level.

Soviet Requires Crisis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The most striking aspect of Nikita Khrushchev's 20-year program for the Soviet Communist party is that there is absolutely nothing new in it. But it does illuminate the many problems facing the Soviet regime and explains Moscow's need for international crises such as Berlin.

The program, issued just a week ago, pulls together all the various pronouncements on party theory and world communism's goals as expounded by the Khrushchev clique in the five years since the 20th party congress, which was a turning point in world Communist history.

In this respect, much of the published program can be viewed as a general mobilization order for the world's Communists in preparation for continued political and economic warfare against the western way of life and against the United States as communism's chief obstacle.

Such a program requires a series of crises, and if the Berlin question did not exist, Khrushchev would be obliged to invent some other aggravation.

This by no means indicates Khrushchev intends to lead the Soviet Union into a nuclear war. The draft program reflects confidence that communism will conquer without running that risk, that capitalism is moving inexorably toward doom.

But if it intends to conquer, the Kremlin will need every possible excuse for imposing strict discipline upon the Soviet people and upon the leaders of the Communist movement. Implicit danger of war with the United States serves this purpose. And the intention to exert such strict discipline is clear in the words of the draft program.

The many thousands of words of the program, publications of which is a curtain raiser for the 22nd Soviet party congress opening Oct. 17, represent Khrushchev's bid for a niche in history as the man who opened a new era for his country.

Everything the Soviet leader has done for the past five years has been looking forward to the moment next October when he will announce that the Soviet Union at last has progressed beyond the state of "socialism" and now is on its way to communism.

There are revisions of Marxist-Leninist doctrine involved in all this, and brought together in this one pronouncement, the number seems impressive. But they are not new. Khrushchev has advanced them before from time to time.

There is a studied slap at the Communist Chinese in the published program. It mentions them only in passing, and repeats the arguments against inevitable war that have so annoyed the Red Chinese these past three years. The Kremlin has firmly staked its claim to unquestioned world Communist leadership, and the Red Chinese are going to have to live with the idea.

The program restates, for all Communists abroad, the ground rules for the game of conquest. One of the most important arenas is what the Communists call "the national liberation movements" of Latin America, Asia and Africa.

In such areas, the program tells Communists, they must make alliances with the "national bourgeoisie," meaning private business, until such time as the duped business people no longer are necessary to the Red campaign. The working class, meaning the Communist party, in such areas will attempt wherever possible to take power by parliamentary or non-violent illegal means, but will not shy away from civil war should that seem necessary.

In more advanced countries Communists will rely on an anti-war campaign in an attempt to use popular fear of war as a means of rallying all leftist forces to bring pressure on governments to lower military guards. The program sheds crocodile tears about the amount of investment wasted in nonproductive military spending, ignoring the enormous Soviet investment in war preparation and the recent Kremlin decision to raise the investment this year by four-billion dollars.

Khrushchev's program reemphasizes the Stalinist tenet that heavy industry—which builds power—must continue to have priority over consumer industry. But at the same time the program presents a promise of consumer abundance if—and here the international crises are important—the menace of "imperialism" does not require too enormous an investment in defense. The Soviet Union, says the program, must maintain powerful armed forces, not because of any internal need, but because so long as "imperialism" exists there will be danger of war.

Oct. 17 and the Soviet Congress will be another excuse for a meeting of Communist leaders from more than 80 countries to plot their next moves in the cold war. While they meet, the Berlin crisis—or even a four-power summit meeting that might be called to mitigate the direct threat of war—will serve as a smokescreen. It will be used to indicate to the Soviet people that they and their country are in danger of attack. In such circumstances, any sacrifices can be asked of them.

They are going to be asked to work harder and step up their labor productivity, to engage once again in "socialist emulation," and to be patient in their demands for consumer goods matching those of the capitalist world. In exchange they get the rosy promises of Khrushchev's 20-year program—abundance for all, once the job is done.

Forgery Charge Against Negro, White Explained

Officers said Saturday that the Negro youth who identified himself as Joe Harris, 17, of 506 Renwick St., Monroe, was later found to actually be Morgan Moss Jr., 17, of Rayville.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said the Moss youth in a statement Friday had given the alias name which was what he had allegedly forged on a $35 check and attempted to pass to a local business. He is jailed at the Ouachita Parish jail one one count of forgery.

On the other hand, the 18-year-old white youth, identified as Jimmy Takewell of Route Two, Bastrop, is being held in the parish jail on several counts of forgery.

Takewell allegedly forged an out-of-town man's name to the checks in amounts varying from $35 to $79 and told officers in a statement that the total of all of them would come to approximately $450.

Youth Injured In Pool Mishap

About four stitches were required to close the wound.

The 12-year-old boy was taken to St. Francis hospital by a Mulhearn ambulance. He was treated and released.

Bastrop Couple Are Wed In Texas Rites

Four altar vases of white carnations decorated Center Chapel, Fort Bliss, Texas, for the wedding of Miss Betty Lou Echols and Pvt. William E. Carroll on the evening of Saturday, July 22. Chaplain John Pedlar officiated at the double - ring ceremony at 7:30 in the evening.

Mrs. Betty S. Echols and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carroll, all of Bastrop, are parents of the young couple.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Carroll, wore a street length frock of white organza. A lace caplet held her veil of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Bastrop High school and attended Northeast Louisiana State college. They will make their home in El Paso, Texas.

Cobb-Smith Vows Heard In Harrisonburg

Tall baskets of white gladioli against a background of fernery banking the choir rail of the First Baptist church in Harrisonburg formed the background Sunday, July 6, when Miss Sena Mae Smith of Harrisonburg, became the bride of Sgt. Otha B. Cobb Jr., son of O. B. Cobb and the late Mrs. Cobb of Mexico, Mo.

Long white tapers burning in three tall candelabra completed the church decorations. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. James Mallard assisted by the Rev. Ray Walters.

Organist for the occasion was Mrs. Orville Crawford of Harrisonburg and soloist was Frank Haygood of Harrisonburg. Musical selections were "O Promise Me" and "Lord Bless This Day." "With This Ring I Thee Wed", was played softly by the organist as background music during the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a full length gown of imported silk Vienna lace over silk net and slipper satin, was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was styled with a fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline re-embroidered with seed pearls and Aurora Borealis crystals and long sleeves which came to a point at the back of the wrist. The back of the full skirt was fashioned with alternating tiers of lace and silk net. The headdress, an elbow length veil of imported silk illusion, was held in place by a tiny star-pointed crown of lace. The crown was outlined and re-embroidered with seed pearls and crystals matching the neckline of the dress. Her only jewelry was a double strand necklace of aurora borealis crystals. In keeping with the custom of "something old" the bride wore in her shoe, a 69 year old penny belonging to her mother.

Serving her sister as matron of honor, Mrs. George Gollmer of Belleville, Texas, wore a street length dress of pink silk. The bodice, overlaid with imported re-embroidered silk chantly lace, had a scalloped neckline and short cap sleeves. The full pleated skirt was fashioned with a side drape. Her headdress, matching her dress in color, was a double bow of organza with a brief veil. She wore elbow length gloves, also matching the dress in color, and white shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations edged with white net.

Miss Sue Duck of Urania and Mrs. James Crawford of Arcadia were the bridesmaids, wearing dresses similar to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets and accessories were identical to that of the matron of honor.

Junior bridesmaid was Deborah Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, niece of the bride. She was attired in a street length dress of white organza over taffeta designed with a rounded neckline, short puffed sleeves, and full pleated skirt. She carried a bouquet of white carnations in pink net. Her headdress was a double bow of white organza wth a brief veil.

Guests were shown to their places by ushers Robert Gollmer of Belleville, Texas, George Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, both nephews of the bride and Bobby Cobb, of Mexico, Mo., brother of the groom.

RECEPTION

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was held in the reception hall of the church.

The new couple was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, Mr. Cobb, father of the groom and the bride's attendants.

Centerpiece on the bride's table was an arrangement of small white mums and pink carnations. Wedding cake and punch was served. The tiered cake, round in shape, was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving the cake was Mrs. Mike Taweel of Beaumont, Texas, sister of the bride. Mrs. Jackie McGuffee of Monroe, presided at the punch bowl.

Registering the guests in the bride's book was Mrs. Bryant Anderson of Harrisonburg and Miss Hazel Crawford of Harrisonburg registered the gifts.

For their honeymoon trip to New Orleans and Miami the bride chose a pale blue two-peice sheath dress and white accessories. She wore the white orchid from the center of the bridal bouquet.

WHITE MATERNITY TOP NOW SWIM ENSEMBLE

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Just thought your readers would like to know how I salvaged a maternity top of white pique.

"I made an embroidered cotton swimming suit of white polished cotton with blue flowers. With scraps left over, I made a collar and cuffs on my white maternity jacket.

"This coordinated the swim ensemble and it has been a real sensation. What a feeling of satisfaction, to make something out of nothing."

EASE AND STRETCH BIAS BINDINGS

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have trouble with bias bindings on sleeveless and collarless dresses and blouses. They never seem to fit just right, what do I do wrong?"

Mrs. G. A.

Dear Mrs. G.A.:

In a few brief words, the most helpful hint I can give you is this:

When applying bias to an outer curve, you must east it on so it won't pull too tight.

When applying bias to an inner curve, you must stretch the bias so as to avoid excess.

WHY DOES IT PUCKER? ADJUST THE TENSION

"Dear Eunice,

"When I sew with long or stay stitching, what causes the material to pucker up?"

Mrs. A.L.G.

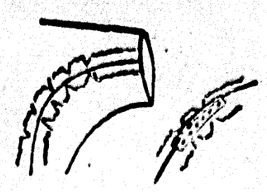
Dear Mrs. A.L.G.:

In the first place, stay-stitching should be done with the average length machine stitch, about 10 to 12 stitches per inch. It is natural that the fabric will pull up a little more when stitching on a single layer than a double layer. Perhaps you need the tension adjusted on your machine.

'MY SLEEVES TEAR OUT'

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have trouble with my dresses tearing across under the arms in both front and back where the little cap sleeves are cut in one with the waist. Do you have a solution for this? I enjoy your sewing helps so much, it's the first thing I look for in the paper."



Mrs. N.R.

Dear Mrs. N.R.:

This type of dress will usually tear out unless it is reinforced or has a gusset. If you take these extra precautions, you should have fairly good luck.

1. Stitch the seam-line at the underarm curve TWICE.

2. CLIP the curved area straight in to the stitching line. These clips should be about ½ - inch apart at the most.

3. Press this part of your seam open on the edge of your board. If clipped properly, this seam should lay flat.

4. Now baste a strip of hem tape over the clipped seam for about 3 inches at the curved area.

5. From the right side of your garment, machine stitch about ¼-inch from each side of the seamline.

Pool Builder Reaches Top In Business

Phil Anthony, who today makes claim to the championship by a decisive margin, did it by digging a hole in his back yard and lining it wth cement blocks. That was in 1947, in Pasadena, Calif.

An executive of a tractor company, living in nearby San Gabriel, heard about Anthony's pool and ordered one for himself. Anthony, a mason and cement worker by trade, found himself in the swimming pool business.

MANY STARS

Today, 14 years and more than 15,000 swimming pools later, Anthony Pools, Inc., has about 25 per cent of the business in an industry which has dozens of competing companies. Among the 15,000-plus Anthony customers have been Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Grable, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, all of the Marx Brothers, Olympic Diving champion Dr. Sammy Lee, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

"We started in this business when you could afford to make mistakes," Anthony says. "Today, with competition in every direction you look, you can no longer afford to make mistakes."

Anthony crews are working on an average of 5 residential pools a day. They attack each project with the precision of a U.S. Marine drill team. Starting with excavation, teams of specialists move on to the job, performing each successive task with efficient regularity until the diving board is ready for the patter of anxious feet.

POOL DESIGNS

Anthony, son of Norwegian immigrants and an artist by inclination, found a fertile field for his artistic and design talents in the pool-building business. He personally sketches original pool designs for many of his customers, and he creates new variations on standard, popular pool shapes such as the kidney, the boomerang, the Balboa, the Turquoise and the California -- so-called because its shape resembles the outline of the state.

"We'll build a pool in any shape a customer wants it," says Anthony. "Some of the most beautiful pools we have ever constructed were designed in the customer's own living room — by the customer."

A few years ago, swimming pools were considered a luxury that only the rich could afford. Now, with the average price of a high quality Anthony pool at $2,800, they are frequently standard equipment in medium-priced subdivisions. The price has come down gradually during the past few years, partly because of assembly-line construction methods perfected by Anthony in the face of rising labor and production costs.

M. L. GREEN, manager of the Twin City Shopping Center Family Shoe Store is shown there getting "Mac" Blake and Joyce Ann Blake ready for back to school. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar M. Blake, 1705 West Street, Monroe, and are fitted out nicely in famous Poll Parrot shoes for children. There's a back-to-school sale now in progress at both Family Shoe Stores' locations: Twin City Shopping Center and 320 DeSiard.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: A neighbor of ours recently got a divorce after years of quarreling and incompatibility. A lady in our block said; "At least he had the courage to call it quits." What do you think of a remark like that? J.P.

ANSWER: It takes more courage to keep your marriage vows than to break them. Many couples have weathered the storms of matrimony simply because they felt a moral obligation to keep the sacred pledge they made at the sacred altar of God. Nearly any couple can dig up some grounds for divorce, but it takes more courage and sense to stay together than to separate.

Divorce is just one of the symbols of our moral instability. When God-given understanding is exercised, and particularly when Christ is given His proper place in the marriage relationship, the little rifts can easily be bridged.

Any weakling can run when the battle gets hot, but it takes a man to keep a marriage on a good footing. I would not label your neighbor's actions as courageous. I would rather be inclined to say he was a coward. A coward is one who shirks duty, and no duty is more binding nor sacred than the marriage obligation.

THE HOME SHIFT

Many Asking About Plant

By MILDRED SWIFT

So many calls have come in (even long distance) asking the name of the pink crepe myrtle at the foot of the Louisville Avenue bridge, (Monroe side) This is the near East that I gave so many compliments in last Sunday's column.

This is the same variety planted on the DeSiard Street side of Northeast State College campus. They are young plants and so beautifully shaped.

Back to the crepe myrtles at the Louisville bridge. They were incorrectly pruned last winter. In fact, they were not pruned at all, but cut to about six inches from the ground. So - all the growth is new and several times they have been completely covered with mildew. This always appears on new growth first and unless controlled will spread over the entire plant. Moral - don't be too zealous with the pruning shears next year when you prune your crepe myrtles.

ABELIA

There are many healthy abelias growing in Ouachita Parish. Abelia grandiflora is its name, with its small shiny foliage, bright crimson twigs and clusters of pinkish tinged, white tubular flowers. The blossoms are nothing to rave about but the shrub is a very satisfactory evergreen, seldom killed by cold.

Abelia grows to a height of about three or four feet. It needs little care except pruning, but believe me you get a "scrawny" looking plant unless you prune out several of the oldest canes every year. You hear many people say they don't care for this shrub because it gets woody and leggy. It never gets in that condition if you'll prune out these old canes in late winter or early spring. That doesn't mean chop them, but to take the entire limb out where it comes out of the ground.

I've seen old neglected woody plants cut to the ground and fertilized (in early spring). They'll come out and make a beautiful plant in two years and make a nice showing the first year. They're fast growers.

Blooms usually start in early June and continue til mid-August. The blooms have no fragrance, but attract humming birds. The dark green leaves of abelia are lighter underneath. In the fall they turn a handsome bronze color. The foliage makes excellent line material to use in flower arrangements.

Abelia requires no special watering and seems free of insects and disease. The blooms are a deeper pink when the plants are in the sun. There's a dwarf abelia, too, that fits in well in small gardens.

BEGONIAS

The ornamental foliage of Rex Begonias have won them a spot in most plant collections. This is a rhizomatous type and has unusual leaf shapes, patterns and colors.

Color patterns come in combinations of two or more hues, including green, rosy pink; red, silver and white. Leaves often are banded on the edge with contrasting colors, some are striped and others have prominent color contrast along the veins.

The culture of Rex Begonia is similar to that of African Violets. Begonias like plenty of light, but not direct sun, cool temperatures, porous soil and good drainage. They are great feeders, requiring more nourishment than do African Violets.

Plants are propagated by division in the spring, and by leaf cuttings. All varieties flower but they are primarily grown for foliage. Some varieties are: Purple Heart, Curly King Edward, Merry Christmas, Old Faithful, Her Majesty and Can Can.

CENTURY PLANT

Landscape architects have come to appreciate the beauty, hardiness and unusual form of the century plant. When the plant is well grown (and it's a fast grower) its leaves droop over in a fountain effect that you can get in few plants.

The commonest variety is the grey - blue - green foliage one. There is also a variegated one with yellow markings and one with a yellow stripe. However there are more than 300 different species of century plants.

Strange, but the century plant is in the amaryllis family. They're so unlike. The century plant is succulent, which means it has an ability to store up moisture during dry spells. Therefore, it requires little maintenance in the way of watering. The mature plant will grow to a height of from three to four feet, occasionally larger. It grows in any well drained garden soil. I've seen them thriving in red clay soil, gumbo, sandy soil and in the best of garden soils. Of course the growth is faster in good earth, but they'll live in all types.

As the century plant grows, small ones are constantly cropping out from its edges, suggestive of a hen and chickens. It is those little "chicks" that are the source of most century plants that one gives to friends and neighbors.

The plant will continue to be called century plant, because it was believed at one time that it had to live 100 years before blooming. Actually they'll bloom in 15 years if left in the same spot. Moving changes this. After the plant blooms it dies.

When the century plant blooms a tall bloom stalk about 30 feet tall comes out of the center. The flowers are yellow green and are sickeningly sweet in odor.

CARE

Use of weed - killing chemicals can take a lot of the hard work out of keeping your lawn free of weeds. But, remember these chemicals will kill shrubs and trees, too. So observe these precautions when using weed killer! Apply the material when there is no wind. Keep one sprayer for weed killers, exclusively. It is impossible to clean the chemical from the sprayer tank and hose.

Don't use more than the recommended dosage. Be especially careful near tress and shrubs. Too much can soak in the soil and be absorbed by the roots. Don't permit an open container of the chemical to remain for any length of time under a tree, the rising fumes may cause injury.

WORTH LIVING

A dog's life may be worth living, when the anti - flea dog food is perfected. Fleas drop over dead when they bite these dogs. This food is still in the labratory stage. It is yet to be determined the quantity a dog can take. Also, some dogs just don't like the taste, so ways of disguising must be found. Perhaps, putting the chemical in dog candy will solve that.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Monday, Patsy Johnson will give us information on buying sweaters; Tuesday, Mr. Peterson will make furniture for the den; Wednesday, flower arrangement with Mr. John Wright, Louisiana Tech, from Ruston; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Beautiful Exhibit By Green Thumb

By MRS. K. R. YOUNG
Guest Writer

Our thanks go to the Green Thumb Garden Club, of which Mrs. Earl Ferguson is president, for staging the beautiful show on T.V. and at the Garden Center last week.

Mrs. Ferguson made a lovely foliage arrangement using spikes of oleander foliage, red - green coleus, and red caladium leaves. She placed her design in a white, footed, compote type container.

This is a long lasting arrangement and would be nice on a hall table. Mrs. Ferguson also made a pleasing triangular arrangement, using brown dock, varigated euonymus and gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Both arrangements were beautiful.

ARRANGEMENTS

Mrs. D. B. Gee entered two interesting arrangements doone in the oriental manner, Clipped umbrella palm fronds formed the line for a vertical design, with purple petunias placed low. Her mechanics were hidden by a beautiful piece of coral, or this arrangement, Mrs. Gee used a round oriental bowl placed on a black base.

Curved pine branches with clipped needles were used for her triangular design which she placed in a pewter washed copper container. This was placed on a round wooden base. Small white zinnias were used at the center of interest. Both of these were lovely arrangements.

Mrs. John Daws also entered two arrangements. For a lovely vertical line mass design, she used red canna bud stems and foliage for height, coleus and a little fern for filler, and dark red dahlias in the focal area.

SECOND DESIGN

Hr second lovely mass design was done in an upright container, using lavender blooms from the liriope, a little fern for filler and the beautiful double purple althea in the focal area.

Mrs. W. A. Briley's first arrangement was a lovely crescent in a white bowl on an oriental base, and was made with rose-pink zinnias in beautifully blended tints. Her line was completed with a few stems of ivy, and she used ivy leaves at the base, letting them extend over the edge of the container.

Mrs. Briley's second arrangement was made in an antique white chalice type container. Yellow zinnias, liriope blooms and some sprays of wisteria blossoms were massed against aspidistra leaves. It was a lovely, tall arrangement.

In addition to all the beautiful arrangements brought in by the Green Thumb Club, the ladies also brought six nice specimens of horticulture, including two stems of the Philippine lily. These lilies make wonderful flowers for our church arrangements at this time of the year, there being so few flowers now, and they are long lasting.

Garden Week To Touch On Food Ideas

Mistaken ideas that many people have about foods will be closely examined by one of the nation's leading nutritionists during Home and Garden Week, August 14-17, at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, announces the LSU Agricultural extension Service.

"Food Labeling and Misinformation," will be the topic of Dr. Evelyn B. Spindler, nutrition specialist with the Federal Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

DAILY SPEAKER

Dr. Spindler will speak at 8:15 each morning, Tuesday through Thursday. She will help homemakers learn what they should look for on the labels of the food they buy. She will also discuss food additives, their purpose and their misuse, and will talk about common food fallacies.

The speaker has served as Extension Service nutritionist in New Mexico, was head of a nutrition research laboratory in California, and taught at the University of California at Davis.

DEGREES

She holds the B.S. degree from Iowa State University, the M.S. from the University of Arizona, and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa.

The public is invited to attend Home and Garden Week, where a choice of many programs on gardening and homemaking will be offered. Rooms will be available free of charge in the LSU dormitories, and meals may be obtained at reasonable cost in the university cafeterias.

GOOD THINGS IN THREES

NORTH BOSTON, N. Y. (AP)— For 13-year-old Nancy Gantzer good things come in quick succession. First she won $300 in a national school photo contest. Then she was awarded the Curved Bar, one of the highest honors in Girl Scouting. A few days later, her entry in a newspaper crossword contest took the $625 prize.

PLAYS IN MINIATURE

He travels about the country playing miniature instruments.

Says Lester: "I've been called a cross between an animated music shop for midgets and a small - scale symphony orchestra."

Feed Plants For Blooms

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

There are several reasons why flowering trees like dogwoods or crape myrtles do not bloom. The commonest reason is that they are starving or, at least, not getting enough food to survive and bloom, too.

Dogwoods are often so thick in our woods that they cannot get enough nourishment or light in their close competition with large trees like the oaks and hickories. This is the reason why dogwoods are always so beautiful on the edge of the woods.

UNNOTICED

We do not notice that hundreds of trees back in the deep forest never bloom at all. After a lumbering operation, with the elimination of their competition and the increase in sunshine, the dogwoods cover themselves with bloom.

If your dogwoods fail to bloom, feed them by the hole punching method. In shaded locations underneath large trees, limb the shade trees up high to let in light and air. It will take one or two seasons for trees that have been suffering starvation or dense shade to recover, but you will see new growth next summer, and the trees should bloom the next spring.

We do not usually plant crape myrtles in shady locations, but other vigorous trees often shade them in a few years and discourage bloom. As in the case of dogwoods, crape myrtles must have a minimum of light and food to bloom.

POSSIBILITY

Since they bloom on this year's wood, crape myrtles can be made to respond and even possibly bloom before frost if you will feed them immediately. Since it is so late, it would not be wise to over feed them, but a moderate feeding, followed by regular watering, in case we have a drouth, may give you some bloom in late September or in October before frost.

Trees can survive for years and years in places where they are starving, over - crowded or densely shaded. Our town and city streets are filled with these starvelings. The effect of food and light can often be like magic if the specimens are not to old and battered. On the streets, anything green is beter than nothing, and it is often worthwhile to feed existing cripples until new trees can be properly planed and cared for.

TASTE IS NUTTY

What does he do?

He's a nut taster. He tastes all kinds of nuts and checks incoming shipments for worms and infections.

EXTENSION NEWS

Fall Planting Time Nearing

By AUDREY DAWSON

Any home owner who has a desire for a more attractive place should begin now to make plans for fall planting. Plants set out in the autumn have many weeks to develop root growth.

Plants set out in spring have less time to develop roots before top growth appears. Give some thought to bulbs. They add a great deal to any garden. Daffodils are practically disease and pest free and rapidly increase in number over the years. The minor bulbs as scillas and grape hyacinths are among the most satisfactory of the hardy bulbs.

Practically all lilies except the madonna are much better planted in fall, no matter how late than in the spring. Trees and shrubs should be planted in the fall in order to establish a good root system before next summer.

ORDER PLANTS

Now that you have made some plans to make your home more attractive with some plantings this fall, the next thing to do is order your plants. And now while you are waiting for your plants, prepare for planting. If you do these things, your place is sure to be a more beautiful place next spring.

The night programs during the Home and Garden Week on the campus of LSU August 14-17 will include open house and a tour of the new Home Economics building. Monday night at 7:00 p.m., Dr. Clara Tucker, head of the Home Economics Department, will be in charge. On Tuesday, Mrs. Charles A. Mahan, of Lexington, Kentucky, will speak to the group. Her topic will be "You Are Important." Mrs. Mahan was formerly clothing specialist with LSU Agricultural Extension Service and women's editor of Farm and Ranch magazine.

On Wednesday evening the annual dress revue will be held in which a representative from each parish will compete for honors. Mrs. Herbert Strozier of the Drew community was the top winner of the parish dress revue held in May and will represent Ouachita. She will model a black linen suit.

Home and Garden Week will close at the end of Thursday morning session.

DECORATING TRENDS

One of the new things in decorating this year is a quilting-bee look in upholstery fabrics. Cushions and backs of sofas are quilted and bedspreads, also. If there's a design in the fabric, quilting outlines this design. Of course, it's done by machines.

We're been in the citrus color range for the past three years, tangerine, orange, lemon, lime. This will continue; so will green and blue combination. There is a swing to the blue - purple, hot pink range. These are high fashion in ready to wear this year too. In the past, furnishings colors have followed dress colors by two years.

Manufacturers say that the purple family is selling in carpets, sofas even dust mops. It's selling best of all as a part of figured designs in draperies and upholstery materials.

Red is important, both geranium red and wine red. As a bright red it's used for dining chair seats occasional chairs or for bathroom accessories. But the best selling colors, despite color trends, are beige, beige and beige. The off-white through beige, into cocoa, accounts for 80 per cent of the sales in most lines, called sandelwood. It's now the big color in kitchen accessories, too.

Yours truly had the pleasure this past week of working with a group of Girl Scouts in a sewing workshop. The girls taking part in the activity were: Diana Mickel, Linda Law, Margaret Denoux, Merry Millwee, Ann Southwell, Laurie Spatafora, Debbie Wade, Charlotte Hicks, Sharon Lee and Judy Hunt.

KITCHEN FLOOR

Homemakers can save wear and tear on the kitchen floor as well as save their own time and energy by using "quick clean ups." A cleaning solution of boiled linseed oil, turpentine and water is one of the best for linoleum floors, according to our home management specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong.

Use three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil and one tablespoon turpentine to a quart of hot water for mopping linoleum floors. As the solution becomes dirty, replace it. After the floor is thoroughly dry, it can be waxed. Floors of other materials besides linoleum should be washed with a detergent and water. Rinse well and dry.

A THOUGHT

Should We Expect Pride . . .

. . . WHEN THERE IS NOTHING TO INSTIL PRIDE?

Remember all those old jokes about the farmer? Rural folks were actually looked down upon because they didn't have modern conveniences and couldn't get them until they organized member-owned Electric Co-operatives.

A distinguished Louisiana County Agent recently observed:

"The new comforts, conveniences, the new jobs and revitalized business for main streets, etc., that came from rural electrification are all wonderful, indeed.

But, the greatest contribution of Electric Co-ops to our society is they made it possible for rural people to have PRIDE in themselves and their homes."

How right he was. Just drive through the countryside today and contrast it to the miserable picture just a few years ago when less than 2% of the homes had electricity... as compared to the 99% area coverage offered by the privately-owned Electric Co-ops today.

Yes, you build pride in people by helping them help themselves...not by handouts or criticism.

Pride is just one among many reasons for keeping the self-paying, member-owned Electric Co-ops strong...their service areas free from invasions and needless line duplications—BY FAIR AND JUST LEGISLATIVE ACTION IF NECESSARY.

Electric Co-ops are still the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford. Think what that means to Town and Country Progress.

Soviet Requires Crisis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The most striking aspect of Nikita Khrushchev's 20-year program for the Soviet Communist party is that there is absolutely nothing new in it. But it does illuminate the many problems facing the Soviet regime and explains Moscow's need for international crises such as Berlin.

The program, issued just a week ago, pulls together all the various pronouncements on party theory and world communism's goals as expounded by the Khrushchev clique in the five years since the 20th party congress, which was a turning point in world Communist history.

In this respect, much of the published program can be viewed as a general mobilization order for the world's Communists in preparation for continued political and economic warfare against the western way of life and against the United States as communism's chief obstacle.

Such a program requires a series of crises, and if the Berlin question did not exist, Khrushchev would be obliged to invent some other aggravation.

This by no means indicates Khrushchev intends to lead the Soviet Union into a nuclear war. The draft program reflects confidence that communism will conquer without running that risk, that capitalism is moving inexorably toward doom.

But if it intends to conquer, the Kremlin will need every possible excuse for imposing strict discipline upon the Soviet people and upon the leaders of the Communist movement. Implicit danger of war with the United States serves this purpose. And the intention to exert such strict discipline is clear in the words of the draft program.

The many thousands of words of the program, publications of which is a curtain raiser for the 22nd Soviet party congress opening Oct. 17, represent Khrushchev's bid for a niche in history as the man who opened a new era for his country.

Everything the Soviet leader has done for the past five years has been looking forward to the moment next October when he will announce that the Soviet Union at last has progressed beyond the state of "socialism" and now is on its way to communism.

There are revisions of Marxist-Leninist doctrine involved in all this, and brought together in this one pronouncement, the number seems impressive. But they are not new. Khrushchev has advanced them before from time to time.

There is a studied slap at the Communist Chinese in the published program. It mentions them only in passing, and repeats the arguments against inevitable war that have so annoyed the Red Chinese these past three years. The Kremlin has firmly staked its claim to unquestioned world Communist leadership, and the Red Chinese are going to have to live with the idea.

The program restates, for all Communists abroad, the ground rules for the game of conquest. One of the most important arenas is what the Communists call "the national liberation movements" of Latin America, Asia and Africa.

In such areas, the program tells Communists, they must make alliances with the "national bourgeoisie," meaning private business, until such time as the duped business people no longer are necessary to the Red campaign. The working class, meaning the Communist party, in such areas will attempt wherever possible to take power by parliamentary or non-violent illegal means, but will not shy away from civil war should that seem necessary.

In more advanced countries Communists will rely on an anti-war campaign in an attempt to use popular fear of war as a means of rallying all leftist forces to bring pressure on governments to lower military guards. The program sheds crocodile tears about the amount of investment wasted in nonproductive military spending, ignoring the enormous Soviet investment in war preparation and the recent Kremlin decision to raise the investment this year by four-billion dollars.

Khrushchev's program reemphasizes the Stalinist tenet that heavy industry—which builds power—must continue to have priority over consumer industry. But at the same time the program presents a promise of consumer abundance if—and here the international crises are important—the menace of "imperialism" does not require too enormous an investment in defense. The Soviet Union, says the program, must maintain powerful armed forces, not because of any internal need, but because so long as "imperialism" exists there will be danger of war.

Oct. 17 and the Soviet Congress will be another excuse for a meeting of Communist leaders from more than 80 countries to plot their next moves in the cold war. While they meet, the Berlin crisis—or even a four-power summit meeting that might be called to mitigate the direct threat of war—will serve as a smokescreen. It will be used to indicate to the Soviet people that they and their country are in danger of attack. In such circumstances, any sacrifices can be asked of them.

They are going to be asked to work harder and step up their labor productivity, to engage once again in "socialist emulation," and to be patient in their demands for consumer goods matching those of the capitalist world. In exchange they get the rosy promises of Khrushchev's 20-year program—abundance for all, once the job is done.

Forgery Charge Against Negro, White Explained

Officers said Saturday that the Negro youth who identified himself as Joe Harris, 17, of 306 Renwick St., Monroe, was later found to actually be Morgan Moss Jr., 17, of Rayville.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said the Moss youth in a statement Friday had given the alias name which was what he had allegedly forged on a $33 check and attempted to pass to a local business. He is jailed at the Ouachita Parish jail one one count of forgery.

On the other hand, the 18-year-old white youth, identified as Jimmy Takewell of Route Two, Bastrop, is being held in the parish jail on several counts of forgery.

Takewell allegedly forged an out-of-town man's name to the checks in amounts varying from $35 to $79 and told officers in a statement that the total of all of them would come to approximately $450.

Youth Injured In Pool Mishap

About four stitches were required to close the wound.

The 12-year-old boy was taken to St. Francis hospital by a Mulhearn ambulance. He was treated and released.

Curtain Call

Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke," produced by Little Theatre in conjunction with Northeast State College, will be the final production of the summer season. The play opens Thursday, and runs through Sunday, August 13th. The curtain opens nightly at 8:15. There will be no matinee performances. Call Little Theatre, FA 3-1235, for reservations starting Tuesday, August 8th at 1:00 p.m.

Tennessee Williams, the playwright, was born in Columbus, Mississippi in 1914. He was named Thomas Lanier, but later chose Tennessee as a pen name. He won the Pulitzer Prize for "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"Summer and Smoke," a play of rare poetic beauty seldom found in the modern theatre, is one of Tennessee Williams' earlier works. It was written after "The Glass Menagerie" and before "A Streetcar Named Desire." Therefore, it represents work which is halfway between the poetic development of "The Glass Menagerie" and the realistic development of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof."

In 1948 "Summer and Smoke" was produced on Broadway by Margot Jones and hailed as an artistic success. It is a serious play, intended for adult audiences.

The cast, listed below, includes many familiar faces to you Little Theatre members and also a few new ones.

No play could be put on without the diligent crew members who work behind the scenes. Jim Nuckles designed and painted the motiff on the set walls. You may remember him as the set designer in "Damn Yankees" also. Costumes were constructed by Judy Evans, Mary Gill, Patricia Peyton, and Mrs. Donald Hughes. Calvin McFadden is in charge of assembling and recording the sound effects for the show. The lighting is done by the Student Lighting Class, Course 109A at Northeast College.

Ostrich plumes, feathers, artificial fruit or anything else which could be used to trim early 1900 hats are needed desperately. If you have anything that could be used, please call FA 3-1235.

THE HOME SHIFT

Many Asking About Plant

By MILDRED SWIFT

So many calls have come in (even long distance) asking the name of the pink crepe myrtle at the foot of the Louisville Avenue bridge, (Monroe side) This is the near East that I gave so many compliments in last Sunday's column.

This is the same variety planted on the DeSiard Street side of Northeast State College campus. They are young plants and so beautifully shaped.

Back to the crepe myrtles at the Louisville bridge. They were incorrectly pruned last winter. In fact, they were not pruned at all, but cut to about six inches from the ground. So - all the growth is new and several times they have been completely covered with mildew. This always appears on new growth first and unless controlled will spread over the entire plant. Moral - don't be too zealous with the pruning shears next year when you prune your crepe myrtles.

ABELIA

There are many healthy abelias growing in Ouachita Parish. Abelia grandiflora is its name, with its small shiny foliage, bright crimson twigs and clusters of pinkish tinged, white tubular flowers. The blossoms are nothing to rave about but the shrub is a very satisfactory evergreen, seldom killed by cold.

Abelia grows to a height of about three or four feet. It needs little care except pruning, but believe me you get a "scrawny" looking plant unless you prune out several of the oldest canes every year. You hear many people say they don't care for this shrub because it gets woody and leggy. It never gets in that condition if you'll prune out these old canes in late winter or early spring. That doesn't mean chop them, but to take the entire limb out where it comes out of the ground.

I've seen old neglected woody plants cut to the ground and fertilized (in early spring). They'll come out and make a beautiful plant in two years and make a nice showing the first year. They're fast growers.

Blooms usually start in early June and continue til mid-August. The blooms have no fragrance, but attract humming birds. The dark green leaves of abelia are lighter underneath. In the fall they turn a handsome bronze color. The foliage makes excellent line material to use in flower arrangements.

Abelia requires no special watering and seems free of insects and disease. The blooms are a deeper pink when the plants are in the sun. There's a dwarf abelia, too, that fits in well in small gardens.

BEGONIAS

The ornamental foliage of Rex Begonias have won them a spot in most plant collections. This is a rhizomatous type and has unusual leaf shapes, patterns and colors.

Color patterns come in combinations of two or more hues, including green, rosy pink; red, silver and white. Leaves often are banded on the edge with contrasting colors, some are striped and others have prominent color contrast along the veins.

The culture of Rex Begonia is similar to that of African Violets. Begonias like plenty of light, but not direct sun, cool temperatures, porous soil and good drainage. They are great feeders, requiring more nourishment than do African Violets.

Plants are propagated by division in the spring, and by leaf cuttings. All varieties flower but they are primarily grown for foliage. Some varieties are: Purple Heart, Curly King Edward, Merry Christmas, Old Faithful, Her Majesty and Can Can.

CENTURY PLANT

Landscape architects have come to appreciate the beauty, hardiness and unusual form of the century plant. When the plant is well grown (and it's a fast grower) its leaves droop over in a fountain effect that you can get in few plants.

The commonest variety is the grey - blue - green foliage one. There is also a variegated one with yellow markings and one with a yellow stripe. However there are more than 300 different species of century plants.

Strange, but the century plant is in the amaryllis family. They're so unlike. The century plant is succulent, which means it has an ability to store up moisture during dry spells. Therefore, it requires little maintenance in the way of watering. The mature plant will grow to a height of from three to four feet, occasionally larger. It grows in any well drained garden soil. I've seen them thriving in red clay soil, gumbo, sandy soil and in the best of garden soils. Of course the growth is faster in good earth, but they'll live in all types.

As the century plant grows, small ones are constantly cropping out from its edges, suggestive of a hen and chickens. It is those little "chicks" that are the source of most century plants that one gives to friends and neighbors.

The plant will continue to be called century plant, because it was believed at one time that it had to live 100 years before blooming. Actually they'll bloom in 15 years if left in the same spot. Moving changes this. After the plant blooms it dies.

When the century plant blooms a tall bloom stalk about 30 feet tall comes out of the center. The flowers are yellow green and are sickeningly sweet in odor.

CARE

Use of weed - killing chemicals can take a lot of the hard work out of keeping your lawn free of weeds. But, remember these chemicals will kill shrubs and trees, too. So observe these precautions when using weed killer! Apply the material when there is no wind. Keep one sprayer for weed killers, exclusively. It is impossible to clean the chemical from the sprayer tank and hose.

Don't use more than the recommended dosage. Be especially careful near tress and shrubs. Too much can soak in the soil and be absorbed by the roots. Don't permit an open container of the chemical to remain for any length of time under a tree, the rising fumes may cause injury.

WORTH LIVING

A dog's life may be worth living, when the anti - flea dog food is perfected. Fleas drop over dead when they bite these dogs. This food is still in the labratory stage. It is yet to be determined the quantity a dog can take. Also, some dogs just don't like the taste, so ways of disguising must be found. Perhaps, putting the chemical in dog candy will solve that.

Pool Builder Reaches Top In Business

Phil Anthony, who today makes claim to the championship by a decisive margin, did it by digging a hole in his back yard and lining it wth cement blocks. That was in 1947, in Pasadena, Calif.

An executive of a tractor company, living in nearby San Gabriel, heard about Anthony's pool and ordered one for himself. Anthony, a mason and cement worker by trade, found himself in the swimming pool business.

MANY STARS

Today, 14 years and more than 15,000 swimming pools later, Anthony Pools, Inc., has about 25 per cent of the business in an industry which has dozens of competing companies. Among the 15,000-plus Anthony customers have been Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Grable, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, all of the Marx Brothers, Olympic Diving champion Dr. Sammy Lee, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

"We started in this business when you could afford to make mistakes," Anthony says. "Today, with competition in every direction you look, you can no longer afford to make mistakes."

Anthony crews are working on an average of 5 residential pools a day. They attack each project with the precision of a U.S. Marine drill team. Starting with excavation, teams of specialists move on to the job, performing each successive task with efficient regularity until the diving board is ready for the patter of anxious feet.

POOL DESIGNS

Anthony, son of Norwegian immigrants and an artist by inclination, found a fertile field for his artistic and design talents in the pool-building business. He personally sketches original pool designs for many of his customers, and he creates new variations on standard, popular pool shapes such as the kidney, the boomerang, the Balboa, the Turquoise and the California -- so-called because its shape resembles the outline of the state.

"We'll build a pool in any shape a customer wants it," says Anthony. "Some of the most beautiful pools we have ever constructed were designed in the customer's own living room — by the customer."

A few years ago, swimming pools were considered a luxury that only the rich could afford. Now, with the average price of a high quality Anthony pool at $2,800, they are frequently standard equipment in medium-priced subdivisions. The price has come down gradually during the past few years, partly because of assembly-line construction methods perfected by Anthony in the face of rising labor and production costs.

Garden Week To Touch On Food Ideas

Mistaken ideas that many people have about foods will be closely examined by one of the nation's leading nutritionists during Home and Garden Week, August 14-17, at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, announces the LSU Agricultural extension Service.

"Food Labeling and Misinformation," will be the topic of Dr. Evelyn B. Spindler, nutrition specialist with the Federal Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

DAILY SPEAKER

Dr. Spindler will speak at 8:15 each morning, Tuesday through Thursday. She will help homemakers learn what they should look for on the labels of the food they buy. She will also discuss food additives, their purpose and their misuse, and will talk about common food fallacies.

The speaker has served as Extension Service nutritionist in New Mexico, was head of a nutrition research laboratory in California, and taught at the University of California at Davis.

DEGREES

She holds the B.S. degree from Iowa State University, the M.S. from the University of Arizona, and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa.

The public is invited to attend Home and Garden Week, where a choice of many programs on gardening and homemaking will be offered. Rooms will be available free of charge in the LSU dormitories, and meals may be obtained at reasonable cost in the university cafeterias.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Beautiful Exhibit By Green Thumb

By MRS. K. R. YOUNG
Guest Writer

Our thanks go to the Green Thumb Garden Club, of which Mrs. Earl Ferguson is president, for staging the beautiful show on T.V. and at the Garden Center last week.

Mrs. Ferguson made a lovely foliage arrangement using spikes of oleander foliage, red - green coleus, and red caladium leaves. She placed her design in a white, footed, compote type container.

This is a long lasting arrangement and would be nice on a hall table. Mrs. Ferguson also made a pleasing triangular arrangement, using brown dock, varigated euonymus and gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Both arrangements were beautiful.

ARRANGEMENTS

Mrs. D. B. Gee entered two interesting arrangements doone in the oriental manner, Clipped umbrella palm fronds formed the line for a vertical design, with purple petunias placed low. Her mechanics were hidden by a beautiful piece of coral, or this arrangement, Hrs. Gee used a round oriental bowl placed on a black base.

Curved pine branches with clipped needles were used for her triangular design which she placed in a pewter washed copper container. This was placed on a round wooden base. Small white zinnias were used at the center of interest. Both of these were lovely arrangements.

Mrs. John Daws also entered two arrangements. For a lovely vertical line mass design, she used red canna bud stems and foliage for height, coleus and a little fern for filler, and dark red dahlias in the focal area.

SECOND DESIGN

Hr second lovely mass design was done in an upright container, using lavender blooms from the liriope, a little fern for filler and the beautiful double purple althea in the focal area.

Mrs. W. A. Briley's first arrangement was a lovely crescent in a white bowl on an oriental base, and was made with rose-pink zinnias in beautifully blended tints. Her line was completed with a few stems of ivy, and she used ivy leaves at the base, letting them extend over the edge of the container.

Mrs. Briley's second arrangement was made in an antique white chalice type container. Yellow zinnias, liriope blooms and some sprays of wisteria blossoms were massed against aspidistra leaves. It was a lovely, tall arrangement.

In addition to all the beautiful arrangements brought in by the Green Thumb Club, the ladies also brought six nice specimens of horticulture, including two stems of the Philippine lily. These lilies make wonderful flowers for our church arrangements at this time of the year, there being so few flowers now, and they are long lasting.

Feed Plants For Blooms

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

There are several reasons why flowering trees like dogwoods or crape myrtles do not bloom. The commonest reason is that they are starving or, at least, not getting enough food to survive and bloom, too.

Dogwoods are often so thick in our woods that they cannot get enough nourishment or light in their close competition with large trees like the oaks and hickories. This is the reason why dogwoods are always so beautiful on the edge of the woods.

UNNOTICED

We do not notice that hundreds of trees back in the deep forest never bloom at all. After a lumbering operation, with the elimination of their competition and the increase in sunshine, the dogwoods cover themselves with bloom.

If your dogwoods fail to bloom, feed them by the hole punching method. In shaded locations underneath large trees, limb the shade trees up high to let in light and air. It will take one or two seasons for trees that have been suffering starvation or dense shade to recover, but you will see new growth next summer, and the trees should bloom the next spring.

We do not usually plant crape myrtles in shady locations, but other vigorous trees often shade them in a few years and discourage bloom. As in the case of dogwoods, crape myrtles must have a minimum of light and food to bloom.

POSSIBILITY

Since they bloom on this year's wood, crape myrtles can be made to respond and even possibly bloom before frost if you will feed them immediately. Since it is so late, it would not be wise to over feed them, but a moderate feeding, followed by regular watering, in case we have a drouth, may give you some bloom in late September or in October before frost.

Trees can survive for years and years in places where they are starving, over - crowded or densely shaded. Our town and city streets are filled with these starvelings. The effect of food and light can often be like magic if the specimens are not to old and battered. On the streets, anything green is beter than nothing, and it is often worthwhile to feed existing cripples until new trees can be properly planed and cared for.

EXTENSION NEWS

Fall Planting Time Nearing

By AUDREY DAWSON

Any home owner who has a desire for a more attractive place should begin now to make plans for fall planting. Plants set out in the autumn have many weeks to develop root growth.

Plants set out in spring have less time to develop roots before top growth appears. Give some thought to bulbs. They add a great deal to any garden. Daffodils are practically disease and pest free and rapidly increase in number over the years. The minor bulbs as scillas and grape hyacinths are among the most satisfactory of the hardy bulbs.

Practically all lilies except the madonna are much better planted in fall, no matter how late than in the spring. Trees and shrubs should be planted in the fall in order to establish a good root system before next summer.

ORDER PLANTS

Now that you have made some plans to make your home more attractive with some plantings this fall, the next thing to do is order your plants. And now while you are waiting for your plants, prepare for planting. If you do these things, your place is sure to be a more beautiful place next spring.

The night programs during the Home and Garden Week on the campus of LSU August 14-17 will include open house and a tour of the new Home Economics building. Monday night at 7:00 p.m., Dr. Clara Tucker, head of the Home Economics Department, will be in charge. On Tuesday, Mrs. Charles A. Mahan, of Lexington, Kentucky, will speak to the group. Her topic will be "You Are Important." Mrs. Mahan was formerly clothing specialist with LSU Agricultural Extension Service and women's editor of Farm and Ranch magazine.

On Wednesday evening the annual dress revue will be held in which a representative from each parish will compete for honors. Mrs. Herbert Strozier of the Drew community was the top winner of the parish dress revue held in May and will represent Ouachita. She will model a black linen suit.

Home and Garden Week will close at the end of Thursday morning session.

DECORATING TRENDS

One of the new things in decorating this year is a quilting-bee look in upholstery fabrics. Cushions and backs of sofas are quilted and bedspreads, also. If there's a design in the fabric, quilting outlines this design. Of course, it's done by machines.

We're been in the citrus color range for the past three years, tangerine, orange, lemon, lime. This will continue; so will green and blue combination. There is a swing to the blue - purple, hot pink range. These are high fashion in ready to wear this year too. In the past, furnishings colors have followed dress colors by two years.

Manufacturers say that the purple family is selling in carpets, sofas even dust mops. It's selling best of all as a part of figured designs in draperies and upholstery materials.

Red is important, both geranium red and wine red. As a bright red it's used for dining chair seats occasional chairs or for bathroom accessories. But the best selling colors, despite color trends, are beige, beige and beige. The off-white through beige, into cocoa, accounts for 80 per cent of the sales in most lines, called sandalwood. It's now the big color in kitchen accessories, too.

Yours truly had the pleasure this past week of working with a group of Girl Scouts in a sewing workshop. The girls taking part in the activity were: Diana Mickel, Linda Law, Margaret Denoux, Merry Millwee, Ann Southwell, Laurie Spatafora, Debbie Wade, Charlotte Hicks, Sharon Lee and Judy Hunt.

KITCHEN FLOOR

Homemakers can save wear and tear on the kitchen floor as well as save their own time and energy by using "quick clean ups." A cleaning solution of boiled linseed oil, turpentine and water is one of the best for linoleum floors, according to our home management specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong.

Use three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil and one tablespoon turpentine to a quart of hot water for mopping linoleum floors. As the solution becomes dirty, replace it. After the floor is thoroughly dry, it can be waxed. Floors of other materials besides linoleum should be washed with a detergent and water. Rinse well and dry.

A THOUGHT

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: A neighbor of ours recently got a divorce after years of quarreling and incompatibility. A lady in our block said: "At least he had the courage to call it quits." What do you think of a remark like that? J.P.

ANSWER: It takes more courage to keep your marriage vows than to break them. Many couples have weathered the storms of matrimony simply because they felt a moral obligation to keep the sacred pledge they made at the sacred altar of God. Nearly any couple can dig up some grounds for divorce, but it takes more courage and sense to stay together than to separate.

Divorce is just one of the symbols of our moral instability. When God-given understanding is exercised, and particularly when Christ is given His proper place in the marriage relationship, the little rifts can easily be bridged.

Any weakling can run when the battle gets hot, but it takes a man to keep a marriage on a good footing. I would not label your neighbor's actions as courageous. I would rather be inclined to say he was a coward. A coward is one who shirks duty, and no duty is more binding nor sacred than the marriage obligation.

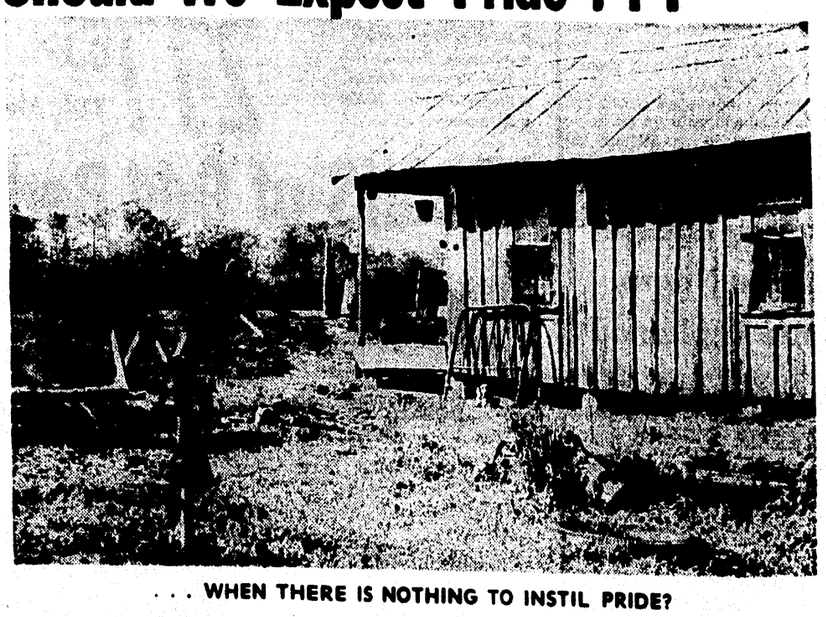
Should We Expect Pride . . .



. . . WHEN THERE IS NOTHING TO INSTIL PRIDE?

Remember all those old jokes about the farmer? Rural folks were actually looked down upon because they didn't have modern conveniences and couldn't get them until they organized member-owned Electric Co-operatives.

A distinguished Louisiana County Agent recently observed:

"The new comforts, conveniences, the new jobs and revitalized business for main streets, etc., that came from rural electrification are all wonderful, indeed.

But, the greatest contribution of Electric Co-ops to our society is they made it possible for rural people to have PRIDE in themselves and their homes."

How right he was. Just drive through the countryside today and contrast it to the miserable picture just a few years ago when less than 2% of the homes had electricity... as compared to the 99% area coverage offered by the privately-owned Electric Co-ops today.

Yes, you build pride in people by helping them help themselves...not by handouts or criticism.

Pride is just one among many reasons for keeping the self-paying, member-owned Electric Co-ops strong...their service areas free from invasions and needless line duplications—BY FAIR AND JUST LEGISLATIVE ACTION IF NECESSARY.

Electric Co-ops are still the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford. Think what that means to Town and Country Progress.

ON SENATE FLOOR

Solon Will Fight Church School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said Saturday he will fight on the Senate floor to eliminate from the National Defense Education Act extension bill any provision for loans to help build church school classrooms.

Randolph told a reporter he fears the launching of a broad program of aid to parochial and other private schools could lead to the fragmenting of the nations school population.

The Defense Education Act bill, as sent to the Senate floor by the Labor Committee, would authorize $375 million in private school classroom loans over three years for teaching of basic subjects.

This measure at one point was slated for debate after the pending foreign aid bill, but its fate now is uncertain.

A leadership decision as to whether it will be considered this year now apparently rests on the outcome of efforts being made to unsnarl a House tangle on all of President Kennedy's education bills.

Originally Democratic congressional leaders expressed the view that the private school loan provision in the defense education bill would help prospects of Kennedy's $2.55-billion general school aid measure.

They felt the inclusion of this provision would make it possible for Democratic congressmen of the Roman Catholic faith and those from districts with large Catholic populations to support the general bill.

However, the general bill, a House Defense Education Act extender, and a higher education bill all have been shelved in the House Rules Committee.

Negotiations involving the White House, the Welfare Department and Democratic congressional leaders still are going in an effort to salvage at least one bill.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Senate education subcommittee chairman, has said these may come to a head next week.

Morse piloted the general bill through the Senate in May. This is the only one to pass either branch so far.

U.S. Halts Arms Flow To Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U. S. government stopped sending arms and material to the Cuban underground after the April invasion and won't resume despite the repeated requests o fexile leaders, reliable sources reported Saturday.

These sources in the Cuban exile colony added that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's sudden decision Friday night to issue new money will hamper the underground, but only for a while.

Government representatives both here and in Washington have been telling the exiles that the Kennedy administration is still studying the problem of what steps to take next.

According to one reliable report, this is the answer that Jose Miro Cardona, head of the Revolutionary Council, has been getting when he asks for arms in conversations with Richard N. Goodwin, Latin-American assistant to the President.

Miro Cardona's council was formed in the spring to unite the several anti-Castro Cuban organizations and to serve as the group through which the Central Intelligence Agency conducted the unsuccessful invasion.

The exile leaders generally believe that the U. S. government is at a standstill for the moment on the Cuban situation, but that something will happen by fall. Just what no one seems to know.

There are seven underground organizations in Cuba, each with an exile representative in Miami. The underground was damaged during the invasion and now is going through a reorganization. One qualified source said the underground was all but destroyed during and after the invasion. The source said that it will take until October to make the underground as efficient as it once was.

Right now, almost all sabotage activity has stopped.

It is the reorganization process that might be affected by Castro's decision to declare Cuban paper money outside the island void and to issue new bills to everyone at home.

A statement over Havana radio said the move was designed to "prevent the employment of counterrevolutionary resources abroad for acts against the revolutionary government."

A key feature is that each Cuban will receive only 200 pesos of the new bills—$200 at the official exchange rate. The rest of his money will be deposited in his name in the Cuban National Bank.

Several exile leaders said that in one or two months ways will be found to operate the old systems of receiving donations from people inside Cuba and of buying pesos in Cuba with American dollars.

The Cuban money is used to buy boats, guns, cars and other supplies right under the nose of Castro's people, and to support the families of men who are working in the underground.

"I don't know how we'll do it," one leader said. "But a way will be found. We always find a way."

Midwest Hit By Storms; Heat Broken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled over lower Michigan and an isolated tornado was reported near the city of Alpena.

A thunderstorm knocked out electric power in several sections of Beloit, Wis. Fallen trees blocked traffic temporarily on four roads in the Beloit area.

Thunderstorms also broke out from the Florida Panhandle into the Carolinas, near the mountains and deserts of the Southwest, and in southern Virginia.

At Ephrata, Wash., where the mercury hit a record 115 degrees Friday, the midday reading Saturday was 76.

Across the northern border in Ontario, a violent thunderstorm lashed the Hamilton area. Thirty sailboats were capsized and basements and underpasses were flooded.

Roy Cole Sr. Dies Saturday; Rites Pending

Roy Q. Cole Sr., 68-year-old retired partner of a Monroe insurance firm, died at his residence at 114 Paragoud Dr., Monroe, Saturday evening after an illness of several years.

Mr. Cole, a native of Coushatta, was a veteran of World War I and a member of the First Baptist Church in Monroe. He has lived in this city since 1922.

Funeral arrangments were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Thelma Cole and one son, Roy Q. Cole Jr., both of Monroe.

Curtain Call

Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke," produced by Little Theatre in conjunction with Northeast State College, will be the final production of the summer season. The play opens Thursday, and runs through Sunday, August 13th. The curtain opens nightly at 8:15. There will be no matinee performances. Call Little Theatre, FA 3-1235, for reservations starting Tuesday, August 8th at 1:00 p.m.

Tennessee Williams, the playwright, was born in Columbus, Mississippi in 1914. He was named Thomas Lanier, but later chose Tennessee as a pen name. He won the Pulitzer Prize for "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"Summer and Smoke," a play of rare poetic beauty seldom found in the modern theatre, is one of Tennessee Williams' earlier works. It was written after "The Glass Menagerie" and before "A Streetcar Named Desire." Therefore, it represents work which is halfway between the poetic development of "The Glass Menagerie" and the realistic development of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof."

In 1948 "Summer and Smoke" was produced on Broadway by Margot Jones and hailed as an artistic success. It is a serious play, intended for adult audiences.

The cast, listed below, includes many familiar faces to you Little Theatre members and also a few new ones.

No play could be put on without the diligent crew members who work behind the scenes. Jim Nuckles designed and painted the motiff on the set walls. You may remember him as the set designer in "Damn Yankees" also. Costumes were constructed by Judy Evans, Mary Gill, Patricia Peyton, and Mrs. Donald Hughes. Calvin McFadden is in charge of assembling and recording the sound effects for the show. The lighting is done by the Student Lighting Class, Course 109A at Northeast College.

Ostrich plumes, feathers, artificial fruit or anything else which could be used to trim early 1900 hats are needed desperately. If you have anything that could be used, please call FA 3-1235.

Stars Teamed As Co-Producers

PHOENICIA, N. Y. (AP) —The sons of two polo stars are teamed as co - producers in first summer theater venture at the Phoenicia Playhouse.

Ivor Balding Jr., and Thomas Hitchcock Jr. launched the season with "Once in a Lifetime," the Broadway hit by Moss Hart and George Kaufman.

ON SENATE FLOOR

Solon Will Fight Church School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said Saturday he will fight on the Senate floor to eliminate from the National Defense Education Act extension bill any provision for loans to help build church school classrooms.

Randolph told a reporter he fears the launching of a broad program of aid to parochial and other private schools could lead to the fragmenting of the nations school population.

The Defense Education Act bill, as sent to the Senate floor by the Labor Committee, would authorize $375 million in private school classroom loans over three years for teaching of basic subjects.

This measure at one point was slated for debate after the pending foreign aid bill, but its fate now is uncertain.

A leadership decision as to whether it will be considered this year now apparently rests on the outcome of efforts being made to unsnarl a House tangle on all of President Kennedy's education bills.

Originally Democratic congressional leaders expressed the view that the private school loan provision in the defense education bill would help prospects of Kennedy's $2.55-billion general school aid measure.

They felt the inclusion of this provision would make it possible for Democratic congressmen of the Roman Catholic faith and those from districts with large Catholic populations to support the general bill.

However, the general bill, a House Defense Education Act extender, and a higher education bill all have been shelved in the House Rules Committee.

Negotiations involving the White House, the Welfare Department and Democratic congressional leaders still are going in an effort to salvage at least one bill.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Senate education subcommittee chairman, has said these may come to a head next week.

Morse piloted the general bill through the Senate in May. This is the only one to pass either branch so far.

U.S. Halts Arms Flow To Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U. S. government stopped sending arms and material to the Cuban underground after the April invasion and won't resume despite the repeated requests o fexile leaders, reliable sources reported Saturday.

These sources in the Cuban exile colony added that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's sudden decision Friday night to issue new money will hamper the underground, but only for a while.

Government representatives both here and in Washington have been telling the exiles that the Kennedy administration is still studying the problem of what steps to take next.

According to one reliable report, this is the answer that Jose Miro Cardona, head of the Revolutionary Council, has been getting when he asks for arms in conversations with Richard N. Goodwin, Latin-American assistant to the President.

Miro Cardona's council was formed in the spring to unite the several anti-Castro Cuban organizations and to serve as the group through which the Central Intelligence Agency conducted the unsuccessful invasion.

The exile leaders generally believe that the U. S. government is at a standstill for the moment on the Cuban situation, but that something will happen by fall. Just what no one seems to know.

There are seven underground organizations in Cuba, each with an exile representative in Miami. The underground was damaged during the invasion and now is going through a reorganization. One qualified source said the underground was all but destroyed during and after the invasion. The source said that it will take until October to make the underground as efficient as it once was.

Right now, almost all sabotage activity has stopped.

It is the reorganization process that might be affected by Castro's decision to declare Cuban paper money outside the island void and to issue new bills to everyone at home.

A statement over Havana radio said the move was designed to "prevent the employment of counterrevolutionary resources abroad for acts against the revolutionary government."

A key feature is that each Cuban will receive only 200 pesos of the new bills—$200 at the official exchange rate. The rest of his money will be deposited in his name in the Cuban National Bank.

Several exile leaders said that in one or two months ways will be found to operate the old systems of receiving donations from people inside Cuba and of buying pesos in Cuba with American dollars.

The Cuban money is used to buy boats, guns, cars and other supplies right under the nose of Castro's people, and to support the families of men who are working in the underground.

"I don't know how we'll do it," one leader said. "But a way will be found. We always find a way."

Midwest Hit By Storms; Heat Broken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled over lower Michigan and an isolated tornado was reported near the city of Alpena.

A thunderstorm knocked out electric power in several sections of Beloit, Wis. Fallen trees blocked traffic temporarily on four roads in the Beloit area.

Thunderstorms also broke out from the Florida Panhandle into the Carolinas, near the mountains and deserts of the Southwest, and in southern Virginia.

At Ephrata, Wash., where the mercury hit a record 115 degrees Friday, the midday reading Saturday was 76.

Across the northern border in Ontario, a violent thunderstorm lashed the Hamilton area. Thirty sailboats were capsized and basements and underpasses were flooded.

Roy Cole Sr. Dies Saturday; Rites Pending

Roy Q. Cole Sr., 68-year-old retired partner of a Monroe insurance firm, died at his residence at 114 Paragoud Dr., Monroe, Saturday evening after an illness of several years.

Mr. Cole, a native of Coushatta, was a veteran of World War I and a member of the First Baptist Church in Monroe. He has lived in this city since 1922.

Funeral arrangments were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Thelma Cole and one son, Roy Q. Cole Jr., both of Monroe.

Cuba Issues New Warning On U. S. Craft

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Cuba has issued a new warning that it "will treat American planes in the same manner as Cuban planes are treated in the United States," Havana radio said Saturday.

Planes from each country have been hijacked and taken to the other. Several Cuban planes have been embargoed and sold in the United States to satisfy debts owed by the Cuban government.

In a note to the Swiss Embassy in Havana, the Castro regime also demanded the return of a patrol boat designated the SV5 which was forced to sail from Cuba "to an American port," the radio reported.

There was no indication of when the alleged defection of the patrol craft occurred. Last Saturday, however, a 38-foot Cuban navy patrol boat, the SV8, landed at the Key West Coast Guard station and its crew of three asked for political asylum. The craft is still here.

"ACTION REALTORS"

DO IT YOURSELF!—And think how much you can save. There are 1140 sq. ft. of living area in this spacious, 2-bedroom home with separate dining room, screened porch and back service porch, extra large bath, plenty storage. With just a little fix'n you can make this into a very nice and comfortable home. A very, small down payment gets you in, with monthly payments only $56, far less than rent for this nice home. Near Plum Street School. Call us for information on how easy it is to own this home.

WEST MONROE — 22 acres of rolling land with plenty of pine trees to beautify this lovely country home, located on Hwy. 80 West, just the right distance from the busy section of town and a few minutes drive. There is a 3-bedroom, brick home with 2 complete tile baths, separate dining room and large screened walk-in pantry. The house needs some repair and the owner needs a smaller place—so let's talk turkey on this valuable suburban property. We can work the financing for reliable party.

SOUTH 9TH — YES! IT'S TRUE! A 3-bedroom, brick, only $12,500. The rooms are EXTRA large — so is the bath — much more room than you need to "cuss the cat". Carpet in living room and hall. Central heat, attic fan, 220 wiring, extra large closets, fenced back yard. Only 3 blocks from Plum Street School. Small down payment and monthly notes of $73.50, includes taxes and insurance. This is a honey — see it!

237 DUNCAN CIRCLE, W.M. — Simply wonderful! Just like new! And such a good deal. This 3-bedroom, brick, Southern Colonial would please any couple, but what a nice home for a bride to start her housekeeping in. The Price is one you can afford. Only $11,000. FHA financed on a direct loan, $400 down is all you pay. Monthly payments approx. $67 including taxes and insurance.

WEST MONROE — OLIN employees — for only $200 down you can move into a nice 3-bedroom brick home on Oakdale St. So convenient to the Plant. This is a very modern home with pretty built-ins and electric food center. This is too nice a home to be vacant. Call us, we will do everything to help you own it!

408 BETIN — So close to school, Junior can walk home and on a sidewalk too! Just a hop, skip and jump from Lady of Fatima School and Church. This nice, 3-bedroom home has a fenced-in back yard so mother does not have to worry about the small fry while she is busy about the house. There is a built-in radio, blinds, drapes, 220 wiring, extra large closets and storage. The owner will finance and to make it very easy, you can make the down payments monthly, just renting. How much better could you have it? Call us and let's make arrangements.

10 ACRES — All under new fence, with nice 4-bedroom home. Central heat, natural gas, good deep well, piped to house and new barn. Good garden with plenty vegetables ready for the freezer. This is an ideal suburban home for a family to enjoy living. You can have all the pets and animals the children desire. Only a few minutes out on good blacktopped road. Will FHA or use your GI loan. Call us for directions.

DO IT YOURSELF!—And think how much you can save. There are 1140 sq. ft. of living area in this spacious, 2-bedroom home with separate dining room, screened porch and back service porch, extra large bath, plenty storage. With just a little fix-in you can make this into a very nice and comfortable home. A very small down payment sets you in, with monthly payments only $55, for less than rent for this nice home. Near Plum Street School. Call us for information on how easy it is to own this home.

WEST MONROE — 10 acres of rolling land with plenty of pine trees to beautify this lovely country home, located on Hwy. 80 West, just the right distance from the busy section of town and a few minutes drive. There is a 3 bedroom, brick home with 2 complete tile baths, separate dining room and large screened walk-in pantry. The house needs some repair and the owner needs a smaller place—so let's talk turkey on this valuable suburban property. We can work the financing for reliable party.

SOUTH 9TH — YES! IT'S TRUE! A 3-bedroom, brick, only $12,500. The rooms are EXTRA large — so is the bath — much more room than you need to "cuss the cat". Carpet in living room and hall. Central heat, attic fan, 220 wiring, extra large closets, fenced back yard. Only 3 blocks from Plum Street School. Small down payment and monthly notes of $73.50, includes taxes and insurance. This is a honey — see it!

237 DUNCAN CIRCLE, W.M. — Simply wonderful! Just like new! And such a good deal. This 3 bedroom, brick, Southern Colonial would please any couple, but what a nice home for a bride to start her housekeeping in. The Price is one you can afford. Only $11,000. FHA financed on a direct loan. $400 down is all you pay. Monthly payments approx. $65 including taxes and insurance.

WEST MONROE — OLIN employees — for only $100 down you can move into a nice 3-bedroom brick home on Ogdale St. So convenient to the Plant. This is a very modern home with pretty built-ins and electric food center. This is too nice a home to be vacant. Call us, we will do everything to help you own it!

825 BETIN — So close to school, junior can walk home and on a sidewalk too! Just a hop, skip and jump from Lady of Fatima School and Church. This nice, 3-bedroom home has a fenced in back yard so mother does not have to worry about the small fry while she is busy about the house. There is a built-in radio blinds, drapes, 220 wiring, extra large closets and storage. The owner will finance and to make it very easy, you can make the down payments monthly, just renting. How much better could you have it? Call us and let's make arrangements.

10 ACRES — All under new fence, with nice 4-bedroom home. Central heat, natural gas, good deep well, piped to house and new barn. Good garden with plenty vegetables ready for the freezer. This is an ideal suburban home for a family to enjoy living. You can have all the pets and animals the children desire. Only a few minutes out on good blacktopped road. Will FHA or use your GI loan. Call us for directions.

Plumbing Group Schedules Meet Here Aug. 12th

Monroe will host the regular meeting of the plumbing Inspectors Association of Louisiana at the Paragon on August 12.

"This is the first time that the Association will hold a quarterly meeting here," said Tommy Semmes, plumbing inspector for the city of Monroe.

"All city plumbing inspectors from North Louisiana are invited to attend and to join the Association," he stated.

The meeting, at 1811 Auburn Ave., will get underway at 10 a.m.

A guest speaker will appear at the luncheon. The meeting will conclude at 1 p.m.

Homecoming At Luna Is Slated

The annual Luna Methodist Church homecoming will be held today, beginning at 11 a.m.

The Rev. James O. Evans will be the speaker. Revival services will be held throughout the following week.

Rev. Evans, formerly of Monroe is pastor of Heflin Methodist Church. A picnic lunch will be held at noon, and persons interested in attending have been urged to bring a picnic lunch. The church is located just off the Old Columbia-Monroe Road about 15 miles south of Monroe.

STRANGE CASE

FERRARA, Italy (AP) — Doctors at Santa Anna Hospital reported today the strange case of Peppino Villani and his wife, who were poisoned by the rats.

Peppino sprinkled rat poison liberally on the floors, then went to bed. The rats walked through it, then broke into the cupboard.

Peppino and his wife were rushed to the hospital the next day, poisoned by the powder the rats had tracked onto the family cheese. They are recovering.

STRANGE CASE

FERRARA, Italy (AP) — Doctors at Santa Anna Hospital reported today the strange case of Peppino Villani and his wife, who were poisoned by the rats.

Peppino sprinkled rat poison liberally on the floors, then went to bed. The rats walked through it, then broke into the cupboard.

Peppino and his wife were rushed to the hospital the next day, poisoned by the powder the rats had tracked onto the family cheese. They are recovering.

Plumbing Group Schedules Meet Here Aug. 12th

Monroe will host the regular meeting of the plumbing Inspectors Association of Louisiana at the Paragon on August 12.

"This is the first time that the Association will hold a quarterly meeting here," said Tommy Semmes, plumbing inspector for the city of Monroe.

"All city plumbing inspectors from North Louisiana are invited to attend and to join the Association," he stated.

The meeting, at 1811 Auburn Ave., will get underway at 10 a.m.

Representatives of manufacturing concerns will explain new methods and display recent plumbing supplies.

A guest speaker will appear at the luncheon. The meeting will conclude at 1 p.m.

Homecoming At Luna Is Slated

The annual Luna Methodist Church homecoming will be held today, beginning at 11 a.m.

The Rev. James O. Evans will be the speaker. Revival services will be held throughout the following week.

Rev. Evans, formerly of Monroe is pastor of Heflin Methodist Church. A picnic lunch will be held at noon, and persons interested in attending have been urged to bring a picnic lunch. The church is located just off the Old Columbia-Monroe Road about 15 miles south of Monroe.

THEIR TERRY, KILLED IN TH' WAR: AND TOMMY, A FINE YOUNG COP, MURDERED! AN' TH' COP KILLER? PUNISHED? FOUND GUILTY? SURE!

SO HE FAKES CRAZY FOR TEN YEARS! AN' THEN? THEN HE'S COMMUTED! YEP! OUT, FREE AS A BIRD! LAUGHIN' FIT T'KILL; AGAIN!

OH, WELL! GUESS LOTS O' NICE, SIMPLE, DECENT FOLKS FIGGER IT'S A SIN T'DO AWAY WITH A TWO-LEGGED MAD DOG! MOST OF 'EM NEVER HAD A DEAR ONE BIT BY A MAD DOG!

NOK! NOK! NOK!

OH! HELLO! COME IN!

ER! WE BEEN TALKIN'!

IT WAS MEAN, TIGER KILLIN' YOUR CAT!

WE FIGGERED WE WANT YOU T'KNOW WE'RE AWFUL SORRY!

HATLO'S HISTORY

ENOCH ARDEN DIDN'T DROWN.. HE JUST KNEW WHEN TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF CONDITIONS THAT PREVAILED ...

WHAT DO YOU MEAN "LUCKY ENOCH"? THE COURT SAID HE DROWNED SEVEN YEARS AGO!!

HEH-HEH! THE BLACK-SMITH MUST HAVE MARRIED HER! WHAT A BREAK! WELL, IT'S BACK TO THE SOUTH SEAS FOR ME... ♪ YO-HO!! BLOW THE MAN DOWN!!

NOCKY SMITH, HE CALLS HIMSELF! HE DON'T TALK MUCH, BUT HE'S ALWAYS SORT OF SMILING INSIDE...

YEAH... NOCKY'S A CARD ALL RIGHT!

HONK! HONK-HONK-

HOW DO YOU LIKE IT, CHUM?

THIRTY DAYS OF THIS!

HONK-HONK!

HONK-HONK!

JUST PUNISHMENT FOR THE DRIVER WHO HONKS HIS HORN THE MOMENT THE LIGHT CHANGES.. Thanx to TED ROYAL, NEW YORK

8-6

GIVE IT AWAY!

NOT A GOOD PIECE IN THE LOT!

FALLIN'G APART

UNTIL ONE OF THEM DECIDED TO TAKE SOMETHING... THEN THE FUN BEGAN—

YOU SAID YOU DIDN'T WANT IT!

WHY SHOULD YOU HAVE IT?!

THAT'S THE ONE THING I WANTED!

OH, ANNIE! I KNOW I'M NOT THE ONLY MOTHER WHO EVER LOST TWO SONS! WHY DID I HAVE TO TAKE OUT MY GRIEF ON POOR DANDY!

I HAD TO BLAME SOMEONE! I TRIED TO BELIEVE IT WAS ALL HIS FAULT; THAT HE DIDN'T CARE, SIMPLY BECAUSE HE KEPT HIS TERRIBLE HURT INSIDE, THE WAY MEN DO!

OH, HOW CAN I EVER MAKE UP FOR ALL THE PAIN I'VE GIVEN MY DANDY?

OH, DANDY, MY DANDY! DID ANY WIFE EVER HAVE A TRUER HUSBAND?
